Kissinger In Paris Again For Talks; Off To Saigon

Thieu Meeting Called 'Regular Consultation'

PARIS (UPI) — President Nixon's chief Vietnam adviser, Henry A.Kissinger, met today with North Vietnamese negotiators, then headed for Saigon to consult with South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu.

Announcement of Kissinger's flight to Saigon after another of his recent rounds of private talks in Paris was made by the White House.

Nixon's press secretary, Ronald L. Ziegler, said in Washington the Saigon trip was one in the series of "regular consultations" by U.S. officials with Thieu. But the stepped up activity fueled speculation that progress was being made in the peace talks.

A key stumbling block in efforts to reach a negotiated settlement of the conflict is the future of the Thieu regime.

Ziegler said the decision for Kissinger to go on to Saigon was made prior to this latest session.

He said that decision was made by the President last week on Kissinger's return from a previous four-day round of Paris negotiations.

In another unexpected twist, Kissinger met with Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation to the semipublic weekly Paris peace talks, whom the presidential adviser once spurned.

Kissinger once told how in 1971 he broke off the secret talks because Hanoi's peace negotiator, Le Duc Tho, returned home and insisted Kissinger meet only with Thuy.

Tho was believed to be in Hanoi today after consultations in Peking Monday and Moscow during the weekend. The North Vietnamese delegation said it had no comment as to when he would return.

For the first time Kissinger's retinue of aides included deputy assistant Secretary of State William Sullivan, former U.S. ambassador to Laos and an expert on Southeast Asia, and four members of the National Security Council staff. Kissinger was accompanied to his 19th conference last week by his deputy, Gen. Alexander Haig.

Kissinger left Paris Thursday after a record-breaking four days of negotiations wih Tho and Thuy. He briefed President Nixon immediately on the progress of the negotiations. The White House announced

Minor Flooding In Marin

The warm Pacific rainstorm that has soaked Northern California for a record eight days, briefly intensified last night, causing a few minor flooding problems in Southern Marin County.

Up to three inches of rain fell in a four-hour period during late afternoon and evening. This combined with high tide at about 7 p.m. to flood lowlands areas in Sausalito, Mill Valley, Tamalpais Valley, Corte Madera, Larkspur, Greenbrae and San Rafael.

Three business firms and a few homes' yards were invaded by the water, but there was surprisingly little damage, according to public works and utility officials.

Several areas reported thunder and lightning, while the storm bypassed other communities.

Arthur N. Morrison, Corte Madera public works director, said one rain gauge maintained by the city recorded 3 inches of rainfall between 4:50 p.m. and 10 p.m. Two other Corte Madera gauges received 2.6 and 2.75 inches in the same period.

The rains caused poor visibility which led to a number of minor traffic accidents and slowed commute traffic, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Commuters who had left their cars parked on Seminary Drive in the Strawberry area alighted from buses to find their autos floorboard-deep in water. A foot of water invaded the floor of the Saab auto agency in Corte Madera, and water backed into the nearby Koch Luggage Co. plant.

Southern Marin Auto Body Reconstruction, 3001 Bridgeway, was flooded with about two feet of water in the plant. The Sausalito Fire Department was still pumping out the flooded business this morning.

In Sausalito, excessive water pouring from storm drains for Highway 101 caused some flooding of backyards last night in the area of Marion Avenue and Coloma Street.

Tamalpais Valley firemen were called out to sandbag the sides of drainage ditches to halt water that had invaded homes. Kentfield firemen had to pump out a residential swimming pool.

Low spots alongside Highway 101 in Corte Madera and Larkspur, and Bon Air Road in the county area near Larkspur were under water as the tide peaked at about 7 p.m.

Water covered the southerly end of Francisco Boulevard in

Massive Search For Boggs Plane

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — A fleet of 30 planes was thrown into a massive search today for a light plane lost over the Alaskan wilderness yesterday with Rep. Hale Boggs, Alaska's lone congressman Nick Begich and two others aboard.

Search headquarters at Elmendorf Air Force Base said Civil Air Patrol, Coast Guard and Air Force planes were participating in a coordinated effort to comb the rugged mountain wilderness along the Gulf of Alaska where the twin-engine plane disappeared in a rainstorm.

An HC-130 Hercules with 11 men from the 41st Aerospace Rescue and Recovery Squadron at Hamilton Air Force Base has joined the search, and the base is preparing to send two more crews.

An electronically equipped Air Force C130 flew over the area throughout the night, listening for signals from the lost aircraft's emergency transmitter.

Weather in the search area was "very marginal," an Air Force spokesman said, with low clouds and poor visibility.

Boggs, the Democratic House Majority Leader, was in Alaska on a political fund-raising tour.

Boggs, 58, of Louisiana, Rep. Nick Begich, Alaska's lone Congressman, his aide, Russ Brown, and Don Jonz, an experienced Alaska pilot, were aboard the plane which was en route from Anchorage to Juneau.

The white and orange painted Cessna 310 took off at 9:12 a.m. ADT (2:12 p.m. EDT) and was to have arrived in the southern part of the state 3 1-2 hours later.

Boggs, a veteran of 26 consecutive years in Congress plus an earlier two-year term after which he was defeated for reelection, has often been a supporter of liberal Democratic legislation.

He had been scheduled to address a fund-raising dinner for Begich before departing for Seattle, Wash., and Washington, D.C.

The Air Force at Elmendorf Air Force Base took immediate charge of the search and sent aloft several planes which were joined by Coast Guard and Civil Air Patrol aircraft.

The pilot's flight plan, filed with the Federal Aviation Administration, gave the route as over the lonely Chugah mountains to the Prince William Sound,

South Korea Put Under Martial Law; Call For Political Reform

SEOUL (UPI) — President Park Chung Hee today put South Korea under martial law and said the people must approve his plans for political reform if the talks with North Korea on national unification are to continue.

Park's surprise announcement was made to the nation at 6:45 p.m. (5:45 a.m. EDT) and martial law went into effect 15 minutes later. Park dissolved Parliament, suspended the constitution he helped draft in 1963, and banned all political activity.

The former army general, who came to power in 1961, said amendments to the constitution would be announced by Oct. 27 and submitted to a vote of the people.

Park said that if the amendments are turned down by the referendum, he will interpret it as an expression of the will of the people against the dialogue between North and South Korea.

"And then I will seek a new approach to the task of national unification," Park added.

Park's move came only one week before the third round of talks between the North and South Kgrean Red Cross organizations on the question of reuniting divided Korean families. The talks are scheduled to resume Oct. 24 in the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

Whether the unpredictable North Koreans would seize on Park's latest move as an excuse for delaying the negotiations remained to be seen. There was no immediate comment from North Korean news outlets.

The president said that a major reform is necessary not only to push the North-South dialogue positively, but to cope with changes in the international situation.

Following the martial-law proclamation, soldiers in armored vehicles took up positions around major public buildings in the heart of Seoul.

Alto Bowl Project Is Killed

By JAY GOODWIN

Two years after approving the Cal-Fong Investment Corp.'s master plan for a 109-unit cottage development in Alto Bowl, the Mill Valley City Council last night effectively killed the controversial project. (Another Mill Valley City Council story, page 7.)

The council voted 4-0, with Mayor Jean S. Barnard absent, to uphold an appeal of a recent planning commission decision which would have given the developers an extra year to submit precise plans.

Approval of the appeal — which was made by John McFadden and supported by a chamber full of Alto Bowl and Scott Valley residents — effectively blocks the moderate-income development.

When approved in September 1970, permissable density of the project was increased from 83 single-family houses to 104 cottages and five one-family residences on the 27-acre parcel.

Norman T. Gilroy, representing Cal-Fong, said council denial of the one-year extension would probably mean that Cal-Fong will build 83 single-family houses across the entire parcel. The 109-unit project would be far more desirable, argued Gilroy, because it would concentrate the homes on the lower 10 acres and leave 17 acres of Ridgeland for open space.

Speaking on behalf of McFadden and several Alto Bowl homeowners, attorney Gregory Dyer argued that Cal-Fong had exceeded the two years it was allowed to submit its precise plans.

Cal-Fong was granted a variance by the planning commission on Sept. 20, extending that deadline for one year, but Dyer argued that the challenged variance couldn't take effect until the appeal was resolved by the council.

By the time the appeal was resolved last night — in favor of the opponents of Cal-Fong — the developer's two year filing period had already elapsed.

Gilroy said his client was not negligent in failing to submit precise plans. He said the sewer hookup ban in Mill Valley made it unlikely that any construction would be possible in Alto Bowl in the near future. Thus, Cal-Fong did not want to

Edwina Codoni To Seek Council Post

Edwina Codoni, longtime San Rafael educator, today announced she will seek election to the San Rafael City Council next April 17.

She is the first to announce candidacy for the race, in which two council seats are open. Councilmen Harry A. Barbier and Lawrence E. Mulryan, whose terms expire, are expected to run for reelection.

Mis Codoni, 61, has been an educator for 40 years, all but three in the San Rafael school system. She has been principal of the old B Street School as well as West End, Sun Valley, Short and Gallinas schools. She is now principal of Coleman School, a post she has held for nine years.

She said today she would retire from the San Rafael school system in June and was "proud to run for a city council seat."

She said she sees the city's redevelopment plans as a means of "bringing the people back to liking each other," and added she had submitted a 15-point priority list of possible redevelopment projects to the city redevelopment agency.

"I'd also like to see the American flag flying from every house along Fourth Street.

Mid-October Poll Sees Nixon Landslide-Bound

By GODFREY SPERLING JR.
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

WASHINGTON, D.C. — If the election were held today, Richard Nixon would sweep the country — winning everywhere except in Massachusetts, West Virginia, Wisconsin, and the District of Columbia.

This is the assessment of Christian Science Monitor political writers in the 50 states and the District of Columbia, a finding that is even more Nixonian in its complexion than in late July.

At that lime Sen. George McGovern was seen ahead in six states — Hawaii, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Rhode Island, West Virginia, and South Dakota, plus the District of Columbia.

The new survey does show the Democratic candidate narrowing the gap in nine states: Alaska, California, Maryland, New Hampshire, New York, South Carolina, Tennessee, Utah, and Washington.

But at the same time the President has widened his lead

Expense Battle In Tam District

By PAT PERRY

Tamalpais High School District trustees locked horns with district teachers' representatives last night in a battle over a proposed tight rein on travel and entertainment spending.

And after the employees' spokesmen had officially asked for a "meet and confer" session over the policy under the Winton Act, and trustees refused, both sides withdrew at midnight announcing they would consult their lawyers.

Cause of the controversy was a policy drafted by Trustee Jerrold M. Ladar which would require board approval for trips by employees and limit expense spending to $25 per day.

Teachers' union spokesmen made it clear that they considered the policy violated a previously negotiated "staff development policy" which allots 1 per cent of the district's operating budget for "professional growth."

Of the $98,000 budgeted for that this year, a total of $68,000 is earmarked for conferences, workshops and seminars, trustees were told. The three high schools have the right to spend their share themselves, union representatives said, without getting board approval.

Trustee Bette Wallace said abuses of district money on expense spending detailed in an Independent Journal article "are a source of great anguish to the board. I think an awful lot of responsibility is going to be up to the teachers' associations. We have had a very lenient policy which obviously was a mistake — this is the kind of policy-making that comes out of that kind of response."

Angrily Trueman Whorton, representing the Tamalpais District Teachers Association asked:

"Do you feel the majority of teachers are abusing this?"

Supt. Wilber D. Hawkins interrupted hastily, saying that the dialogue "is not healthy. . .Mrs. Wallace is not accusing the teaching staff, what she is really saying is that the past is done, we are here to provide guidelines."

Duane F. Miller, representing the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers, said there might have been abuses which should be corrected, but abuses should not result in a punitive kind of action.

Mrs. Wallace retorted that she did not consider it punitive, and the possibility of the policy being "wrangled over" for weeks and months in the Certificated Employees Council appalled her.

"The situation is far too serious — you couldn't possibly understand what it is we see," she said.

Miller disagreed, saying that

POW National League Falls In Behind Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The largest organization of families of American prisoners of war has closed ranks behind President Nixon and refused to pass any resolution even implying a criticism of government policy.

The National League of Families of American Prisoners and Missing in Southeast Asia took the stance Monday after President Nixon, in a surprise appearance before 750 delegates, received loud cheers when he promised that "under no circumstances" would he abandon the prisoners and missing. He also spoke out against amnesty for men who refused to serve in the war.

League members scheduled final sessions of their third annual meeting today. Monday, the atmosphere was charged with emotion and the voice of many a wife and mother broke slightly as they described their own years of anguish.

One of the resolutions called on Nixon to proclaim return of the prisoners to be "the primary consideration for ending the war —all other considerations to be secondary."

Opposing the resolution, Mrs. Elizabeth Beddinger of Pennsylvania told a hushed crowd, "I've given two sons in this war. I've buried one and the other is a prisoner. But the state of the country and the world comes first —comes before even my hopes for my son."

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Plot Arrests

MANILA (UPI) — At least four persons including two foreigners have been arrested by military authorities for involvement in an alleged Communist assassination plot against President Ferdinand E. Marcos, the Philippine government announced today.

Information Secretary Francisco S. Tatad told a news briefing a Filipino and a "non-Asian" foreigner were arrested several days ago while preparing to flee the country. He said a private aircraft and a boat were impounded.

Earlier, Tatad said authorities arrested two persons aboard a "sound proof and bullet proof" vehicle parked inside the presidential Malacanang Palace ground. He said the vehicle contained sniper weapons, including a rifle with a telescopic sight, and was specially fitted with a window — "enough to accommodate a machine gun or a sniper's rifle."

A Brief Meeting

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., and Republican Senate nominee Winton M. Blount must have had a strong inkling their visit with Gov. George C. Wallace would be brief.

The driver left the motor of their car running.

Goldwater, who swept a number of Alabama GOP candidates into office when he carried Alabama in his 1964 presidential race, visited with Wallace about 25 minutes Monday. But he and Blount, running for the Senate from Alabama, failed to get Wallace to change his mind and publicly support President Nixon.

He firmly endorsed Sen. John J. Sparkmjn, Blount's opponent, and other local Democrats in the Nov. 7 general election.

Plenty Of Food

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A plant scientist has asserted that the earth can produce enough food to feed 50 times its present population.

The assessment was made yesterday at a fall meeting of the National Academy of Sciences by Dr. Frits W. Went of the University of Nevada. His confidence was shared by other participants in the session on plant growth regulation.

Guests Sought

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Police sought two missing Argentine guests of the Sheraton Hotel today in the investigation of a terrorist bombing yesterday which killed a Canadian tourist and wounded her husband and a Massachusetts woman.

Authorities tentatively blamed the explosion on followers of exiled strongman Juan D. Peron who observe "Loyalty Day" today to mark their enduring allegiance to the man who ruled this country from 1945 to 1956.

The blast shattered two rooms on the 22nd floor of the 24-story building, killing Lois Crouzier, 36, of West Vancouver, Canada, and injuring her husband, Gerald, and Patricia Trakas of Milton, Mass. Miss Trakas apparently was visiting the Crouziers, police said.

Anniversary Set

MOSCOW (UPI) — Invitations will soon go out to the president of the United States and other non-Communist heads of state to attend celebrations marking the 50th anniversary of the Soviet Union, diplomatic sources said.

President Nixon is not likely to attend the Dec. 30 event himself, the sources said, but he probably will send a high-level delegation.

China is another likely absentee, the sources said. Chinese leaders have boycotted every Soviet celebration in recent years. The sources said yesterday that some capitalist countries already have been invited for the anniversary, but said the invitation to the U.S. chief executive is not likely to go out until after the American presidential election Nov. 7.

Situation Tense

BELFAST (UPI) — The British Army killed four persons during the night, two of them Protestants run down by army vehicles. A militant Protestant group declared a virtual state of war against the army and against Britain.

Two men were run over and killed by army vehicles during Protestant rioting in east Belfast early today, and soldiers shot and killed two men at a roadblock at Coagh, southwest of Belfast, bringing the death toll in three years of sectarian violence to 609.

Supporters Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leaders of the congressional black caucus say that black entertainers and athletes supporting President Nixon's candidacy are "fools" who have been "duped by . . . one of their greatest oppressors."

"Sammy Davis Jr., Lionel Hampton, Billy Eckstein, James Brown, Johnny Mathis and Jim Brown all have one thing in common," said Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, yesterday. "They are all dancing to the tune of 'benign neglect.' "

Stokes, chairman of the caucus of the 13 blacks in the House, said Nixon "has begun to strip away the constitutional and human rights of minority, poor and disadvantaged Americans" in his stand against school busing and his vetoes of education money bills to help ghetto schools and child care programs.

Mock Lunar Rescue

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI) — Three tank-like armored personnel carriers roared out of the darkness to the base of the Apollo 17 moon rocket last night and seven silver suited firemen raced up to the 320-foot level.

Ten minutes after the initial alert, the firemen wheeled three mock astronauts on stretchers into the silvery vehicles and headed toward a waiting helicopter 7,000 feet away.

It was the first full-scale rehearsal of an astronaut rescue at night under the glare of 130 searchlights circling the oceanside launch pad.

Apollo 17's crewmen, Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Dr. Harrison H. (Jack) Schmitt, are scheduled for launch at 9:53 p.m. EST Dec. 6 on the nation's last scheduled lunar landing expedition.

Petaluma Session

The Petaluma Board of Education will meet in a special closed door session at 8 p.m. today to discuss salary negotiations. The board will give guidelines to Schools Supt. Lesly H. Meyer in his negotiations with teachers and classified employees.

Allies Expect New Red Attacks

SAIGON (UPI) — Military sources said today allied commanders expect a new wave of Communist attacks across South Vietnam this weekend in a campaign to influence the Nov. 7 U.S. presidential election.

The sources said intelligence reports indicate the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong would launch the new offensive Friday or Saturday. They said the attacks were expected in all four of the country's military regions.

Allied commanders for the past several weeks have been predicting the Communist attacks, including one on Saigon, in a drive to discredit President Nixon's Vietnamization program. But today's disclosure was the first time specific dates for the attacks were cited.

UPI reporter Matt Franjola said South Vietnamese forces had found a "recent" Communist document calling on Viet Cong troops to capture as many small villages as possible "to show the flag" in central South Vietnam.

The document, called the X10 Resolution and apparently written by a regional Communist headquarters, was captured in the Central Highlands province of Pleiku, Franjola reported.

A general lull in fighting across the country was reported today but Franjola said North Vietnamese forces hit two tiny hamlets in Pleiku Province in the Central Highlands about 230 miles northeast of Saigon.

He said South Vietnamese reinforcements flown in by helicopter recaptured one of the villages before nightfall and were fighting for the other. He said government sources listed 12 Communists killed at a cost of 11 South Vietnamese dead and 17 wounded. Of the South Vietnamese casualties, five of the dead and 13 of the wounded were civilians, the sources told Franjola.

Abrams Off To Vietnam For Laird

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Less than 24 hours after taking office as the new Army chief of staff, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams Jr. has headed back to Vietnam on a special mission for Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird.

Officially Abrams' assignment is to take a first hand look at the war —which he directed during the past four years as the U.S. Commander in Vietnam —and to report back to Laird in about a week.

The Defense Department refused to comment on whether Abrams' trip was related to the Paris peace negotiations.

"Secretary Laird has asked General Abrams to make an on the scene evaluation of Vietnamization progress," said Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Freidheim. His unexpected announcement came within an hour after Abrams was sworn in at 10:30 a.m. EDT Monday.

Marin City Units Win Support

The Marin County Planning Commission in a 4-2 vote yesterday approved preliminary plans for 444 luxury apartment and townhouse dwellings in the redevelopment area of Marin City.

The endorsement was resisted by commissioners William B. Lynch and John F. West who said the project would create a white, high-income enclave in a predominantly black, low-income ghetto.

The project, the first major development proposal for Marin City in several years, calls for 284 apartment units and 160 townhouse dwellings on 35 acres.

According to the developer, Mid-City Developers of Washington, D.C., the units would be priced for middle and upper-income families. Townhouses, for instance, would sell from $30,000 to $36,000.

Both Lynch and West said they couldn't support the development since it excluded low and moderate-income families from purchasing or renting. They also declared it contrary to the county's policy and the Marin City master plan.

Wallace K. Shepherd, executive director of the county's redevelopment agency, said he felt adding more low and moderate-income housing units to Marin City would compound existing problems in the community.

He said the higher-income family housing was needed to balance the social and economic make-up of Marin City.

Shepherd added that he doubted the Department of Housing and Urban Development would help finance the project if low-income housing were included.

Shepherd drew support from chairman Jack G. Nixon who said low and moderate-income family housing could be included when the Ridgelands above the community are developed.

Planning Director Werner Von Gundell, who said the proposal was one of the best ever-submitted, warned that to require a percentage of low and moderate-income housing might jeopardize the project.

"It's imperative we get something going in Marin City," Commissioner George P. Leonard agreed. He moved to endorse the preliminary development plans.

"Nothing is more important than an economic mix," responded Lynch. "I can't support a unilateral backing off of those criteria.

"We're giving them everything and walking away from low and moderate-income housing. There's not even a token gesture to the people of Marin City that they can move into those units."

He joined West in urging the commission to delay any endorsement until more detailed development plans are submitted.

Other commissioners disagreed, however, and the motion to endorse the plan passed on a 4-2 vote. Commissioner Margaret B. Azevedo was absent.

Detailed development plans must still be approved by the commission during a public hearing and ultimately by the county board of supervisors.

The commission carried over 18 other agenda items to Oct. 30 pending decision on how to comply with a state Supreme Court ruling that requires environmental impact reports on all major development proposals.

The commission's action followed County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney's outline of the decision and procedures being set up by the county.

The commission also rejected an appeal from Ellen Wright of 898 Chamberlain Court, Tamalpais Valley, that she be allowed to continue keeping horses behind her home.

Neighbors persuaded the commission to deny the request after complaining of noise, dust, flies and odor.

Novato 4-H Member Is Winner Of State Award

Richard D. Tuck of Novato has been named California state winner in the 4-H electricity program.

Tuck, 18, son of Dr. and Mrs. L. Dallas Tuck of 833 Eucalyptus, will attend the national 4-H congress, Nov. 26 through 30 in Chicago, as the guest of the Westinghouse Corp.

In his seven years with the Novato Valley 4-H Club, he has received the county winner award in electricity four times. He also won awards for community beautification, outstanding reporter, junior leader merit award, community pride award and county all-star. He was Marin County delegate to national 4-H citizenship short course in Washington D.C. last year and this year received the McClelland Scholarship.

He is attending the California Institute of Technology in Pasadena this year, studying physical sciences.

He has constructed a stereo set from kits, an oscilloscope from an old television, a temperature controlled oscillator, a keyboard controlled oscillator which plays three octaves of musical notes and an integreated circuit calculator.

A graduate of San Marin High School, he was active in community affairs, serving on the Novato Enviroment Committee, Trash Bash Committee. He worked on the nativity scene for the chamber of commerce and did volunteer work on Pioneer Memorial Park and Leroy Gerner Park on Novato Creek.

He was awarded a life membership in the California Scholarship Federation, the John Phillip Sousa Band Award, Bank of America Award for mathematics and award of merit for outstanding achievement in the school's science department.

Part-Time College Teachers Present Pay Increase Pleas

Two trustees of the Marin Community College District last night listened to part-time teachers plead for a pay raise and then disagree with each other on whether such an increase was justified.

The issue will be discussed further by the full board at its regular meeting tomorrow at 8 p.m. in Room 101, Science Building, College of Marin.

Attending last night's workshop session called specifically to discuss part-time teachers were Theodore C. Wellman, president of the board; Trustee Francis Compton and about a dozen full-time and part-time teachers.

The teachers are asking that part-time teachers be paid 80 per cent of the full-time teacher's salary instead of 60 per cent as at present and that they be allowed to join the district's health plan.

Kay Ryan, representing the Part-time Faculty Association for Equal Status, presented the requests in a letter which contended that part-time teachers have background and responsibility equal to full-time teachers. "What we want," the letter said, "is equal pay for equal work."

Mrs. Compton said she favored raising part-time pay to the 80 per cent level, calling the present proportion "unfair."

But Wellman disagreed on financial grounds. He cited statistics collected by Dr. John A. Grasham district superintendent and president, ranking the district eighth out of 56 surveyed with an average hourly rate of $16.59 for part-time teachers.

"I don't think our salary is anything to be ashamed of. . . I still think that $16.59 an hour is still a very high pay level in any league", he told the group.

Using the same packet of statistics, he noted that raising the salaries from 60 per cent to 80 per cent would cost $176,880 this year and $1,027,380 over a five-year period.

He questioned the effect on the district's reserve fund and pondered the possibility of several part-time teachers being cut from the staff to compensate for such an increase.

Berkeley Johnson, dean of instruction, said the way he interpreted it, "You can be financially prudent or you can be fair."

He supported the Faculty Association's plea of equal pay for equal work and alluded to a portion of its letter which implied possible legal implications.

It said, "The fair employment laws of the U.S. require like remuneration for like work. We have chosen not to pursue this avenue in the faith that honorable people will make a change where change is obviously called for."

Part-time teachers make up nearly half of College of Marin's instructors, numbering 105 as compared to 155 fulltime teachers. They are permitted to teach a maximum of three classes and spokesmen have said that many must obtain food stamps and other government aid because average pay is about $125 a month for each class taught.

They contend that most part-time teachers provide the same quality of instruction, spend as much time on class preparation and are available to students for consultation as much as full-time personnel.

They also complain that part-time faculty members are not allowed to join the district's group medical plan even at their own expense.

Cox Says Youth Support Nixon

BAKERSFIELD (UPI) — Edward Cox, son-in-law of President Nixon, said Monday many young people want to vote for the President next month "but are afraid to air their views publicly" for fear of violence from opponents of the Republican party.

Cox said that during appearances on college campuses on behalf of the President, young people had come up to him and whispered, "I support the President."

"Many young people are afraid to air their views publicly," he said.

He said supporters of Nixon were afraid to paste bumper stickers pledging support to the President because their cars might be wrecked.

Queen's Visit

Jail Time Given On Checks Case

A 21-year-old San Francisco resident who failed to appear for sentencing in March was ordered yesterday to serve 120 days in Marin County Jail on three counts of possessing checks with intent to defraud others.

Judge Henry J. Broderick of Marin Superior Court also placed Linda Marie Elliott on probation for two years.

She was convicted in March by a Marin jury of having stolen checks totaling $122 passed at two San Rafael stores May 8, 1971, but failed to appear for sentencing.

She was arrested on a federal warrant Sept. 16 issued after she failed to appear in the spring of 1971 on a charge of forging money orders.

According to her probation officer, her criminal activity began in September 1969 when she met ex-convict Earl Joseph and apparently ceased when she left him in May 1971. Joseph is currently facing charges of murder and kidnap in Washing-ton State, the officers.

STORM

San Rafael, but did no damage to businesses.

Miller Avenue and East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley were partly closed at the same time.

The Eastbound lane of Shoreline Highway, just west of Tam Junction, was closed by flooding for about a block near Gibson Avenue.

A few minor mud slides occurred, but did not block any traffic lanes. Several Fairfax streets were "curb to curb rivers" during the supper hours, residents said.

Rainfall was spotty, as it has been throughout the eight-day storm. In the 24 hours ending at 8 a.m. today, Mill Valley had 2.74 inches, while nearby Sausalito had only 1.25 inches. Twenty-four hour totals elsewhere included: Tiburon, 1.20; San Anselmo, 1.68; Woodacre, 1.33; San Rafael, 2.25; Bolinas1.58; Marinwood 2.75; Novato, 1.02 inches, and Petaluma only .25 inch.

This is the third wettest October since 1875, according to records kept by Crocker Bank in San Rafael, with two weeks still to go. San Rafael rainfall during October stood today at 8.19 inches, exceeded only by October total of 11.87 inches in 1889 and 11.13 inches in 1962.

Federal weather experts predicted a 50 per cent chance of rain tonight, and 30 per cent tomorrow.

The Workd Series game in the Oakland Coliseum was still scheduled to begin this evening, barring further downpours.

First Look At General Plan Set Tomorrow

A first look at a general plan study for the San Quentin Peninsula will be available to Larkspur residents tomorrow at a joint meeting of the city council and planning commission at 8 p.m. in city hall.

Dan Coleman and Associates have prepared the study for the city, but were paid for their work by T.I. Properties, a firm which hopes to build high density housing and commercial ventures on the land.

A rezoning for T.I. Properties' holdings — the Hutchinson Quarry and the Remillard lands — was approved by the planning commission in September, but the action was rescinded after the Larkspur Town Meeting challenged the validity of the 2-1 commission vote.

Moore To Talk At High School

Harry Moore, Democratic candidate for the state assembly from Marin-Sonoma counties will speak at 11 a.m. tomorrow at San Rafael High School and on radio station KSRO, Santa Rosa, at 6 p.m. the same day.

He and Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, will debate on Marin Sounding Board" at 9:45 a.m., Thursday on station KTIM.

A coffee will be held for him at 10 a.m. Friday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Metzger at 622 Robin Drive, Corte Madera.

Camera Stolen

POLL

in 16 states: Alabama, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, New Jersey, Ohio, Oklahoma, and Wyoming.

Also, Nixon has taken the lead away from Senator McGovern in Hawaii, Rhode Island, Minnesota, and the senator's home state, South Dakota.

In addition, the President now leads, according to the survey, in Pennsylvania, a state that was labeled "too close to call" in July.

McGovern has picked up only one state from Nixon: Wisconsin. In July the Wisconsin assessment was "slight edge to Nixon." Now it is "slight edge to McGovern." The state obviously could go in either direction.

Significant elements in the survey:

In a state-by-state Monitor appraisal of the Nixon-Humphrey race in mid-October, 1968, there was evidence for the first time of a great upturn in Humphrey's direction.

The fact that there is now little hope in the McGovern situation — as reflected in the survey — may indicate that it is too late for him to turn this into a hotly contested race.

By and large, the writers did not see any major factor that might give the election to McGovern.

But there were several factors mentioned that would help him: a massive Nixon blunder, the "catching on" with the voters of the charges of scandal against the administration, and a particularly heavy pro-McGovern youth vote.

There was no general perception among these political observers that the Nixon lead would widen further. But several writers commented that a peace settlement in Vietnam would give the President further support among the electorate.

In considering the survey as a whole and its implications this can be said:

The Democratic candidate seems headed for one of the worst drubbings in the history of American presidential politics.

Further, the apparent one-sidedness of the outcome will leave the Democratic party divided and demoralized — much as was the plight of the Republican party after President Johnson overwhelmed Barry Goldwater in 1964.

The Republican party healed its wounds and came together behind Nixon in a matter of just four years' time.

But the Democrats may well be hard put to find a leader who will be able to pull their party together, someone who will appeal to the blacks, the youth, and the academic community and still be able to bring blue-collar workers, the southerners, and the Roman Catholics back to the party from which many are straying in the presidential year.

This survey, along with the leading polls, still doesn't rule out the possibility that McGovern may yet make a last-minute sprint. But it does indicate that time for the Democratic candidate is growing exceedingly short.

CODONI

I'm proud of my flag and my city."

A native of Point Reyes, Miss Codoni attended San Rafael High School and graduated from the teachers college that is now San Francisco State.

She lives at 49 Hillcrest Drive in San Rafael.

Another educator, Carl J. (Red) Brown, said today he is "seriously considering" making a bid for a council seat. Brown, a former member of the city's board of education, is athletic director at Sir Francis Drake High School.

Agreement On Fire Damage Payment Reached

The Lagunitas School District board last night reached an agreement with the Insurance Company of North America for approximately $40,000 payment for damages from a Sept. 14 blaze in two buildings at Lagunitas School.

The insurance company will pay $14,729 for structure damage and $26,243 for the contents, according to board secretary Anna Mae Kondratieff.

She said the board discussed the possibility of buying a used portable building rather than repair the more badly damaged building immediately in order to have a place for classes sooner.

Jail, Fine Given For Grand Theft

Angelo Allegra, 47, of Novato received 90 days in jail and a 4500 fine yesterday for selling used cars with odometers rolled back.

Judge David Menary Jr. of Marin Superior Court also placed him on probation for three years and ordered him to make restitution to anyone who makes a valid claim that Allegra sold him a car with an altered mileage reading.

Allegra was convicted of two counts of grand theft, selling cars for more than they were worthy by rolling back the mileage, by a jury in July.

Allegra and Timothy Daniel O'Donnell, 31, of Oakland were arrested in November last year after a lengthy investigation by the state department of motor vehicles that began when a man who sold his well-traveled Vookswagen to a dealer in Santa Rosa in April 1971 saw it later in San Rafael used car lot with 53,000 fewer miles on the odometer.

PARIS

Kissinger's rapid return, the presence of the aides and the fact he was willing to talk only to Thuy indicated a sense of urgency to political observers. The U.S. elections are a scant three weeks away.

President Nixon at the same time dispatched his new army chief of staff, Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, to Saigon. Abrams is said to be closer to South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu than any other American.

The hurdle in the negotiations long has been said by both sides to be the queston as to who would take power in Saigon and under what terms.

Nixon told some American war prisoners' families on Monday that "very intensive negotiations" were in progress to bring "an honorable peace."

President Thieu called a special cabinet meeting on Tuesday and on Monday conferred with his National Security Council, the chief of the South Vietnamese delegation to the Paris peace talks and the South Vietnamese ambassador to the United States.

The Pentagon in Washington refused to discuss whether Abrams' trip, following a Monday afternoon meeting with President Nixon, was related to the Kissinger talks in Paris.

The newest meeting came just four days after Kissinger ended his 19th session with the North Vietnamese, an unprecedented four days of private talks.

The White House said Kissinger was meeting this time with Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's minister to the regular Paris peace talks. The chief North Vietnamese negotiator in most of Kissinger's secretive Paris talks, Hanoi Politburo member Le Duc Tho, was believed to be still in Hanoi.

The private talks began in mid-1969 and have taken place at irregualar intervals since then. In the last month there have been four private sessions, representing an accelerated pace in the discussions.

Library Contract Approved

Installation of rest rooms in the San Rafael Public Library is ready to go to bid, the library board was informed last night.

The board approved in substance a proposed contract with architect Andrew James Ring III for preliminary architectural work on library expansion, asking that copies of the contract in its final form be sent to all board members.

Librarian Vivian Smith reported for Ring that test cores have been taken from the library foundation to determine whether it meets standards for earthquake protection. Although the tests have not been completed, so far no deterioration has been found, she said.

The board, on motion of trustee Ella May Minneman, unanimously authorized Mrs. Smith and a member of her staff to attend the California Library Association convention next month in Disneyland. Expenses will come from $800 budgeted for travel and training.

Trustee Alice Dalbey was absent.

TAM

the policy in effect repealed the staff development policy.

Ladar in turn disagreed with him, saying that "there has been abuse, the evidence is very clear. And one of the abuses we feel involved is too many attendances at conferences."

Robert M. Kuehnl, chairman of the Certificated Employees Council, said that under the staff development policy each high school "has the right and prerogative to distribute" its share of the $68,000 "as they see fit."

Mrs. Wallace and Ladar disagreed emphatically — "legally we can't give up that responsibility," said Mrs. Wallace. "If the intent of the staff development policy is to remove from the board its capability of determining how the district's money is spent I'm not willing to abdicate that responsibility. It's always the board held accountable legally, publicly and morally."

Frank Mulholland, representing the Tamalpais Administrators Association, said they were very concerned that the policy should be workable; the staff development funds had already been allocated to the three schools where the "decision making process" was in operation.

Thomas M. Lorch, Drake's leader of educational planning, asked what was going to happen between last night and the Nov. 6 board meeting when the policy comes up for action.

"All hell's going to break loose," predicted trustee chairman Robert W. Corlett.

Kuehnl and Miller formally asked the board for a "meet and confer" session under the Winton Act to negotiate on the proposed policy.

Trustees refused, without taking a vote, instructing Hawkins to consult county counsel. The teachers' spokesmen were given permission to consult their organizations' attorneys.

The battle over conference spending did not begin until after ten o'clock because the board meeting began with a comprehensive presentation on the district's foreign language program by faculty members, complete with video-tapes of classes.

Arguments on the policy lasted until nearly midnight. Then the four members of the board present — Ladar, Corlett, Mrs. Wallace and Frank L. Miller — unanimously passed a resolution opposing Proposition 14, the property tax measure, after a speech by Whorton. Trustee David D. Ring was absent.

They also officially recognized the Certificated Employees Council, assigning nine seats for 1972-73: one to the Tamalpais Administrators Association, six to the Tamalpais District Teachers Association, and two to the Tamalpais Federation of Teachers. The council is the official negotiating body for certificated employees.

Novato Man Gets Jail In Check Case

A 21-year-old Novatan who pleaded guilty to two counts of writing checks on another person's account received 60 days in jail yesterday.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also placed David Wade Cameron on three years of probation, ordered him to pay $300 restitution and told him the felonies will be reduced to misdemeanors if he fulfills his expressed intention to join the Marines after his release from jail.

A third count for writing checks on the account of a friend, Vivian Brogden, was dismissed as part of a plea bargain when he pleaded guilty Aug. 25.

Cameron, who told his probation officer he was using methadrine at the time, was charged with writing checks at Novato area stores and a bank between June and September 1971.

Scandinavians Visit I-J Plant

About 40 Scandinavian newspapermen who are on an American tour visited the Independent-Journal plant in San Rafael today.

The group included editors, production managers and general managers of newspapers in Denmark, Finland, Norway and Sweden. They were members of the Scandinavian Newspaper Technical Cooperative Council.

They toured the plant, viewing the I-J's photo composition-letter press printing process.

They were later scheduled to visit Muir Woods.

OBITUARIES

Ralph H. Sartori Dies At 60

Ralph H. Sartori, 60, Petaluma dairyman, died yesterday at Hillcrest Hospital after collapsing at his home.

The Sonoma County Coroners Office said death was apparently due to natural causes.

Sartori was a lifelong Petaluma resident and operated a dairy ranch at 120 Casa Grande Road. He was a member of Petaluma Elks Lodge No. 901 and Native Sons of the Golden West, Nicasio Parlor.

He is survived by his wife, Eda; two sons, Duane Sartori of Petaluma and Ralph L. Sartori of New York; two daughters, Shirley Sullivan of Santa Rosa and Barbara Thomas of Healdsburg; two brothers, Ernest Sartori of Petaluma and Victor Sartori of Santa Rosa; eight sisters, Isabel Ramatici, Edna Corda, Elsie Corry, Josephine Bragga, Dorothy Marcucci of Petaluma, Flora Pozzi of Sonoma, Evelyn Corda of Novato and Helen Eaton of Seattle, Wash., and seven grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Contributins may be made to St. James Catholic Church, Petaluma.

invest in precise plans for a development that could not be built for years.

Gilroy also said he had been misled by the city staff about the timetable for filing his variance request. He said he originally asked the staff about filing for a one-year extension last March and was told that the application could wait until the summer.

Dyer also claimed the proposed developers had not fulfilled the conditions specified by the city council in 1970 when it approved the master plan for the hotly contested project.

At the time, the council said contracts must be let for flood control work and access routes must be worked out by the developer and the Mill Valley School District. Neither of those conditions has been met by Cal-Fong, said Dyer.

The motion to sustain the appeal was made by Councilman Gerald J. Hood and seconded by Councilman Edward J. Boessenecker, one of the two councilmen who opposed the project in 1970.

Councilmen Robert E. Capron, who presided in Mrs. Barnard's absence, and Robert E. Burton also voted to uphold McFadden's appeal.

Burton said he voted to deny the one-year extension because it failed to meet the requirements for a variance and not because he opposed the moderate-income project. He criticized the council and the audience for what he termed an "opportunistic" attempt to block the development at an inappropriate stage of the planning process.

New Director For Boys Center

Rev. James E. Pulskamp, a native of Kentfield, and former associate pastor of St. Vincent de Paul Church in Petaluma, has been named director of the Hanna Boys Center in Sonoma County.

Father Pulskamp, 31, has been associate director of the center since 1970. He was ordained in 1967 and served in Petaluma before earning a master's degree at San Diego State College.

He replaces Rev. Msgr. William L. O'Connor, 65, who was cofounder of the center and has headed it for 23 years. The monsignor will stay as associate director.

Mill Valley Sets Impact Report Guides

In an effort to comply with a recent state Supreme Court ruling requiring environmental impact reports on all "nontrivial" construction projects, the Mill Valley City Council last night adopted a set of interim guidelines defining "trivial" projects. (Another Mill Valley City Council story, page 1)

By a vote of 4-0, with Mayor Jean S. Barnard in Anaheim for a League of California Cities conference, the council exempted the following projects from the requirement to submit impact reports:

1. Amendments to the city's zoning ordinance which do not relate to specific parcels of land or particular developments.

2. Construction of single-family houses and duplexes which comply with the city's zoning ordinance.

3. Construction of apartments involving less than 10 units in areas primarily developed as multiple-family residential areas.

4. Interior and exterior alterations to existing buildings.

5. Accessory structures, like pools and garages, to single-family and duplex lots.

6. Lot line realignments.

7. Demoliton of buildings.

8. Signs installed in accordance with the municipal code.

9. Fill or excavation less than five cubic yards.

10. Maintenance and repair of existing buildings.

11. Use permits which require no modifications to existing buildings.

A few members of the audience urged he council to look closely at its proposed requirement for an impact study for any fill project exceeding five cubic yards. They said that such a small amount of fill would require impact studies for some home gardening and the construction of a small retaining wall.

The council asked for staff views on the matter, but decided to adopt the guidelines including the restriction to five cubic feet.

At a future meeting, the council will determine the procedure governing impact statements for larger, more significant projects.

The Mill Valley City Council also:

SLURRY SEAL — Awarded a contract for $23,700 to Bay Slurry Seal Co. to slurry seal several streets in Mill Valley.

RIGHT-OF-WAY — Directed its staff to meet with the staff of the Golden Gate Bridge, highway and transportation district to work out an enforceable agreement insuring Mill Valley a voice in planning any rapid transit use of the Northwest Pacific right-of- way. Councilman Robert E. Burton said he had little faith in the bridge district to act in Mill Valley's interest.

BUS DEPOT — After inconclusive discussion of the Mill Valley Bus Depot — including the possibility of selling the building — continued the matter to Nov. 6.

MILLER AVENUE — Approved relocation of a proposed bus stop in phase one of the Miller Avenue improvement project from the corner of Montford and Miller avenues to Miller opposite Locust Avenue. The council also instructed the city engineer to file for topics funds and the city manager to prepare a recommendation on the establishment of a municipal parking authority to administer the off-street parking.

MEETING — Adjourned to a closed session at 8 p.m. today, to discuss possible land negotiations for an off-street parking lot near Miller to be followed by an open session at 8:30 p.m.

Buses To Roll Despite Warning

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)— Despite a warning that its school buses would be empty, the Memphis Board of Education voted Monday night to spend $252,000 to begin busing 11,875 students in January.

"If the buses roll on Jan. 22, they'll roll empty," Mrs. Ruth Saed, publicity chairman of an antibusing group called Citizens Against Busing (CAB), told the board. "We do not choose and we will never choose to put our children on buses."

Despite the CAB protest, the board signed a contract for School Transportation, Inc., of Kansas City, Mo., to begin providing the needed transportation. The vote was 6-3 for approval of the proposed agreement.

Mailliard Sees No Peace Move

North Vietnam, gambling on a McGovern victory, will not make any major move toward peace at least until after next month's presidential election, Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, said yesterday.

Predicting "no likelihood of anything startling before the election," Mailliard said the North Vietnamese "should hang tough for three weeks — they might be home free if the election should turn that way."

Speaking before the San Rafael Rotary Club at the Medallion Restaurant, the congressman also appeared to jab at the Democratic nominee for president in a warning against "turning our backs on the world."

Mailliard, ranking minority member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, predicted that "if we pull out — fail to exercise our responsibilities — the Soviet Union is going to move in with economic and political influence wherever they see us pulling out."

He got a warm reception from the crowd of more than 130 persons. He was interrupted once by applause, when he mentioned final passage of the Golden Gate National Recreation Area. Mailliard did not say so, but he was a primary author and mover of the measure.

Tracing U.S. foreign policy since 1945, Mailliard observed that the nation had locked itself "into a cold-war syndrome" in which all policies were keyed to alliances made early in the cold war. The belated "realignment" between the U.S. and China was a key to "absolutely essential" new relations among nations today, he said.

He acknowledged that these changes were inevitable regardless of who was in the White House. The only alternative was "permanent stalemate," Mailliard said.

Also essential to the new foreign policy was the message to other industrial nations that "Uncle Sam was not going to take the whole load forever" of helping poor nations, the congressman said.

He appealed for citizen support of foreign policy, or at least active interest in it so that it can be backed with an informed opinion. A return to isolationism would be a critical threat to peace and engender a "very unstable, very high-risk period," Mailliard warned.

The nation, he said, has to lower its profile abroad, but not so low as to create a power vacuum to attract the Soviet Union.

Controller Says Pilot Of Jet Was In 'Hurry'

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—The pilot of an ill-fated Sabrejet was worried about saving fuel "more than anything else" and the vintage F86 apparently had no engine trouble before it crashed and killed 22 people in an ice cream parlor, a federal inquiry board was told Monday.

A federal flight controller testified pilot Richard Bingham of Novato first asked for the longer of two runways, but when told he would have to wait said he "could handle" the shorter runway that aimed directly at the parlor.

"He (Bingham) was in a hurry," FAA controller Victor Katz told the National Transportation Safety Board. "Fuel was on his mind more than anything else."

Bingham was to testify at the second day of the hearing today.

Craig R. Canady, a veteran Sabrejet pilot who witnessed the crash, said he was "startled" when he saw the plane take off at an angle of about 30 degrees. He said the normal takeoff angle is about 15 degrees.

"I just knew he wasn't going to make it," Canady said. "It looked as if he wanted to fly it before it was ready."

Later he told newsmen he thought Bingham "committed an error" by not insisting on the longer runway, which carried planes over a golf course.

"It was cutting it too close," Canady said. "There was no margin for error."

Noel Lawson, chief investigator of the Sept. 24 tragedy, said a thorough examination found "no problems" with the engine of the old jet fighter, owned by Novato based Spectrum Air, which demonstrated it in air shows.

Katz testified the shorter runway was being used at the time by planes leaving an air show because of the wind direction. He said it would have taken "at least 20 minutes, possibly more" to set up the longer runway for takeoff.

Katz, in charge of the Sacramento Executive Airport tower at the time, said he told Bingham at one point to shut down his engine to conserve fuel while waiting for the longer runway. But Bingham decided to take the shorter runway instead, Katz said.

The jet tried to take off but never got more than about six feet off the ground, Lawson said.

"I was relieved to see him come back down" after the first attempt, Canady said. "I thought then it would be a good time to abort the takeoff."

When the plane made its second attempt, Canady said he remarked to himself, "Oh boy, this is going to be close. He's not going to make it."

Lawson said Bingham went to school in May to learn how to fly the Sabrejet and had 3.5 hours of flying experience in the craft. However, he said Bingham also had more than 2,000 hours logged in comparable aircraft.

Canady said he thought the central reason for the tragedy was Bingham's "unfamiliarity with the aircraft."

Concert Series Changes Locale

The Candlelight Concert Series, changing locations in its 13th year this season because Brown's Hall in Mill Valley, its previous home, has been sold, has announced its 1972-73 program.

The five performances this season will be held in the auditorium of Del Mar School, Tiburon, and retain the intimate atmosphere with seating around candlelit tables and intermission refreshments, according to Linda Saylor, ticket chairman.

The concerts, all on Sundays at 8 p.m., will be: Francesco Trio - Nov. 12; Bach-to-Mozart, Jan. 21, Feb. 25 and April 29; and Czech Nonet April 1.

As usual there will be three children's concerts in the afternoon before the adult concerts and details will be announced later.

Aerospace Workers Hear Good News

OTTAWA (UPI)—The Canadian government and Dehavilland Aircraft will immediately begin work on developing short takeoff and landing (STOl) aircraft at a possible cost of $80 million.

Trade and Commerce Minister Jean Luc Pepin announced the project Monday. He said it was eventually "expected to create 3,000 jobs in the aerospace industry." The first 1,500 jobs should be created by 1973-74, he said.

Ross Trustees Explore A Leak

Superintendent Thomas A. Anderson was right in the middle of telling Ross School District trustees that some emergency repairs might be needed to Ross School roof last night when it sprung a leak during torrential rain.

"So the board had a brief adjournment and took a look at the leaky situation," said Anderson. They agreed that the roof needed repairing and that reserve funds could be transferred in the future to cover the cost, he said.

Trustees went into a closed session to discuss teachers' requests for a 1.5 per cent salary raise above the 1.36 per cent hike approved in June by putting back $5,000 in the budget; an amount removed when kindergarten teacher Rena Safford's replacement was hired at a lower starting salary.

Supt. Anderson said the board took no action after the closed session, but instructed him to "meet and confer" with the Certificated Employees Council, and report further at the next regular meeting on Nov. 20. at 7:45 p.m. at Ross School.

The Ross School District board also:

RECREATION — Set a special meeting for Oct. 30 at 7:45 p.m. at Ross School to hear about the Ross Recreation Advisory Board's program and to decide if it will contribute money to the program.

CONFERENCES — Approved a schedule of minimum days for parent teacher confererecces: Nov. 13 to 17, kindergarten through 3rd grade; Feb. 13 to 16 and 20, grades 4, 5, and 6; Nov. 21 to 23, 8th grade; Feb. 13 to 15, 7th grade.

GIFT — Accepted a gift of prints, sketches and paintings from Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Parmalee.

AWARDS — Deferred action on a recommendation that the trustee award at the annual graduation exercises be renamed the "Rena Safford Scholarship Award" because only trustees Elizabeth Way, Justin L. Williams, and Gwynn Thomson were present; Van Norden Logan and Sally Ann Rakow were absent.

BALLOT — Cast its ballot for Mrs. Rakow as delegate to the California School Boards Association.

RESIGN — Accepted the resignation of Helen Butner, district secretary, who has moved to Reno, and heard that her replacement has not yet been hired.

Motorcycle Land Wins Endorsement

Three candidates for the Marin County Board of Supervisors favor purchasing and setting aside land for motorcycles to run on, according to a spokesman for the Marin Motorcycle Association.

The spokesman, Ollie Sandholm, said candidates taking that stand last night at a meeting at the Pacheco Plaza shopping center, are incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni of the Second Supervisorial District, and Gary T. Giacomini and Michael R. Peevey, fourth district competitors.

Mrs. Sandholm said the candidates favored acquiring the land with state registration fees on off-the-road vehicles.

Barbara Boxer, challenging Arrigoni, did not attend, but sent a representative who took no stand at the meeting which drew more than 75 persons, according to Mrs. Sandholm.

The association spokesman said the motorcyclists will attend tomorrow's meeting of the Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission at 2 p.m. to seek support of their program.

Father Is Charged In Son's Death

A 31-year-old Sonoma State College student has been arrested and charged with the murder of his 2-year-old son.

David Foye, of no known address, was arraigned yesterday in Central Sonoma Municipal Court and accused to drowning his son, Brandon, in the Russian River.

Sonoma County Dist. Atty. John W. Hawkes said the boy's body was found Sunday floating in bushes near Villa Grande. He said investigation indicated the drowning as intentional, but refused to give details of evidence, saying it might hinder prosecution.

Hawkes said that Foye, a political science major, had been arrested last week on suspicion of being under the influence of drugs and disturbing the peace. He had been confined in the mental health ward at Community Hospital of Sonoma County.

Bail was set at $100,000 and Foye was scheduled to enter a plea next Monday.

WORD-A-DAY

Night Spot Use Permit Is Renewed

The San Anselmo Planning Commission last night renewed for six months the use permit of the controversial Lion's Share night club on Red Hill Avenue.

"The commission said that if there are any complaints, the permit will be called back immediately for review," according to Dan W. Thomas, planning technician. Thomas added the permit will be revoked if any major problem develops.

Though neighbors have long complained that patrons of the club create traffic jams, undue noise and litter the streets, several residents said last night that the situation has improved in recent months.

The permit for the facility was reissued six months ago with provisions it be reviewed at this time, Thomas said.

The San Anselmo Planning Commission also:

ELKHORN WAY — Held over to Nov. 6 Dorothy Mock's application for a proposed parking platform on Elkhorn Way.

REZONING — Denied Karl Fischer's request to rezone a parcel at 1598 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard from residential to commercial, saying such action would change the character of the neighborhood.

IMPACT — Continued consideration of Standard Oil Co.'s request for a new gas station at 160 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard pending study of the environmental impact of the proposal.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Nov. 6.

Car Taken

Anna Maria Paulus, 151 Ellis Street, Petaluma, told police her 1963 black and white Ford sedan was stolen yesterday from her home. It bore license No. DVE 888.

Theft, Concealment Bring Jail Sentence

A 22-year-old Stinson Beach garbagemen was ordered yesterday to serve 90 days in jail for stealing a motorcycle and concealing stolen property.

Judge Samuel W. Gardiner of Marin Superior Court also placed Dennis Michael Murphy on probation for three years and ordered him to turn over his own motorcycle to James Nielsen of San Francisco, victim of the theft.

Terms of sentencing were arrived at in plea bargaining.

Judge Gardiner stayed the jail time for a week to allow Murphy to appeal the question of whether the search leading to his arrest in March was legal.

Murphy and Richard Warren Lacaze, 20, a fellow garbage collector, were arrested by sheriff's inspectors following an investigation of about 25 burglaries in Tamalpais Valley, Muir Beach, Stinson Beach and Bolinas.

Inspectors said the two apparently saw items they wanted while collecting trash, then took them.

Murphy took the Norton Motorcycle to replace parts on his own, then stored the remainder at Lacaze's, according to his probation officer.

Lacaze was given six months in jail after admitting counts of grand theft and burglary.

Sentencing Postponed So Ex-Con Can Marry

Sentencing of a 36-year-old ex-convict who may go back to prison on two counts of felony hit and run driving was put over a week yesterday so he can marry.

Deputy public defender Buford L. Toney said William Marion Lawson might have lost his right to wed if he were sentenced yesterday and Judge Samuel W. Gardiner went along with the argument in Marin Superior Court.

"If she wants to marry him now, I'm perfectly willing they should. I can't let them go home, but they can get married," the judge said.

Toney said Gardiner will perform the ceremony for Lawson and Maria Mateo possibly on Friday.

Toney said Lawson, who was on parole when arrested June 27 by the California Highway Patrol, had to receive permission from his parole agent to marry.

Acknowledging Lawson will probably go back to prison for one to five years, Toney said marriage "gives him a family and someone to write to. It gives him a tremendous amount of support."

Lawson was convicted by a jury in Marin Superior Court last month of the driving violations connected with three pedestrians hit by a car in Mill Valley on two consecutive days in June.

Lawson served in prison from February 1967 until December 1971 after being convicted of second degree murder.

Giacomini Schedule

Gary T. Giacomini, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Fourth District, will meet with voters at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Bolinas Community Public Utility District building and at 8 p.m. Friday at the Inverness home of Lucille Richardson on Madrone Avenue.

Property Owners Slate Meeting

A special meeting of the Bayside Acres Property Owners Association will be held Thursday at 8 p.m. at the San Rafael High School cafeteria.

Association secretary Margaret Heare said the meeting is to consider a report on annexation to the San Rafael Sanitation District prepared by a study committee of George Jones, Robert Kolb, Wayne Kirk and Bruce McPahil.

Problems over joining the district make it imperative that all 130 property owners in Bayside Acres try to attend the meeting, said Mrs. Heare.

Ten Already Bidding For Planning Job

Ten applications have been received and about 200 more are expected for the city's newly created post of director of advanced planning, according to Herbert G. Hotchner, San Rafael planning director.

Hotchner, who currently heads the advanced planning division, said hiring a new man would free him for work on the city's redevelopment agency, and general plan, as well as allow him to deal with public inquiries regarding planning. Hotchner is also assistant executive director of the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency.

Hotchner said he is looking for an experienced planner with "environmental sensitivity" to fill the position, which will pay between $13,092 and $15,864 annually.

Under the just completed job description, he said, the new planner will be charged with acting as a liason with planning consultants; evaluating environmental impact reports as well as preparing them; preparing a priority list of open space parcels to acquire with bond money; evaluating census and economic data and preparing cost estimates for planning activities.

The city council authorized hiring an advanced planner several weeks ago in the wake of a state Supreme Court ruling requiring environmental impact reports for all major development.

Naval Wings Seen For Women

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI)— Navy Secretary John W. Warner says women will soon be piloting naval aircraft.

"Soon we'll be asking young women to fly in the Navy," Warner told newsmen here Monday after a speech to a civic club and the Richmond Council of the Navy League.

But he cautioned that women will not be allowed to fly some of the more sophisticated aircraft right away because of the "great physical stamina" required.

Lukewarm Reception To Church Project

A pastor's proposal to cut off the top of a hill on Limestone Grade in Marinwood to make way for a church project received a lukewarm reception from the Marinwood Community Services District board last night.

"No one was excited about topping that hill," according to Richard H. O'Brien, board chairman.

Rev. Warren Conrad of the Valley Baptist Church last night proposed that the 13-acre parcel be graded for a new church, two day school buildings and possibly a 350-seat auditorium, according to Genevieve T. Bolding, district manager.

She said the project would require that a 25-foot section be cut from the 226-foot high hill off Limestone Grade.

"The board called for more detailed plans, but would neither accept nor reject the proposal," she said. Mrs. Bolding said the board told Conrad the district would consider the proposal, however.

Marinwood Services District Board Also:

OPEN SPACE — Met in closed session to review appraisals of open space parcels in the district for possible future acquisition. The board took no action on the appraisal list, prepared by consultant Edward Morphy.

HEALTH PLAN — Said any increase over $50 in insurance benefits for district employees would be deducted from employee salaries.

TAXES — Asked the county for a $15,000 advance in expected tax revenues to cover the cost of salaries and maintenance for November.

BOND — Set 8 p.m. Oct. 26 in the community center for a public hearing on a $600,000 bond issue election for open space scheduled for Jan. 23.

ADJOURNMENT — Adjourned to 8 p.m. Oct. 26.

Board To Tackle Critical Report

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Bay Area Air Pollution Control District directors will tackle a report highly critical of the district on Thursday.

The board of directors, which commissioned the report by a team of management consultants, has taken no action on its major recommendations for overhaul since the report was made more than two months ago.

The executive committee will meet at 9 a.m. in district offices at 939 Ellis Street. The full board will meet at 1:30 p.m. to get the committee's recommendations. The board also will consider a regulation requiring annual reports of emissions for sources of pollution.

Coffees Slated

Coffees for Gene E. Turtle, candidate for the Marin Community College District board of trustees, will be held at 4:30 p.m. on Saturday at the Lagunitas home of Kenneth Howard, 15 Alamo Way; 4:30 p.m. on Sunday at the Corte Madera home of Hugh Cox, 101 Sonora Way, and 8 p.m. next Tuesday at the San Anselmo home of Jack H. Olive, 7 Agatha Court.

TV Is Stolen By Motel Guest

Sheriff's deputies today were looking for a man who checked into a Southern Marin motel using a fictitious San Rafael address, then sneaked away with furnishings from his room.

Deputies said the man who registered as Larry Patton left prior to 10 a.m. Thursday with a bathroom rug, black and white television set, blanket and bedspread from the Tamalpais Motel, 680 Redwood Highway, Strawberry.

Value of the missing property was undetermined.

Telescope Making To Be Domonstrated

A "star party" aimed at demonstrating construction of homemade telescopes is scheduled for 7 p.m. Thursday at Mary E. Silveira School, 375 Blackstone Drive, San Rafael.

Members of Sidewalk Astronomers will assemble several large telescopes in front of the school. A lecture and slide show will follow in the school library.

San Rafael air quality yesterday:
Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, clean air.
Other areas:
San Francisco, clean air.
San Jose, light air pollution.
Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Prisoner Stabbed To Death

A San Quentin Prison inmate was stabbed to death at 9 a.m. today, according to Associate Warden James W.L. Park.

Frank C. Venegas, 30, of Los Angeles, died as he was being rushed by ambulance to Marin General Hospital, at 10:01 a.m., Park reported.

Park explained that prison doctors had ordered the stabbing victim moved to Marin General because no anesthesiologist was available at the prison hospital today — due to illness.

Venegas was stabbed in or near his cell in the third tier of the North Block. No suspects have been found, Park said.

Doctors said Venegas was stabbed in the chest, right arm and right thigh; an autopsy will be performed to learn if he was stabbed in the heart.

Venegas first was sentenced to prison in 1962 on a second-degree robbery conviction, followed by later convictions for possession of a firearm and for possession of narcotics. He had been at San Quentin for three years.

Park reported Venegas was the prison's 15th stabbing victim so far in 1972, and the third fatal knifing of the year.

Sales In State Hit A Record

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The state Board of Equalization reports taxable sales in California last April, May and June hit a record $12.9 billion for the three-month period.

The volume of taxable sales was surpassed only by those in the Christmas quarter last year which soared to an all-time $13.3 billion record.

In its report Monday, the board said sales during the spring quarter produced $514.8 million in state sales tax and $128 million in local sales taxes.

Major gainers, the board said, were sellers of mobile homes, travel trailers and campers whose sales increased by 29 per cent over the spring quarter of last year.

Point Reyes Group To Give Concert

Today is Tuesday, Oct. 17, the 291st day of 1972 with 75 to follow.
The moon is between its first quarter and full phase. The morning stars are Venus, Mars and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury and Jupiter.
American philanthropist Thomas Ryan was born Oct. 17, 1851.
On this day in history: In 1777, in one of the great turning points of the Revolutionary War, British Gen. John Burgoyne surrendered his forces to the Americans at Saratoga, N.Y.
In 1931, bootlegger and racketeer Al Capone was convicted of income tax evasion by a federal court in Chicago and sentenced to 11 years in prison.
In 1945, Juan Peron staged a coup and took over the government of Argentina. He was dictator of that country for 10 years.
In 1971, the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Baltimore Orioles to win the 1971 World Series in seven games.
A thought for the day: Famed German scientist Albert Einstein said, "As long as there are sovreign nations possessing great power, war is inevitable."

Salvation Army Issues A Plea

An urgent appeal for clothing, furniture and household items has been made by the Salvation Army Men's Social Service Center in San Francisco.

All donated items collected in Marin county first go to the San Francico center for sorting, then are redistributed to local centers, said a Salvation Army spokesman.

The long period of rain has depleted reserves because householders are reluctant to leave goods outside awaiting pickup. Marinites should telephone the Salvation Army local number for Red Shield pickup, said the spokesman.

Violin-Piano Recital Slated

A violin and keyboard recital by Charles and Robaline Meachum will be presented by the College of Marin music department Oct. 27 and 28 at 8:30 p.m. in room 72 of the college fine arts building.

Meachum, a violinist, is an instructor at the college. His wife Robaline plays the piano and harpsichord. The couple, will play the Sonata in G. minor for Violin and Continuo by Purcell, the Sonata for Violin and Pianoforte by Walton, the Sonata for Violin and Pianoforte by Delius, and Britten's Suite for violin and Pianoforte.

An Honorary Degree For Hirohito?

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— San Francisco State University President S.I. Hayakawa wants to grant the school's first honorary degree to Emperor Hirohito of Japan.

San Francisco State became a "university" this year and thus is entitled to grant honorary degrees.

Hayakawaa who plans to quit his post when a replacement is found, asked the faculty to approve the nomination of Hirohito for the first such award.

John S. Hensill, dean of natural sciences, supports the idea. "Many Japanese-American youths will be inspired by such recognition," he said.

The award of such a degree to the Japanese emperor "should have a strong beneficial effect in improving Japanese-American scientific cooperation, Hensill added in a letter addressed to the faculty senate.

Hirohito, for the past 20 years, "has consistently, quietly and diligently followed his scientific interests," the letter said, and the emperor is "principally self-taught."

The Japanese government and industry are sponsoring a faculty chair at San Francisco State for the study of Japanese-American relations.

Development Upsets Marin City Council

The Marin City Council last night protested that Marin City residents have not been allowed to participate in the selection of a developer to complete redevelopment of their community.

The council also asked that the Marin County Redevelopment Agency board sign no agreement with any developer before the community has a chance to become involved in the selection process, according to council member Nesbit Crutchfield.

He said the council charged that the agency board chose a developer for the project last Tuesday before community groups were given a chance to voice opinions on the various proposals which had been presented to the agency.

Treasury Building To Become Landmark

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The 136-year-old Treasury Department building, on the corner of Pennsylvania Avenue and 15th Street next to the White House, will become a national historic landmark Wednesday.

First Lady Pat Nixon will participate in a 2 p.m. EDT White House ceremony.

Mid-City Developers Inc. of Washington, D.C., was selected to complete redevelopment of 36 acres of land in Marin City. The firm won over four other companies which had also submitted development proposals for all or part of the land. The agency board is scheduled to sign a contract with Mid-City on Oct. 24.

Crutchfield said the developer was named even before the agency's project area committee had agreed on a developer or a proposal or made any recommendation to the agency on these matters. (The area committee, composed of Marin City residents, was formed by the agency to advise it in redevelopment matters and had been studying the proposals by the five developers.)

Crutchfield went on to say the council objected to the agency's action because neither it nor the Marin City Community Services District board had been given an opportunity to make suggestions or recommendations on the proposals or the choice of a developer.

Crutchfield said the council has invited Supervisor Michael Wornum to attend a special meeting Monday because "we want to inform him that the community is dissatisfied."

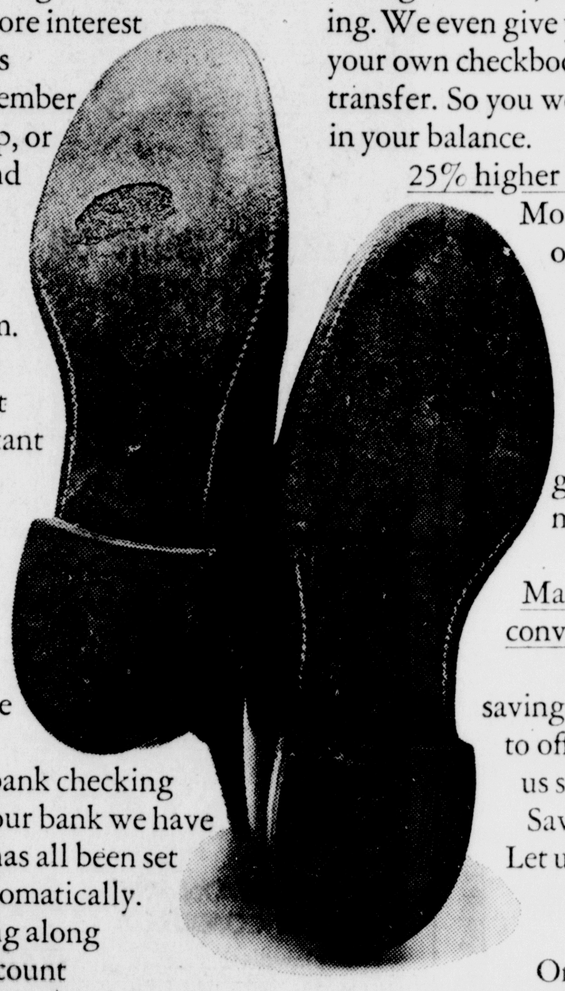
Come to Fidelity for a savings account and you'll never come back.

Now, Fidelity Savings can transfer whatever amount you say—automatically—from your bank checking account into a Fidelity Savings account. An account that will let you earn 25% more interest than most commercial banks savings accounts. And you don't have to remember to come in, write a check, lick a stamp, or find an envelope. Put your feet up and save your soles. Fidelity does everything for you. At no charge.

Fidelity's convenient, new way to save: The Transmatic System. Transmatic is the technical name for Fidelity's brand new way to save, but what it's called isn't nearly as important as how it works. Here's how: simply stop in one of our 28 branch office locations in Northern California. Obviously, the one that's most convenient for you.

All you'll have to do is sign two short, uncomplicated forms. One gives us the say-so to withdraw the amount you've specified from your bank checking account, and the second form tells your bank we have your approval. And don't worry. It has all been set up so your bank will co-operate. Automatically.

When you stop in, please bring along two of your pre-printed checking account deposit slips. That's so we can get the exact account and bank numbers. After that? You do nothing. We do everything. With one short visit to a Fidelity office, you've set the whole, simple, convenient, computerized system into action.



From then on, we'll notify you—again, automatically—of just how much you have in your Fidelity Savings account, and how much interest you're earning. We even give you a little sticky thing to paste in your own checkbook with the date we make the transfer. So you won't forget to indicate the amount in your balance.

Most banks, as you know, pay a flat 4% on savings accounts. At Fidelity, our current annual rate is 5%. A neat 1% that could be working for you. Instead of your bank.

Doesn't that speak for itself? Especially when you don't have to go to the bother of making the monthly transfer? Or trip?

Fidelity Savings. The first in Marin County to offer this new convenience.

Sooner or later, some of the other savings and loans in this area may be able to offer the Transmatic System. But it's us sooner, them later. Only Fidelity Savings can do it right now. Why wait? Let us do all the work for you. While you put your feet up.

Sure, we'd like to see you. Once. One trip is all it will take to get you signed up for this convenient, new way to save. Go ahead. Make it. Maybe you'll never come back.

Because you won't have to.

Fidelity Savings & Loan
We save you the trouble of saving.

Pleas Made To Killing Eagles

DENVER (UPI)—Three men accused of killing federally protected eagles over northern Colorado pleaded guilty Monday to reduced charges in U.S. district court.

The pleas were entered by Joe Evans, 44, a deputy sheriff from Carbon County, Wyo.; Dean Visintiner, 40, a Craig, Colo., rancher, and Doyle Vaughn, owner and operator of the Buffalo, Wyo., Flying Service.

The three men originally were charged with 10 counts of killing eagles and one count of conspiracy. Evans and Visintiner each pleaded guilty to five counts of shooting the birds in Monday's court action. Vaughn and his business entered guilty please to conspiracy.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

10:20 a.m., San Anselmo — False alarm at San Domenico School.

11:15 a.m., Tiburon — Smoke check at 100 Avenida Miraflores, proved to be smoke from a chimney.

Researcher Says Cancer Chances Reduced By Smog

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Claiming that every cloud — even one of smoke and soot — has a silver lining, a researcher says smog reduces the chances of getting sunburn or skin cancer.

Dr. David Challinor of the Smithsonian Institution reported Monday that air pollution significantly reduces the amount of ultraviolet light from the sun that reaches the earth.

Solar ultraviolet radiation is a high energy form of light which causes both sunburn and skin cancer.

Concert At Church By Kensington Trio

The Kensington Trio will present a public concert at the First Presbyterian Church of San Anselmo, Kensington Road at Ross Avenue, on Sunday at 4:30 p.m.

Members of the trio are Steven Golden, violin; John Bodo, cello; and Wilber Russell, piano. A guest violinist Phillip Richardson also will play.

Homeowners Object To Fill Plan

Plans to place a million cubic yards of fill in Corte Madera for a regional shopping center have drawn objection from a homeowners association.

Charging that an environmental impact statement has not been filed and that the proposed shopping center east of Highway 101 would duplicate facilities available elsewhere in Marin County, the Statewide Homeowners Association has filed its objection with the Army Corps of Engineers to the application by Ernest W. Hahn Inc. of Hawthorne, Calif. for a permit to fill the area.

The Association also disputed the legality of Corte Madera's redevelopment program, under which the proposal is planned.

No objection to an application by the Commerce Department's Marin Minerals Technology Center to install two floating docks off 3150 Paradise Drive, Tiburon; was received by the corps.

New Try Set Against Trips To N. Vietnam

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rep. Richard H. Ichord, D-Mo., will try again next year to get legislation passed that would prohibit unauthorized trips to North Vietnam by Americans.

Last month the House rejected an Ichord bill to provide stiff penalties for Americans traveling to North Vietnam without prior authorization by the President. The bill failed by 17 votes under rules requiring two-thirds support.

Ichord introduced the measure in response to antiwar statements made by actress Jane Fonda and Attorney General Ramsey Clark in Hanoi. Opponents said it would unfairly limit reporters' rights to travel, thus allowing government censorship of reporting from Hanoi.

PRINCESS SAYS

Women's Liberation The Same In Sweden

By BETTY FROST

"As a member of the royal family, I have less freedom than other women in Sweden," Princess Christina said at a press conference yesterday at the Swedish Information Office in San Francisco.

The Women's Liberation movement is about the same in Sweden as the United States. About 54 per cent of Swedish women are employed. Gloria Steinem has been invited to visit Sweden in the Spring, she told reporters.

Princess Christina who was born on Aug. 3, 1943, is the youngest daughter of Princess Sibylla and the late Prince Gustaf Adolf. She is the granddaughter of King Gustaf VI Adolf. She is in the United States for an unofficial two-week tour at the request of Swedish-American organizations.

Tomorrow the princess will visit Muir Woods, Sausalito and Tiburon. She will have luncheon at the Alta Mira Hotel. Swedish Ambassador and Mrs. Hubert de Besche are accompanying her on her United States tour.

Princess Christina holds a regular job in the Information Division at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs in Stockholm. She calls her present visit "part of my job." This is her first visit to the West Coast, however she has been in the United States several times and attended Radcliffe College for the 1963-'64 year.

The blonde princess who wears her hair shoulder length, greeted guests with a no-nonsense handshake and a warm smile. She is five feet seven inches tall and slender. Her love of sports, such as skiing and swimming, and her ballet training have given her beautiful posture and a graceful walk.

When she arrived from the airport she was wearing a bright green wool coat. For the press conference she chose a shiartmaker style Italian silk print frock with a pale green background, accented with beige, brown and red.

Her favorite designer is Saint Laurent, but she often shops in Sweden, off the rack, "just like any other customer."

Admitting that there are restrictions on her conduct, the independent princess said, "but I am fighting them. Now I have more freedom than my sisters. For instance, I can go to a restaurant alone with friends more easily." As for marriage, she denied any immediate plans, however "I would definitely marry a commoner. The precedent has already been set. Two of my sisters married commoners."

Is she protected by secret service men in Sweden? "Never," said the princess, "just when I come to this country."

The princess presented Dr. Eric C. Bellequist, University of California political science professor with Sweden's highest honor, Commander of the Order of the Gold Star.

Gourmet Chef James Beard To Open A.M. Lecture Series

Noted gourmet cook and author of a string of cookbooks, James Beard will open the A.M. morning lecture series in Marin on Friday.

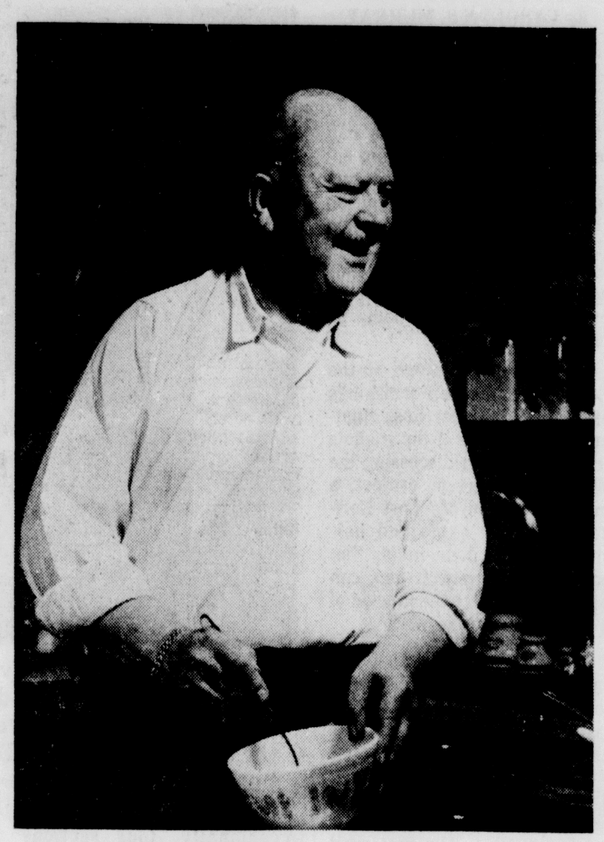
From the stage of the Marin Veterans Memorial Building he will speak on "The Art of Entertaining," and demonstrate preparation of foods.

"Cooking," says the 200-pound Beard, "is theater," and he enjoys his brief schedule of lectures and demonstrations. Author of 15 cookbooks, Beard has spent five years in preparation of his latest one, "American Cookery." He says that it is a hymnal to "the gastronomic voices of the hinterland."

Beard was born in Portland, Ore., and he explains, "That's why I think potatoes are marvelous for breakfast." He attended Reed College, the University of Washington and the Carnegie Institute of Technology. He had an early interest in the theater and appeared on stage in "Cyrano de Bergerac" and "Othello." Then he went on to radio announcing and from there to his major interest in food and cooking.

The program will begin at 10:30 a.m., preceded by a coffee hour in the lobby.

The A.M. series tickets are available from the Veterans Memorial Building box office in San Rafael.



GOURMET COOK and author James Beard will kick-off the season's A.M. series of lectures Friday at Marin Veterans Memorial Building with talk and demonstralion on "The Art of Entertaining."

Female Textile Conservator Prepares Tapestries For Show

By MAURINE BECKETT
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

LOS ANGELES — "Lying down on the job, eh? That looks like an easy way to make a living!"

By the time Pat Reeves, textile conservator, had heard this remark half a dozen times, it ceased to be funny. There she was, flat on her stomach, on a scaffolding a few inches above the 16th-century tapestry, laboriously sewing it to a carefully prepared mounting.

The tapestry was one of seven recently lent to the Los Angeles County Museum of Art by the Norton Simon Foundation. The exhibition will continue for a year and will include more than $10 million worth of art treasures.

Visitors to any museum, wandering through the halls, examining the ancient tapestries, paintings and many other treasures they contain, have no conception of thework involved before a picture, a tapestry, a piece of sculpture or a fragment of antiquity is ready to be viewed by the public.

THE CONSERVATION Center of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art is the most comprehensive west of the Rockies. It is headed by Ben Johnson and staffed by 11 highly trained technicians, only two of whom work on textiles.

Mrs. Reeves, one of those two, is a highly imaginative and ingeniuous person. She neds to be, for the difficulties of working to clean, preserve and then prepare for exhibition these ancient textiles require unusual approaches — such as having to sew from a prone position.

The seven tapestries, from about 1480 to 1610, now on exhibition at the museum, include four world-famous ones: "Helen of Troy," "The Surrender of Rome," "The Miracle of St. Claude" and "Concert of Angels." These, are one after the other, being sewn to their mountings by Mrs. Reeves, then framed and hung on the walls in the plaza level of the Ahmanson Gallery.

The tapestries had to be sewn every nine inches all the way across in both directions so that when hung, there will be the least possible strain on the delicate silk and wool fibers. Actually this work, though it was physically a bit awkward and cumbersome, was comparatively simple for the brilliant fingers of Mrs. Reeves. It involved, more than anything else, patience.

She had done infinitely more intricate restoration for the museum. The first, and perhaps most noteworthy, was her preparation for the exhibition of an ancient Paracas mantle, now displayed permanently in a glass case in the museum's entrance. The glorious dark reds, blues and golds are set off against a copper velvet mounting.

THE MANTLE, dating back to the Paracas Necropolis culture, 300 B.C. to A.D. 300, gets its name by virtue of having been taken from a mummy bundle recovered at one of the sites near Paracas on the coast of Peru. For beauty and skill of workmanship it and others taken from the area compare favorable with more famous textiles from other parts of the world.

To quote Dr. Junius B. Bird, curator of South American Archaeology at the American Museum of Natural History in New York, where Mrs. Reeves studied, "Paracas textiles as works of art are a priceless heritage from the past and deserve all that can be done to ensure their preservation."

Before coming to Los Angeles nearly four years ago, to actually work on the Paracas mantle, Mrs. Reeves had been a free-lance textile conservator in New York.

She explained, "Probably because the monetary value is less than that of rare paintings and sculptures, textiles have been neglected. But textiles are an important part of our cultural and artistic heritage. They mirror man's cultural, artistic, economic and religious history."

From the description of the 375 hours Mrs. Reeves spent on this particular Paracas textile, you can see it wasn't neglected. And even to a non-artistic layman the work sounds interesting.

"My first job was to study it. Carefully. Thoughtfully. The repetitive design of borders and fringe. The kind of embroidery stitch. The deviations in the sizes of the various motifs," she said.

AFTER THE STUDY, the restoring begins, painstaking new stitches that support the original ones.

The museum washes many of the tapestries.

Said Mrs. Reeves: "Dust, which has infiltrated, can also be removed by very gentle vacuuming. It is a very delicate procedure to clean the fragile textiles."

The Paracas mantle, according to its restorer, was clean when placed in the funeral bundle and was "protected from moisture, light and air and so escaped total disintegration."

Another project brought to Mrs. Reeves was a collection of costumes from the Diaghilev Ballet. These were bought at auction at Sotheby's in London by the Los Angeles County Museum of Art. Among the 29 costumes were some designed by Matisse, Goncharova and Bakst.

LAST SEPTEMBER Mrs. Reeves was sent by the museum to Europe to investigate and consider techniques used in various conservation departments. In London she visited the Victoria and Albert Museum and the British Museum. In Switzerland she was invited to a private museum near Bern, the Abegg-Stiftung, where she found a magnificently equipped textile conservators' laboratory.

She attended a meeting in the textile museum at Lyons, France. In Paris she was escorted through the world-famous Oobelin and Beauvais factories, where she studied carefully their methods of repairing tapestries.

"It was a very rewarding trip," Mrs. Reeves said. "In London, Sir John Pope Hennessy, director of the Victoria and Albert, arranged that all facilities were placed at my disposal. In France, Switzerland, everywhere I went, I was well received."

And she learned what her European colleagues were doing.

CONTROVERSIAL THEORIES

'Mayhem' By A Marinite

By BARBARA HOSMER

Dorothy Shinder has been a controversial figure for nearly 10 years.

In 1963, as a single person she protested her income tax claiming she was "head of household" and entitled to that deduction.

That year she also ran for Supervisor in San Francisco, spending $3.05 and polling 13,000 votes. (She later ran for the State Board of Equalization, returning all campaign contributions.)

Then she led what she called "The San Francisco Tea Party," dumping "tea" boxes into San Francisco Bay from the schooner Balclutha while proclaiming "No taxation without representation" for singles.

And she went to Washington, D.C. to tell the House Ways and Means and Senate Finance Committees how she feels about the tax system.

Now, operating from a home in San Rafael, she has put her controversial theories into a book, which she has published herself here under the copyrighted publishers name, "Ombudswoman."

THE BOOK is called "Mayhem on Women," a paperback which she hopes "could become a household classic."

Always protesting that she's not a women's liberationist and proving it by advocating taxation of nuns and prostitutes, Miss Shinder theorizes that women are victimized, duped and hoaxed by "inhuman medical practices" which spring out of male envy of women's breasts, and result in amputation of breasts.

"They call it breast removal or surgery, but it's amputation," Miss Shinder says. Pointing out that one of every 19 women is due for such amputation, she advocates removal only of the cancerous lump or tissue, not the entire breast, which requires severing some of the muscles and hindrance of arm movements until regular excerises can restore movement.

Just last week a prominent Cleveland surgeon agreed with the idea that the whole breast, chest wall muscles and underarm lymph nodes do not need to be removed when the cancer is an isolated node. The physician, Dr. George Crile Jr., told United Press International that other countries have largely discontinued this practice and he called the method "absurd and archaic."

Miss Shinder points out that in "simple mastectomy" the breast alone is amputated. She agrees that cancer is potentially fatal and must be treated, but removal of the potential area of its spread is not needed and causes women deep psychological harm. Other kinds of amputations are not done so lightly, she says.

DOROTHY SHINDER has devoted the first half of her book to this subject, which she calls part of the "mayhem on women," and includes a detailed case history of "Sara" and her treatment and psychological suffering.

In the second half Miss Shinder launches into her other themes — accusations of entanglement of church and state and "Vaticanism," inequities for women under the Social Security Act (which have been well documented by Rep. Martha Griffiths and economics professors, and the effect of continuing wars on the number of potential husbands which creates "war singles" of women, who are unjustly overtaxed.

One of her more unusual ideas is "homesteading" her apartment. Miss Shinder claims that as a long-term renter she is a "home renter" not a tenant or short-term transient resident.

"My apartment is my home. I keep it up well and make improvements because I regard it as my home. Therefore, I'm a desirable renter and save the owner money," she said in an interview.

She believes that continuing to live in an apartment home and paying rent on it over the years is similar to making a contract for buying a house. So increases in rent are illegal, in her view, just as increases on payments of a home would be.

WHEN AN apartment owner increases rent, saying that property taxes demand it, the owner should be taking that risk on his investment instead of passing the higher tax cost on to the renter, she believes. Further, he gets tax breaks for depreciation on the building which are never passed along, Miss Shinder points out.

She believes that a distinction should be made between a home-renter and a short-term tenant by law. Miss Shinder has drawn up a declaration of homestead and is attempting a court case on it, without much success to date. She encloses a copy of the declaration in the book and tells the reader how to do it too.

"And when you homestead, you control not only your apartment itself but all the space above and below it," she tells you triumphantly. "I know because I researched the homestead law." And they can't sell the building without your permission, she adds.

However, her court case is unfinished and she has been evicted from her "apartment-home" in San Francisco. Meantime, "I'm staying in San Rafael but my homestead is in San Francisco," she says.

Written "in the basement," Miss Shinder's book is weakened by the exhuberant invective woven through the points she makes.

Recently Miss Shinder's ideas for tax relief for single persons and renters have been taken up by state and federal governments, and others now speak of renters' rights. Accusations of cavalier treatment of women's bodies by portions of the medical profession are beginning to come from others, as well.

Perhaps her 10 years of nearly single-handed activity will bear fruit. She hopes the book will reach everyone so women "can know what's happening to them."

"I'm hoping to get on the Dick Cavett Show," she tells you, in a blonde dash for an interview elsewhere, ever optimistic.

Diet, Reduce Odds Of Having Attack

Even though a patient may belong to a family which has a history of heart attack he can reduce the likelihood of having one himself to random statistical chance just by losing weight.

Dr. Robert S. Lees, director of the Clinical Research Center at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and head of a team of scientists which studied 18 overweight men who had a family history of heart attack, said that losing a pound or two a week until normal weight was attained was sufficient to lower blood fat, sugar and pressure to within normal range, despite the men's genetic predisposition.

ON THE AGENDA

Unusual Items To Be Offered At West End School Auction

Unusual services and items will be offered for sale at the West End School Parent-Teacher Association Super Auction Friday evening at the school in San Rafael.

A preview of items from 5 until 7 p.m. will precede the auction.

Bidders will be able to buy a will drawn up by an attorney, an original needlepoint design created by a local artist, homemade foods of the month and services by West End School children to do errands, yard work and care for pets. There will be new, old and antique merchandise.

Coordinators of the auction are Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Ellison of San Rafael. Proceeds will be used to finance attendance for the entire school at Youth in Arts performances and for other enrichment activities at the school.

THE THURSDAY Musical Club's first program of the season will be Paul and Mary Handley, pianists, performing at the home of Mrs. Forest Sorensen in Greenbrae on Thursday at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Handley received most of her musical training in Canada and has appeared as soloist with the Buffalo Philharmonic, Sacramento and Long Beach Symphonies, National Symphony Orchestra of Washington, D.C., and the San Francisco State College Orchestra. She is on the piano faculty at California State University, San Francisco.

Handley was a scholarship winner at the Oberlin Conservatory of Music and received the National Federation of Music Clubs award. He has appeared with Chautauqua Symphony and Student Orchestras, the Buffalo Philharmonic and S. F. State Orchestra.

SAN FRANCISCO attorney Ruth Church Gupta will speak to members of the Soroptomist Club of Marin County at their luncheon meeting tomorrow at noon at the Pepperwood restaurant in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Gupta is legislative advocate, legal counsel and past state president of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women Clubs and represents the federation in Sacramento on matters pertaining to legislation affecting women's rights. She is also a member of the San Francisco Mayor's Committee on the Status of Women and was a member of the Distinguished Delegation of Women who toured Russia, Roumania and Hungary in September of 1971.

THE TAMALPAIS Valley School Parent-Teacher Association will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the school's multi-purpose room.

A Forum on Proposition 19, concerning marijuana, and Measure B, and the Marin Municipal Water District Fluoridation issue is scheduled. Resource leaders are Dr. John Lee, Dr. William Moren, Dr. Elmer Weden, and James Runder.

Mrs. Lloyd Eichhorn is program chairman; Mrs. Ernest Domecus and Mrs. Peter Thompson, hospitality chairman.

THE SANTA Rosa Chapter of the American Business Women's Association will meet tomorrow at 6:30 p.m. at Mr. Magoo's in Petaluma.

The meeting will include a report by Mrs. George Nitzberg of Penngrove, Sonoma County's "Woman of the Year." Mrs. Nitzberg and chapter delegate Mrs. Norma Johnson of Santa Rosa attended the national convention of the ABWA held in Miami earlier this month.

Guest speaker will be Dr. Mitchell Soso, superintendent of the Santa Rosa City Schools. He will discuss 'The Value of Education.'

The meeting will begin with cocktails, followed by dinner at 7 p.m.

School Openings In Marin City

The Beginning School in Marin City has openings for children between the ages of 2 years and 6 months and 5 years because of an extension of the nursery school's hours.

Hours are now 9 to 11:45 a.m. Beginning Nov. 1 hours will be extended from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. for families who need or desire them.

The school, which meets at St. Andrew Presbyterian Church, concentrates on the development of academic, personal and social skills with a high degree of racial, social and economic diversity.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

It's Not Moonmaster's Ghost That's Rattling The Door

RAP:

The door to our English classroom just opens and shuts by itself, even when the windows are closed.

Our teacher says it's the ghost of Clyde Moonmaster, and if we don't believe it, check our newspaper.

He says that in 1922, this Latin teacher was driven wild by kids carving on their desks. He could never catch them, but each morning — "Mack the knife" had struck again. Or maybe Maxine.

Well, one day he came upon a girl digging her boyfriend's initials right by the inkwell.

He got so angry he started strangling her. Everyone yelled and screamed, and that must have made him go bananas. Anyway, the girl died on the way to the hospital, and Clyde Moonmaster was hanged.

When the door opens, our teacher says it's "good old Clyde" coming back to check the desks. I sit near the door and get a strange feeling in the back of my neck. When it closes, I think maybe he's still in the room.

This is supposed to be in the 1922 files of our local paper, but the editor would laugh if I asked him. So would you ask, please? I'm especially anxious because my desk chair has initials carved on it. — HAUNTED?

DEAR HAUNTED:

One of our cupboard doors flies open without warning. It jars the wall electric clock which starts running backwards.

Our "ghost" makes such a good conversation piece we may never get our cupboard hinge repaired.

What I mean is, your teacher has a lively imagination. He'd be shocked to think you might believe him! — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

You missed one point when you answered D.D., whose fiance was always making snide remarks about marriage, his coming loss of freedom, etc.

My fiance did this too. When people asked if we'd set the date, he'd answer, "Not till Laura learns to cook and clean."

Well, I proved I was a good cook and he knows I'm neat, but still the remarks came. And my tears would sometimes follow. Then one day I talked with Joe, my fiance's best friend. He said, "Look, George has lots of problems—like paying off on his car, giving his parents money, getting a better job, maybe getting drafted."

Then I realized it was George's way of saying, "After I get my finances straightened out, we'll set a date." But he couldn't say that to casual friends. Thus the kidding. Now I understand when he winks and goofs off about "teaching me how to keep house first." He's saving face. So I come back with, "Yeah, I'm the only girl around who can boil water for an egg and forget to put the egg in it."

Oh yes, we just set the date! But he'll still have eight months to "train me." Last car payment is next June. — WILLING TO WAIT, AND LAUGH

DEAR WILLING:

Here's another point we missed: People who ask "Have you two set your wedding date?" are as tactless as little-mother types who exclaim, "What, no baby yet?" (to childless couples) or "Not another. . .so soon!" (to couples who aren't).

"Wait" problems such as these warrant no questions from outsiders. . .Or prodding either, even if they're more decisions than problems. — HELEN AND SUE

Halloween Caution To Parents

Parents are cautioned about permitting their small children to roam the neighborhood on Halloween alone or unsupervised.

Dr. Albert H. Domm, medical director for a national insurance company, said that malicious tricks, harmful handouts and poorly lighted steps and yard hazards can cause illness and accidents.

Small children, especially those under 8, need on-the-scene personal supervision, he said. Also burns can be prevented by using flashlights instead of candles to light jack o'lanterns and by the children wearing inflammable Halloween costumes. Masks, he said, should permit clear vision and free breathing.

He recommended that parents plan to hold a Halloween party at home, where they can take safety precautions and supervise the games and fun.

Station Adds A New Program

A new program, "A Look at Women Today," has been added to the schedule on radio station KCBS.

The show, to be aired at 1:40 p.m. Monday through Friday, will feature Sharron Lovejoy, who will report what changes are taking place in the females' world.

Women from all walks of life will talk about how they live and what their worlds are like. The program will focus on the kinds of lives all women lead, whether they are homemakers or professionals.

Reproduce Stage Effects In Home

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY
Distributed by General Features Corp.

Set designers for motion pictures and television have a fantastic set of tricks they call upon when they're creating environments for their characters. Many are bits of illusion that work visually only when the studio's sophisticated lighting is turned on. But other areas of wizardry are just as easy to reproduce at home as on the sound stage.

At a recent luncheon at the Los Angeles Home Furnishings Mart, film producer Ross Hunter revealed some of the studio's trade secrets. In discussing the sets for his current project, a musical version of "Lost Horizon," Hunter explained how simple hemp floor mats, that cost $10 in an import shop, can be treated to give the illusion of a major decorative wall.

THE SET designer had attached the lacy-patterned mat to the wall, then applied a thin layer of plaster over it. The unusual and intricate texture would have taken a craftsman days to accomplish. Instead this handsome wall was just a quickie project. The mat used is one that comes in a six-foot by nine-foot size, and has a petal or flower shape.

Another major room setting for the Shangri-La set required a see-through grill that had architectural qualities, yet a light, ethereal look. Instead of working in heavy building materials, the art directors decided to have panels of macrame made by members of a local commune. The effect is dramatic, and with different kinds of lighting, it also can be made to work in individual sections.

A TRICK in time: A visit to the local building supply dealer can provide ideas and ingredients for the do-it-yourselfer. This newly "paneled" room was done by designer Virginia Frankel with ready-made moldings. Then Trend Mills nylon shag rug was used to cushion the floor.

Occasionally, four sections hang together to create a long wall; sometimes one panel is used to punctuate a space or act as a background for a piece of art or furniture. (Macrame is an old handcraft comprised of knotted cords.)

EVEN TABLE settings were thought through in an innovative way for this film production. Since tablecloths are not traditionally used in Oriental countries, Hunter used long runners of beautifully embroidered silk, two to a table. The fabric is similar to that used in Japanese obis — the sashes worn with kimonos. Lacquered bowls and appropriate eating tools were placed on the runners. Candlelight has to be used extensively since the period for the film is pre-electric Tibet. Many candles are supported in macrame holders and repeat the handcrafted, see-through look of the larger wall panels.

The room illustrated today, while not a Hollywood movie set, does use ready-made products to achieve the illusion of a nicely paneled room. Stock commercial molding strips have been applied to flat wall surfaces in a double framing system.

Then wider or double bands of molding are used around the window areas to create the illusion of larger windows. Actually each window was a different size; now the molding and drapery treatment hides all. Walls are spring green with white molding. Flooring is Trend Mills new Casino nylon shag, that mixes nine different shades of color to create an easy-to-live-with-and-care-for pattern.

Marlo Has Mellowed On Marriage

I-J Special Report

NEW YORK — Feminist Marlo Thomas has mellowed her opinion of marriage, according to an article in the current issue of Redbook magazine.

In the past the actress has been a strong critic of marriage. She now has a deep craving to have a child and wants its father also to be her husband, she said.

When she does have children, Marlo Thomas said, she hopes they are daughters so they can benefit from her liberated attitudes, which at times have earned the disapproval of her father, actor Danny Thomas.

That she and her father do not get along is not true.

"I'm a person, a woman and a daughter," she said. "I wanted to separate from him, but I never wanted a 'divorce.'"

When pressed for further details on her relationship with her father, the actress said, "You can talk all the psychology in the world, but remember there's one thing that I had on him. I was his first born, and he loved me."

She conceded the original break with her father was painful.

"His hold on me was very strong, and sometimes I thought I couldn't make it. I didn't know when I was 14 that if I went my own way my father would still be my friend."

Irene M. Johnson Is Engaged

Mr. and Mrs. Ira E. Johnson of San Anselmo have announced the engagement of their daughter Irene Martha Johnson to Thomas George McLaughlin of San Francisco.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry McLaughlin of Fremont.

Irene is a graduate of Marin Catholic High School and attends the University of San Francisco. She is the sister of Douglas M. Johnson of San Anselmo and Mrs. Patrick W. O'Brien of Sacramento. Mrs. Tuly Baron of San Francisco is her grandmother.

Thomas is the brother of Timothy McLaughlin and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Kaastrup, all of Fremont. He was graduated from Mission San Jose High School in Fremont and USF. Currently he is attending San Francisco Law School.

The couple are planning to be married next August.

Teeth Can Be Hypersensitive

If your reaction to iced drinks, hot coffee or chocolate cake is more likely to be pain than pleasure, your problem may be "dental hypersensitivity."

According to a recently completed survey of dentists, one of every seven patients has one or more teeth that are overly-sensitive to hot or cold food or drinks, sweets, exposure to cold air and sometimes even to the touch of a toothbrush. These individuals may experience sensations ranging in intensity from a slight twinge of discomfort to severe pain. In an effort to prevent pain, they may avoid certain foods or stop brushing the affected area.

Most dentists now recommend toothbrushing with a special toothpaste that blocks the stimuli that causes pain. According to reports appearing in a number of dental journals, the toothpaste, called Sensodyne, eliminates dental hypersensitivity in nine of 10 cases.

House Tour Is Set To Raise Funds

Mrs. Lawrence Carr of Novato, president of the North Bay Chapter, National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, has been a member three years and served as treasurer for two years.

The chapter's main fund raising project for 1972 is a house tour of Bennett Ridge in Santa Rosa on Saturday. Proceeds will help to provide research and medical care for cystic fibrosis patients and victims of other lung diseases such as asthma with lung damage, chronic bronchitis and childhood emphysema.

Patricia Carr and her husband, an employee with Pacific Gas and Electric Co., have four children. They are Dave, 17; twins, Kathy and Carol, 16; and Debbie, 11 years old. Mrs. Carr has been active in Girl Scouts and was a volunteer teachers' aide for three years. She was graduated from George Washington High School in San Francisco. Born in San Francisco she has lived in Marin County five years. Camping, boating and sewing are her hobbies.

Women's Liberation From Men And Women

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Women who want to succeed in a career may have to liberate themselves from women as well as men, according to the results of a study conducted by three social psychologists at Connecticut College in New London, Conn.

Gail Pheterson, a graduate student at the University of California at Riverside; Dr. Sara Kiesler; and Dr. Philip Goldberg, conducted an experiment in which they asked 120 college women to evaluate artists who had painted a series of abstract paintings.

The experimental subjects — all women — were also given background profiles of each artist. Each profile had two versions which were identical except that in one version the artist had a female name and in the other a male name.

When the women were told the paintings already had been awarded prizes, they evaluated equally the technical competence and probable future success of each artist regardless of whether the subject was a man ora woman.

BUT WHEN they were told the paintings were entries in a contest —but not yet judged — the women ranked male artists significantly higher than female artists — even though the paintings were exactly the same.

Dr. Kiesler, of the University of Kansas, said the results indicate that women are biased when they evaluate other women "until those women prove themselves by award, trophy, or other obvious success." Women recognize other women once they achieve but not their efforts to achieve — a prejudice which obviously makes achievement difficult.

"The members of minority groups, and women," Dr. Kiesler explained, "have less power and fewer opportunities than do the dominant group, white Anglo-Saxon males. Self-defeating as it is, groups feeling themselves to be the target of prejudice nevertheless tend to accept the attitudes of the dominant majority."

This experiment stemmed from a larger research project headed by Dr. Kiesler and supported by the National Science Foundation.

That project sought to determine how people react to other people who violate group norms — or accepted rules of behavior. This research, Dr. Kiesler reports, has shown that in most situations people have a greater liking for those who conform to norms.

Thus she expected women to devaluate the efforts of other women striving for career success because these women are "norm violators" of a woman's traditional role as wife and mother.

"However, total rejection of career women was not the case," Dr. Kiesler said. "They were evaluated equally to men when their success was known. The women in the study seemed to be taking an actuarial approach. They know that fewer women than men are successful and technically competent in our society, so the best guess for artists with paintings not yet judged was that women would be less successful or skilled."

"They assumed the men to be more competent and predicted a more successful future for men unless there was evidence to the contrary, that is unless the women had in fact succeeded."

"Dr. Kiesler's research also shows, however, that women are not biased against women who perform roles which society expects them to perform. In the artist study, for example, the women subjects rated the creativity' of men and women as equal.

"Creativity is a trait which may have female connotations," Dr. Kiesler explained. Husbands usually leave such creative tasks as home decorating and sewing to their wives, so the subjects probably did not have very strong convictions about whether men are more creative than women."

$16,000 For Program

The 73rd annual Grape Festival held Oct. 7 by the Sunny Hills Volunteers raised some $16,000 for the Sunny Hills program, according to Mrs. Gibson Crawford, president of the Sunny Hills Guilds' governing council.

2 Big Questions . . . For New Car Buyers

1. Do you want the best possible deal on your new car? . . . 2. Do you want convenient, reliable, local service?

Why choke yourself with added costs when you buy across the bay? In MARIN, you're in the driver's seat. Marin dealers' lower overhead shows right in the price. Lower sales tax too! And for servicing your car there's nothing like local convenience! Your best deal is right here with Marin dealers . . .

Yes, of course . . . You Do!!

ISN'T GOOD SERVICE WONDERFUL?

Our service is "late" but nice. Marin commuters have found it very convenient that our service department is now open till 7 pm. Monday thru Friday. In most cases we can give your VW a maintenance or tune-up by 7 pm if you come in by 5 pm. Call our private service line 388-5230 and give us a vote for "late" service.

LEGAL NOTICE
JOINT PUBLIC HEARING

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the San Rafael City Council and the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency will hold a joint public hearing on Thursday, October 26, 1972, at the Council Chambers, City Hall, San Rafael, California; said hearing shall commence at 8:00 p.m. o'clock and may be continued from time to time until completed. Any person or organization desiring to be heard will be afforded an opportunity to do so.

The purpose of said hearing is to consider the proposed Central San Rafael Redevelopment Plan, hereinafter called "Plan". The Plan also known as a "redevelopment plan" authorizes the undertaking of a redevelopment project pursuant to the California Community Redevelopment Law.

The general objective of said proposed plan is the strengthening of the financial, commercial and cultural role of central San Rafael. The scope of said project includes the acquisition of land, demolition or removal of buildings and certain improvements, installation, construction and reconstruction of streets, utilities, parks or other project improvements and making land available for redevelopment by private enterprise or public agencies as authorized by law. Said proposed project will be an undertaking of the San Rafael Redevelopment Agency.

The Central San Rafael Redevelopment Project Area is situated in the City of San Rafael, County of Marin, State of California, and is more particularly described as follows:

An Exuberant McGovern Woos Voters In Texas

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)— Hoping that he has found an issue that Democrats will rally around, George McGovern stepped up his attacks Tuesday against the Republican "sabotage and subversion."

"These ambitious men will apprently stop at nothing to preserve their power," McGovern said of President Nixon and his aides. He accused the Republicans of trying "to destroy the Democratic process" through acts of sabotage against their political opposition.

McGovern's statement came in advance of a rally at Fort Worth in pursuit of Texas' 26 electoral votes and a flight home to Washington to tape a television address.

The Democratic presidential candidate predicted anew that he would win. He became so exuberant over his warm reception in Houston Monday that he even predicted a "sweeping" victory.

In his statement on stories from the Washington Post alleging a deliberate Republican campaign to throw the Democrats into disarray, McGovern struck out at John D. Ehrlichman, Nixon's top domestic adviser, who said Sunday that "political pranks" were traditional in America.

"If Nixon and Ehrlichman believe they can brush away crime by calling them 'capers', if they think they can sidestep the most well financed scheme on record to destroy our Democratic process simply by calling it a 'prank', they are deluding themselves just as they are deceiving the American people," McGovern said.

He said the Republicans had undertaken "to forge letters, impersonate officials of various Democratic campaigns, incite riots, issue phony press releases in the name of others, withhold evidence from a grand jury, illegally enter the offices of the opposition party, steal private files and unlawfully wiretap the private conversations of Democratic officials."

Frank Mankiewicz, McGovern campaign political director, said a denunciation Monday by Clark MacGregor, chairman of the Committee to Re-Elect the President, of the Washington Post for printing the allegations would not suffice.

He said MacGregor's refusal to answer questions at a Washington news conference "shows either fear or panic, and probably both."

McGovern has been hitting the espionage charge in every campaign speech. His aides said they found a swelling response to the senator's charges and his contention that Nixon was trying to win by playing on fear.

McGovern was lustily cheered on those issues across Texas Monday. In Houston, 20,000 mostly young people crowded a nighttime rally in an amphitheater and exhausted the supply of barbeque they had paid for. In San Antonio 10,000 persons, who waited two and a half hours for the candidate, cheered his charges of corruption.

Before the Democratic dominated Texas legislature warm applause rang out when McGovern charged the Nixon administration of adopting a "strategy of fear".

"When you ask about education for your children," he said. "It replies: fear the black man. When you seek peace abroad and reasoned discourse at home, it replies: fear the young and the dissenter. When you demand jobs and expanded opportunities, it replies, fear the poor."

Lame duck Democratic Gov. Preston Smith said he had never seen so enthusiastic a response by the legislators in 22 years in state government. But Democrats seeking office Nov. 7 still shunned McGovern. Neither Barefoot Sanders, candidate for the U.S. Senate, nor Dolph Briscoe, candidate for governor, appeared with McGovern at any of his Texas stops.

Trial Of 2 Inmates Postponed

The trial of two San Quentin inmates charged with slaying a guard and stabbing another inmate was continued yesterday from next week to the week of Nov. 6.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court gave attorneys for Earl Billy Gibson and Lawrence Justice until Oct. 30 to file any final motions and said he will consider only one more continuance of the trial if any more motions must be heard.

He took under submission yesterday a motion to unshackle the two during their court appearances. Each is now chained to a chair during hearings.

The two are accused of stabbing inmate Herman Johnson, 25, in the prison exercise yard on July 19, 1971, and two days later killing Leo G. Davis while he guarded Johnson in the prison hospital.

Johnson apparently was a target because he testified against seven Soledad prison inmates accused of murdering a guard there.

Gibson is serving a life term for first degree burglary in Los Angeles in 1965. Justice is in San Quentin for an indeterminate time for two felony assaults and grand theft in Los Angeles in 1968.

Speck Survivor Is Still Afraid

CHICAGO (UPI)—The only survivor of the massacre in which Richard Speck killed eight nurses more than six years ago testified Monday in a $3.5 million damage suit against Speck that she still is afraid to be left alone.

Mrs. Coracon Amurao Atienza testified that she "was shocked for a month" after the killings.

"I cannot now be left alone in my apartment," she said. "Whenever I hear a knock at the door I am afraid."

The suit against Speck was filed by families of the slain nurses and Mrs. Atienza to make sure that Speck never profits from his crime. It asks $250,000 be paid to each family and $1.5 million to Mrs. Atienza.

Kuhn-Finley Furor Again: Over Bonuses

OAKLAND (UPI) — Charlie Finley, the Oakland A's' volatile owner, is back agitating Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn today.

This time, the bone of contention between them is whether Finley, under baseball law, can reward his catcher, Gene Tenace, and his left fielder, Joe Rudi, $5,000 apiece or can't he.

Finley says he can, and he has.

Kuhn says he can't under World Series rule 46A which is headed "bonus forbidden."

Finley already has been fined $500 by Kuhn this year for remarks he made to newsmen during contract negotiations with Vida Blue last spring. Angered by what he considered Kuhn's unilateral stand while he was dickering with Blue, Finley drew the fine for telling the press he didn't like the way the commissioner was handling the situation.

The latest run-in came about when Finley announced he was going to give Tenace $5,000 after the catcher belted two homers in Oakland's 3-2 opening World Series victory over Cincinnati Saturday. Then, when Joe Rudi homered in Sunday's 2-1 win over the Reds and contributed a spectacular, game-saving grab in the ninth inning, Finley said he was going to reward him with $5,000 also.

When Kuhn learned about all this, he remembered World Series rule 46A, which reads:

"Neither of the contesting clubs shall give or pay a bonus or prize to any or all of its players before or after the completion of the series ..."

Kuhn called Finley here on the phone Monday and told him he could not give Tenace and Rudi bonuses.

Finley argued they weren't bonuses.

"Many clubs give players an increase in salary at the end of the season," the Oakland player pointed out. "That's all I did. Just because we are in a World Series, does this mean we can't give players an incrdase in salary?"

Moreover, Finley explained he had promised reserve first baseman Mike Hegan $5,000 also during the American League playoffs between the A's and Detroit Tigers.

Over and over again Finley repeated:

"These were not bonuses. These were raises for performances this year. They are retroactive. These raises weren't because of these players performance in the World Series. All Rudi did was lead the American League in hits this year with 181. I think that deserves a raise."

Finley said his 10-minute discussion with Kuhn on the phone

PORTRAIT OF CHAMPIONS

When the American League champions Oakland A's host the National League champion Cincinnati Reds in the third game of the World Series tonight, 5:30, it will be the first Series at the Oakland Coliseum. This sketch by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey depicts several stars of the East Bay team. The sketch shows pitcher Vida Blue (35) and his teammates.

In Oakland: World Series Rain Problem

By JOHN G. GRIFFIN
UPI Sports Editor

OAKLAND (UPI) — The spector of 1962, when rain in the San Francisco Bay Area caused three postponements, hung over the 1972 World Series today with a strong possibility that tonight's scheduled third game between the Oakland A's and Cincinnati Reds would be set back.

There is a 20 to 30 per cent chance of rain during the time of the World Series game tonight in Oakland, the weather bureau says.

In a special forecast, the bureau also predicted that the temperature would be in the low 60s.

Barring postponement, BART trains can be taken to and from the ballpark for all Oakland Coliseum World Serieu games. Fans can park their cars at one of 12 BART stations between downtown Oakland and Fremont and ride BART to the Coliseum station. Fans can then obtain free transfers from BART trains to ride A.C. Transit buses to the Coliseum. BART trains will run at least one hour after the games end.

If the game does go on as scheduled at 5:15 p.m., righthander John (Blue Moon) Odom, who won the final game of the American League playoffs, will start for the A's, who lead two games to none, against righthander Jack Billingham of the Reds.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, in whose hands lies the whole authority for series games, planned to visit the coliseum early in the day for a first look.

"Kuhn did not visit the stadium yesterday because the forecast of likely more rain means that the condition of the field today is the only important thing," a spokesman for Kuhn said.

Although prolonged rain in the Bay Area is unusual in October, in 1962 rain postponed two games of the Giants-Yankees series in San Francisco and another was postponed because of wet grounds. A record

The Sad Times Of Troubled 49er Team

That the New York Giants repeatedly ran against the right side of the 49ers' defense Sunday was no surprise to William Gerard Vanderbundt.

Vanderbundt, known as "Skip" by all his friends in San Carlos where he now lives and Placerville where he used to live, is the linebacker on the right side of the Niners' defense and has come to expect most of the running action going his way.

"After all," he explained to a cozy little gathering of 49er Goal Rushers of Marin yesterday at Terra Linda's Holiday Inn, "we have all-league players at left cornerback (Jim Johnson) and left linebacker (Dave Wilcox) and a man (Tommy Hart) who should be an all-leaguer at left defensive end."

"I ALWAYS EXPECT teams to run on our side and all teams do it," he said. According to the figures Skip used, the success of teams running his side had a very slight advantage last year. In pro football statistics are kept on just about everything so the 49er statiticians probably know which shoelace Fran Tarkenton ties first. In the case of running against the 49ers, teams gained an average of 3.2 yards per play on the Niners' left and 3.3 on the right, said Vanderbundt.

The curly haired blond who was the 49ers No. 3 draft choice out of Oregon State in 1968 admitted to the boosters, "We've got problems and they are not physical, they're mental." He said that in the face of injuries Sunday which knocked quarterback John Brodie and offensive tackles Cas Banaszek and John Watson from the lineup.

Vanderbundt, who said he felt the 49ers (2-3) would have to win eight of their nine remaining games to repeat as west division champs, was asked to compare this year's team to that of last year. After all, the players are the same.

"POTENTIALLY WE'RE better because of more experience. We have more depth and we're stronger." Then he added the observation that some of the players on the team are forgetting what it took to turn the team into a winner. Confidence? Some of the players are starting to wonder. "We've got to go out and beat the hell out of somebody. That's what we need."

He told the boosters the offensive and defensive captains had called a team meeting for today and there was going to be some soul searching by everybody.

The question of head coach Dick Nolan and emotion again came up. "Dick Nolan is a very emotional man," said Vanderbundt. "He's not as unemotional as newspapers make him out to be."

Talking about Sunday's 23-17 loss to the Giants, Vanderbundt said the players, and he included himself, showed signs of losing confidence.

ABOUT A PASS thrown to New York running back Ron Johnson whom Skip was covering man-for-man, he said, "I knew it was coming. I knew they realized we were in a man-for-man coverage. Yet I talked myself out of making the big play when they threw to Johnson. We're all starting to talk to ourselves rather than just playing our game."

Skip had come to the meeting expecting the worst. He expected such angry words that he had his wife, Judy, take their one-year-old daughter on a trip to the nearby shopping center so they

Site Shifted For 1st Prep Grid Bowl

The post-season football game between the champions of the Marin County Athletic League and the North Bay League has been switched from Bailey Field in Santa Rosa to Napa Memorial Stadium, MCAL commissioner George Corson announced today.

In addition, a contest will be held to select a name for the Nov. 18 game, with four tickets to be awarded as a prize for the best suggestion.

The four-man bowl committees of the two leagues met last night at the Petaluma Inn in Petaluma and unanimously approved the NBL's request for the change in site, Corson said.

Napa Memorial Stadium seats approximately 6,000 while Bailey Field seats only about 3,000. "They (the NBL committee) were hoping they could get portable bleachers to boost the capacity to 4,000, but then they said it wasn't possible," Corson said.

Entries for the game-naming contest should be sent to the Independent-Journal Sports department and should be postmarked no later than Nov. 1.

BY PROXY WITH HUNTER

Starr Still Guides Pack

DETROIT (UPI)—Bart Starr is still guiding the Green Bay Packers to glory—by proxy.

Hunter's 15-yard scoring pass to rookie Leland Glass, an eighth-round draft choice from Oregon, put Green Bay into first place in the National Football Conference's Central Division with a 4-1 record. Detroit is second at 3-2 while Minesota is third at 2-3.

Starr, now an assistant coach after retiring before this season, called all the plays which Hunter directed so well, bringing the Packers back from deficits of 17-0 and 20-7.

Errol Mann's third field goal of the game, equalling his career best of 51 yards, gave Detroit a 23-17 lead with 9:32 to play.

But Hunter wore out the Lions and the clock with a drive which started on the Packers' 17 and took 7:28.

"The punt return turned the whole game around," Coach Joe Schmidt of the Lions said. "It was a good long punt. But he (Ken Ellis) got around the containment. It changed the whole complexion of the game."

Herman Weaver had made his only punt of the nationally televised game a 46-yard boot in the third quarter. But Ellis swept left, eluding Mickey Zofko and then John Hilton, and sped past Charlie Potts into the end zone to change a 20-10 yawner into a 20-17 exciter.

Green Bay was about as effective as sleeping pills, getting just one first down, until Hunter woke up the offense and scored from a yard out with 2:42 left in the first half. Rookie Chester Marcol, whose extra point broke the 2323 tie, kicked a 34-yard field goal late in the third quarter.

Mann had field goals of 45 and 12 yards, too, and it looked like they, plus his 51-yard kick, were going to be the difference before the Starr-selected, Hunter-directed drive.

Greg Landry, who now has thrown eight interceptions after going the entire exhibition season without one, ran an option play two yards for the first score of the game.

Altie Taylor, who picked up 90 yards in 20 rushes to lead ground-gainers, scored from a

AMBITIOUS PLANS FOR WATER SKIING

Jaap Suyderhoud of San Anselmo, veteran promoter of Northern California water ski events, announced yesterday the fourth annual California International World Cup Water Ski Tournament would be held next Sept. 22-23 at Berkeley's Aquatic Park.

Suyderhoud, father of two-time world water ski king Mike Suyderhoud of Petaluma, said that success of last month's Berkeley event, at which 20,000 attended, cleared his plans for a water ski grand prix professional circuit.

He said he is setting up a 10-meet 1973 tour with prize money "above $100,000."

The Berkeley event would climax the row of meets and the purse would be in the $30,000 range, he said.

Handballers Jacobs, Obert Named To Hall

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Former national champions Jim Jacobs and Oscar Obert today were elected to the United Savings-Helms Athletic Foundation Handball Hall of Fame.

Jacobs was a star at both three and four-wall play over a period of 15 years and won 15 national championships in both singles and doubles. Obert, a competitor of Jacobs in the 1950s and 1960s, won 19 national championships. Both now reside in New York City.

Warriors' Barry Wins Court Bout

OAKLAND (UPI)—Rick Barry, who has lost quite a few court battles in recent months, won a big one Monday night.

After the judicial kind of courts forced him to play for the Golden State Warriors somewhat against his will, he single-handedly brought the Warriors their first win of the campaign on the basketball court in a hectic 97-96 victory over tough Baltimore.

The Warriors trailed the see-saw contest 96-95 with four seconds to go. After an inboknds pass, Barry drove for a layup, missed his shot, and followed with a tip at the buzzer to even the Warriors record at 1-1. Since the loss was a tough four-point decision to mighty Milwaukee, the Warriors are looking tough.

Barry wound up with 22 points to tie Baltimore's Phil Chenier, the ex-Cal star, for high point honors.

Jeff Mullins hit 21 and Nate Thurmond 18 as the Warriors again showed they have the stars, but maybe not the depth of the other contenders.

The Warriors, who perform at Seattle Friday in their next of nearly six inches fell during that week in 1962, but that mark has been broken here during the past week with more than six inches.

In the event of a postponement, the third game would be played Wednesday night and the fourth game Thursday night. If a fifth game is necessary, it would be played Friday afternoon, originally scheduled as a travel date, and then a sixth in Cincinnati Saturday afternoon and the seventh there Sunday afternoon. Games in Oakland will be televised on channels 3 and 4 with no local TV blackouts.

Kuhn's spokesman said the commissioner has conferred with the National Broadcasting Co. (NBC) about the possibility of playing the Saturday game in Cincinnati, if there is a postponement, at night. However, he said it was unlikely the network, which is telecasting the series, would agree.

"The possibility is," he said, "That no games in the series will be played at night other than those on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday."

Dick Williams, manager of the A's, who need to win only two of the three games scheduled here to wrap up the series, and manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds both said that a postponement would have no effect on their pitching plans.

"Odom will start the third game for us, whether it is played tonight or Wednesday, and Ken Holtzman will start the fourth game," Williams said. "I do not plan at this time to move Jim Hunter up in the rotation. However, if there should be a postponement for more than one day, I would have to re-evaluate the situation with my coaches."

Anderson, who admitted the Reds' "backs are to the wall," was asked whether he would like a postponement in order to come in the third game with some pitcher other than Billingham, who was 12-12 during the regular season — perhaps Gary Nolan, the opening game starter and loser.

"I am very happy to have Jack as the pitcher who must stop the A's," Anderson said. "I don't want a postponement. I want to play tonight."

Neither team worked out yesterday, the A's by choice as Williams gave his surprising underdogs an off day, and the Reds because of the rain.

That left a lot of time for reading newspapers, and the Reds didn't like what they saw in a local paper. Oakland pitching whiz Vida Blue was quoted as saying "We are handling the Cincinnati Reds easier than we handled the Texas Rangers."

Sharp words, since the Rangers were last in the AL West, were beaten by the A's 11 times in 14 games, and were generally reckoned the worst club in the big leagues.

"Assuming that Vida Blue was quoted correctly, I'm surprised that a young player of his intelligence and ability would say a thing like that at this time," Anderson said.

Williams, meanwhile, admitted that he and first baseman Mike Epstein "had words" on the A's plane back to Oakland Sunday night about the quick hook he gave Epstein in Sunday's game, yanking him for a pinchrunner although it was only the top of the sixth inning.

"Epstein objected to being taken out so early," Williams said.

"That's okay; I like a player who wants to play, who doesn't want to come out of the game. I took him out because we had a 2-0 lead, I wanted to shoot for another run, and because I had available in Mike Hegan the best defensive first baseman in the American League."

ended after the commissioner asked him, "have you given checks for those amounts to those men yet?"

"I told him that I had not yet given them the checks," Finley said. "But I said I had made a commitment to these men that they would get this money in 1972. With that, the commissioner said that as long as the checks had not been handdd over he wanted me to put the whole matter in status quo until after the series when he would discuss the matter further and consider it before making a final decision."

In Hughes Case: $21.5 Million Suit Vs. Lions

DETROIT (UPI)—A $21.5 million lawsuit has been filed against three unnamed physicians for failing to notify Detroit Lions' wide receiver Charles "Chuck" Hughes of a heart condition that led to his death during a professional football game last Oct. 24.

The suit, filed Monday in U.S. District Court by Sharon L. Hughes of El Paso, Tex., the player's widow, charged that Hughes was not informed of his condition after a May, 1971 examination at Henry Ford hospital here. The suit named the hospital but not the physicians who allegedly examined Hughes.

Hughes, 28 at the time, "suffered an acute coronary thrombosis", according to the Wayne County Medical Examiner who performed an autopsy the day after the Detroit Lions-Chicago Bears game at Tiger Stadium.

Another Great Back Vs. Raiders Sunday

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland Raiders, who barely contained one great running back, have to face another one Sunday.

O.J. Simpson put on a great one-man show Sunday at the Coliseum, but the Raiders managed to win a 28-16 game over Buffalo that was a lot closer than the score would indicate.

Denver's Floyd Little, meanwhile, ran for two touchdowns and caught a pass for another in a heartbreaking 23-20 Denver loss to Minnesota that was settled by a touchdown pass with 17 seconds to go.

Little and his Denver Broncos come to the Oakland Coliseum Sunday.

The only Raider injury in the Bills game was linebacker Gus Otto, with a knee injury. Its extent has yet to be determined.

Middle linebacker Gerald Irons will move to the outside with Dan Conners in the middle should Otto be unable to go against the Broncos.

Doar's Play Keys Surge Of San Marin's Gridders

By LEW CODDINGTON

Fred Doar admits San Marin High School's fine football showing this season is "a surprise to me," but he's not so surprised that he doesn't help contribute to it.

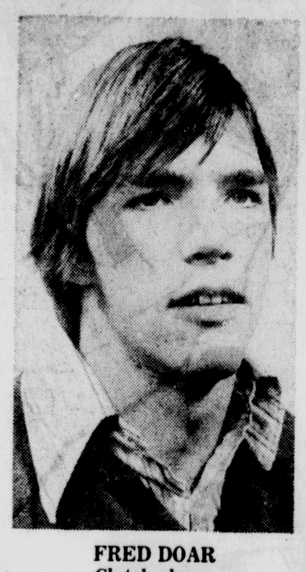
Doar was the key figure last Friday night as San Marin upset San Rafael, 18-12, and improved its season record to 4-1, a far cry from last season's 1-8.

The 6-foot-2, 205-pound fullback gained 55 yards in 12 carries and scored a touchdown on a six-yard run, but it was on defense that he really starred. A linebacker, he made a punishing tackle to force a fumble to set up the second touchdown, scored the third by falling on a blocked punt in the end zone, and generally made himself obnoxious to San Rafael's ballcarriers throughout the evening.

As a result, he becomes Independent-Journal Prep of the Week for the second time, having earned the honor last year for his clutch running in San Marin's lone victory over Tamalpais.

"I really can't say why the team has done so well," said Doar. "Mostly it's been defense and luck. We've had quite a few injuries, but the team seems to hang together."

The success has started bringing out fans to watch the team, but not to as great an extent as might be expected. "Fans like to watch a winner, sure," said Doar, "but football is not one of the big parts of school life, like it was when I was in the seventh grade. This is probably a change for the better — they've started emphasizing subject matter instead."



FRED DOAR
Clutch player

Doar himself has always emphasized subject matter, carrying a 3.8 (A-) academic average and mapping college plans which may include the U.S. Naval Academy or Stanford. He figures to major in math or business administration if he attends the latter.

Doar spent his summer tutoring students in math in the Novato Unified School District, "at all levels, from Algebra I to analytics. It was a lot of fun, Land I even got paid for it."

Doar says he won't continue football in college "unless I get a football scholarship. I'm going to college for college. The fun aspect of the game is emphasized more in high school, but in college it gets to be like a business. At least that's what I've heard."

Doar's chief outside interest last year was dirt-bike riding, but that's starting to wane, and "I'm even considering selling my bike and maybe getting a car." Now he's listening to music: "a lot of rock, some Bach, all kinds."

A versatile athlete, Doar was a starting forward on San Marin's basketball team last winter, and played golf in the spring — right-handed, although he does everything else left-handed. "I'm not really that good, but you can't beat it from the aspect of fun."

If San Marin should win a football championship with the help of Doar's running, blocking and tackling, he will be given an opportunity to revise that statement.

Record Profit Year For A's; Bills Peddle Moses

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

OAKLAND — Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley said he will have a record year of profit from his ballclub this year.

"We've never made less than $600,000 any of the five years the A's have been in Oakland," Finley asserted Monday. "We made $1.3 million in 1971, and we'll top that this year."

"Not only that, but now we've proven ourselves we're going to make even more money next year."

Finley said "I lost money all seven years we were in Kansas City."

Finley also said of the world series that "I think we can win it in five games or less," but smiled as he admitted "I wouldn't have said that before it started."

Meanwhile, Dick Williams, A's manager, said Monday his new contract was the best one he ever received since he's been in baseball.

The contract, for two years like Williams' last one, was acknowledged privately to the Oakland manager by Finley after the A's beat the Detroit Tigers in the American League playoffs and then in the wake of Sunday's victory over Cincinnati, Finley dropped the information in the A's clubhouse to some of the assembled writers.

While no figures were given out by Finley or Williams, it was believed the A's skipper received an estimated $40,000 in his original pact and was boosted to $55,000 in the new one.

BUFFALO, N.Y. — The Buffalo Bills yesterday traded wide receiver Haven Moses to the Denver Broncos for wide receiver Dwight Harrison.

Harrison was Denver's number two draft choice in 1971 from Texas A&I. Moses, the Bills number one draft choice from San Diego State in 1968, was a starter for the Bills from his rookie season until this year.

SAN DIEGO — Will moody running back Duane Thomas ever play for San Diego?

Chargers coach Harland Svare says "I would think not."

Svare told a grid luncheon Monday that "we've made him what we feel is a fair offer."

Thomas, traded from Dallas, was in the final season of a three-year contract which would have paid him $20,000 this year, minus fines Svare has levied on him for failing to report. He asked for a new contract and more money and the Chargers indicated a willingness to renegotiate but terms were never reached.

Asked about plans to trade Thomas, Svare admitted "I have talked to people," but wouldn't elaborate.

California Monday declared halfback J. D. Smith ineligible for football and Washington State officials indicated they might seek a forfeit of the Bears' 37-23 victory over them in a game which saw Smith carry the ball 10 times for 51 yards.

Smith, a junior college transfer, was granted an additional year of eligibility on grounds that he had played "a few minutes in one game in 1970." The school said Monday that it transmitted "incorrect information" in that he played 12 minutes in two games and carried the ball 11 times. "Under the circumstances, we feel he is not eligible," athletic director Dave Maggard said Monday.

Golf

NAPA — Eighty-two golfers shot 14 spots Monday as the pro golf's "rabbits" shot it out in preparation for the $150,000 Kaiser International Open, which begins Thursday at the Silverado Country Club here.

John Jacobs led the qualifiers Monday with a 69 at the Kennedy Municipal Golf Course. It took a score of 72 or better to qualify, although four 72 shooters were ousted in a playoff.

Hockey

OAKLAND — The California Seals yesterday announced that tomorrow night's scheduled National Hockey League home opener with the Chicago Black Hawks has been postponed to Sunday, 7 p.m., in the Oakland Coliseum Arena.

WITH BRODIE AILING

49er Spurrier Is On Spot

REDWOOD CITY (UPI)—Suddenly former Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier is the man on the spot as far as the hopes of the San Francisco 49ers are concerned.

The medical report on quarterback John Brodie's injury Monday said he suffered a "significant sprain" in the 23-17 loss to the New York Giants Sunday at rainy Candlestick Park.

The estimate for Brodie's absence is "one to three weeks" but with Brodie on crutches and with a splint on his ankle, the three would seem a more realistic estimate than the one.

Coach Dick Nolan insists his team "has a chance for the division title. I have confidence that Steve will do the job."

The 49ers also have a problem in the offensive line where tackles Cas Banaszek, with a hip muscle pull, and John Watson, carried off the field with a concussion last Sunday, are both questionable for Sunday's Candlestick Park battle with New Orleans.

Sullivan's Mark

BOWL

Other North Bay newspapers will also receive entries, Corson said.

Entries will be judged by the leagues' bowl committees following Nov. 1, Corson added.

The MCAL committee consists of Corson, Novato High athletic director Al Scott, Terra Linda athletic director Don Lucas and San Marin principal Henry Moroski. The NBL committee consists of Petaluma principal Gerald Dadey, Ukiah athletic director Bill Tatum, league commissioner Ken Goetzel and head football coach Hank Steiffel of Montgomery of Santa Rosa.

Tickets cost $2.50 for adults and $1.50 for students. Arrangements for distribution and sale will be made by the schools which will play in the game, Corson said.

Wooden: Coach At Least 2 Years

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA basketball Coach John Wooden used the occasion of the start of practice for his defending National Collegiate Athletic Association championship team to announce he intended continuing to coach for at least two more years.

"I definitely intend to coach for two more years and possibly five more if my health remains good," Wooden said before the press day practice session, starting his 25th year as UCLA head coach.

"We expect to field another outstanding basketball team," he added.

Johnson's Old Hardware Store To Get New Owners Next Month

Johnson's Hardware store at 1137 Fourth Street in San Rafael, one of the oldest firms in San Rafael, will be sold to new owners next month.

Americo Oberto and his wife, Mary Ann, who have operated the store for more than 32 years, will be retiring at the end of this month.

Taking over the store on Nov. 1 will be Walter C. and Virginia Voigt of Corte Madera, who have operated Paradise Hardware store at the Paradise Shopping Center for about four years.

Voigt will close his Paradise Hardware and take over Johnson's Hardware, retaining that name and the same services now offered by Oberto. "I don't intend to make any immediate changes," said Voigt. "We'll be open six days a week, the same as now."

Oberto bought Johnson's Hardware from Bob and Alice Johnson on April 18, 1940. Bob Johnson's father started the hardware store in San Rafael more than a hundred years ago.

Oberto said he and his wife will continue to live in San Rafael after their retirement. Their hobbies are golf, gardening and traveling. They have a daughter, Catherine, who is a pre-medical student at the University of California in Berkeley.

A FASHION EXPERT will be at Chandler's Warp 'N Woof in Northgate Mall tomorrow (Wednesday) to give demonstrations on the use of newest fashion twin prints, new fabric care, tips on sewing and on stain removal.

She is Miss Carol Hyman of Loomskill Co., who will give the demonstrations at 10:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m.

Coleman Mrs. Riddell

GEORGE J. COLEMAN of Cove Nursery, Belvedere, was installed last week as president of the California Association of Nurserymen's Redwood Empire chapter.

Other officers installed with Coleman included Hugh Wallace of West End Nursery in San Rafael, the perennial secretary who has already served in that post for 23 years; and Mrs. Ruth Riddell of Petaluma, a state director who will represent the chapter on the state board of directors.

Wallace Bell

BRUCE ROY BELL, a licensed real estate salesman at age 19, has been named a partner in Bell Associates of San Rafael, headed by his father, Jean Bell. Young Bell will work with the firm in the sale of a 100-unit townhouse project now under construction by Westward Builders in San Pablo.

Bell said his firm will soon take over the sale of the 109-unit Miller Creek townhouse development at Las Gallinas and Miller Creek Roads. Bell Associates specializes in subdivision and townhouse selling.

BERGIS-HAGSTROM Realtors of Mill Valley announced the addition of Cassie Azevedo to its staff.

Mrs. Azevedo was assistant to the director of the Lumbleau Real Estate Schools and has been a licensed broker for almost four years. Mother of three, she lives in Mill Valley.

The Bergis-Hagstrom office, at 85 East Blithedale Avenue, is displaying the art works of Anneliese Martin of Mill Valley. The realty office provides display space for local artists.

FOSTER'S FREEZE Drive-In at 1908 Fourth Street in San Rafael changed hands this week, but the service will continue unchanged.

New owners are Edward Juarez of Petaluma and his wife, Rosario, who took over from Fathallah Mourad, who owned it for the past year. Mourad, who lives in Napa, said he sold because the commuting was too far. Mourad plans to go into the engineering field.

Juarez, the new owner of Foster's Freeze, said he will maintain the same services and the same hours — 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. seven days a week.

SAMUEL D. WESTER of San Rafael has joined Guckenheimer Enterprises Inc. of Redwood City as vice president, marketing. He was also elected secretary to the company's board of directors.

Before joining Guckenheimer, Wester was with Manning's Inc. and Saga Administrative Corporation.

Guckenheimer Enterprises is engaged in food management business for business and industry, schools and colleges, hospitals, and gourmet sandwich shops on the West Coast.

A HAWAIIAN Holiday for two is offered as top prize in a contest sponsored by Young Bros. furniture in Novato during its current seventh anniversary sale. The contest winds up on Oct. 29.

R. L. ROSEMEYER of San Francisco has been named banking services officer in Wells Fargo Bank's Sausalito office.

Rosemeyer joined Wells Fargo in 1963. He was banking services officer at the bank's Seventh Avenue-Clement office in San Francisco before being named to the Sausalito post.

BREEN & CO. Inc., a second mortgage broker dealing in real estate loans and investments, opened this week in its new office in suite 204 at 511 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Greenbrae.

The firm, headed by General Manager Robert Fonarow, moved from its former location at 1005 A Street in San Rafael.

Tiburon Vintners Report Record Sales

Net profits of $465,436 were achieved on revenues of $5,766,420. This compares with earnings of $251,686 on revenues of $3,557,583 for the 1971 fiscal year.

1973 CATALINA

Pontiac's Catalina has all-new front-end sheet metal with the grille extending the full width of the front. The Catalina has a front bumper system which meets the requirements of federal bumper standards. Bumper guards and rubstrips are available. Marin County dealer is Stan Wisnes Pontiac, GMC, Honda in San Rafael.

Prospects Now Bright For United Aircraft

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. In 1955 we purchased 20 shares of United Aircraft (NYSE) at 59½. We got 16 more shares in 1965 because of a split. The dividend gives us $64.80 a year. Should we sell? — I.T.

A. United Aircraft paid a 20 per cent dividend in 1957, giving you four additional shares and in 1965, a 3-for-2 split increased your holdings by 12 shares. This, in effect, reduces your original cost price to $33 on each of the 36 shares you hold. Although you have about a 10-point profit from your cost price, I would hold for the present. Prospects have brightened recently for this major aircraft-aerospace company, indicating an above-average appreciation potential for at least the next 12 months.

Strong earnings recovery was reported in the first half with profit up 70 per cent to $2.28 a share. With no major write-offs anticipated in the final quarter, full year net could reach $4 a share. Military orders are on the upswing and management has estimated that sales will exceed last year's $2.03 billion level. The $1.80 annual dividend, which yields 4.2 per cent at current levels, adds to the appeal of these shares.

Q. I hold stock in Pacific Te. & Tel. (NYSE), San Jose Water Works (ASE), Pacific Gas Transmission (PCE) and New England Gas & Elec. (OTC). I am interested in high yield, safety and long-term appreciation. Now I am interested in acquiring additional stock and also in whether any of the above should be sold? — N.N.

A. Your three highest yielding issues, New England Gas, Pacific Gas Trans. and Pacific Telephone, for various reasons, have reported declining earnings. Increased expenses, rate problems, higher interest and natural gas costs were factors in reducing profits for these utilities. Resolution of these problems will take time, therefore I would suggest switching to more promising situations. As replacements and for new capital I like American Telephone, Boston Edison, Lomas & Nettleton Mortgage Investors and Washington Water Power — all Big Board stocks.

Moderate Trading, Prices Up

The overall list showed advances leading declines, 785 to 568, among 1,745 issues on the tape.

Analysts noted some favorable economic news developments including industrial production and factory output both higher in the month of September. Analysis said also Henry Kissinger's latest peace moves helped bolster sentiment.

Prices were mixed on the American Stock Exchange.

International Business Machines showed strength most of the day. IBM's chairman said he was confident the government's attempt to break up the computer firm "won't happen." The IBM official said the change in wording of the Justice Department brief asking for break up instead of divestiture of some operations came as somewhat of a surprise to the company.

Acquisition Announced By Redwood

Redwood Bancorp, which operates the Redwood Bank in San Rafael and four other banking offices in the Bay Area, has agreed in principle to acquire National Mortgage Company of Salt Lake City for 45,575 shares of Redwood Bancorp stock.

The announcement came from Byron W. Leydecker, president of Redwood Bancorp, and John E. Papanikolas, president of National Mortgage. National Mortgage services real estate loans of $35 million for 15 institutional investors. Redwood Bancorp's mortgage division currently services mortgages for 24 institutional investors with $70 million in loans.

The acquisition is Redwood Bancorp's first move toward growth through external expansion. The purchase is subject to approval by the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System and by the boards of both companies.

THE CENTERFOLD — The Harvard Lampoon, the nation's oldest college humor magazine, is featuring this centerfold in a full-length parody of Cosmopolitan magazine. It's a nude Henry Kissinger but as some reports have it, the body of a cab driver.

N.Y. Subpoenas Crime Families

NEW YORK (UPI)—A task force of 1,200 police officers papered the metropolitan area with subpoenas Monday, summoning 667 alleged organized crime figures to an appearance before a racket-busting Brooklyn grand jury.

Brooklyn District Attorney Eugene Gold announced the massive sweep and said that his investigators had bugged an alleged "summit headquarters" of organized crime hidden in a nondescript trailer parked in a junkyard.

Gold told a news conference that "the top members" of the city's five "crime families" had been observed at the junkyard, and called Monday's massive subpoenaing "bigger than Apalachin"—a raid that resulted in the arrest of alleged top mobsters gathered at the estate of Joseph Barbera in 1957.

But Gold refused to disclose any names of those subpoenaed. He said the grand jury would be sitting five days a week to hear the evidence, and added that "the grand jury will speak very shortly," perhaps within 10 days.

Gold said that at 4 a.m. police began serving subpoenas on 677 alleged organized crime members, each of whom has been observed, in surveillance that began last April, frequenting the junkyard located across the street from a parochial high school in a quiet, middle-class neighborhood.

It was also reported that about 100 police officers would be subpoenaed to testify before the grand jury.

Gold said the subpoenas were being served in all five boroughs, and in suburban Rockland, Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk counties. Charles J. Hynes, head of Gold's rackets squad, said they were returnable beginning Oct. 25.

Gold said it was possible that "in excess of 1,000 persons" will be called to testify.

Firehouse Meeting

The Kentfield Fire Protection District board will hold a special meeting at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the firehouse in order to discuss a contract for fire protection at Marin General Hospital, according to Chief Kenneth Kamp.

Government Asks IBM Breakup

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Justice Department in a major antitrust action asked Monday that International Business Machines (IBM) be broken up "into several jiscrete, separate, independent and competitively balanced entities."

The government brief, the latest move in a 3-year-old suit against the world's largest computer manufacturer, is considered the most important antitrust action since the 1911 order to break up Standard Oil Co.

IBM said in its answering brief that the Justice Department "consistently failed to comply" with agreements reached with officials of both the Nixon and Johnson administrations. The agreements, IBM said, were that the company would have the opportunity to negotiate before being slapped with an antitrust suit.

Nonetheless, the Johnson administration filed the suit Jan. 17, 1969—its last business day, IBM contended. The day before that, it said, then Attorney General Ramsey Clark agreed at a meeting with IBM executives that "the government might well not have sufficient or complete informationn as to the nature" of the matter, the company said.

The Justice Department said it sought "divestiture relief designed to dissipate the enormous market power of the current IBM computer mmanufacturing and marketing structure."

It asked for the "formation of the total domestic and international computer systems facilities of IBM into several discrete, separate, independent and competitively balanced entities capable of competing successfully in domestic and international markets with one another and with other domestic and foreign competitors."

In addition, it asked that IBM be prohibited from marketing its computer systems and support services by using package deals. The firm should be stopped from price discrimination and from announcing new computer products before those are developed, since both practices hinder competition, the suit said.

IBM argues that there are 2,500 companies offering computers and hardware and a variety of compuuter services. Because of that, the company said, there can be no real basis to the government's charge that IBM has a monopoly.

IBM had a net income of $305.7 million for the first three months of this year. The computer business is easily among the world's fastest growing.

On Wall Street, IBM stock lost 141-2 points in reaction to the government statement.

Theft Of Cash

Someone broke into Kentucky Fried Chicken at 939 Front Street, Novato sometime Sunday night or yesterday morning and took $300 cash, Novato Police reported. The burglary was discovered by the cook, Jerry B. Carlson, when he opened the restaurant.

HARVARD LAMPOON

Henry Kissinger Becomes Latest 'Cosmopolitan Man'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI)—The Cosmopolitan Man's pearly teeth glitter above a freckled pot belly. Spindly, hairy legs reach demurely for the right side of the centerfold. Is that really Henry Kissinger, presidential adviser supreme?

One member of the Harvard Lampoon staff says it is, because Kissinger "was the only person to call us up and volunteer for the centerfold."

Somebody else says it's only Kissinger's face "on the body of a cab driver we met near Central Park."

The Harvard Lampoon has struck again, after a three-year silence. Monday, the Lampoon released advance copies of its latest parody — Cosmopolitan magazine, which recently published a centerfold picture of actor Burt Reynolds.

For the past 98 years, the Lampoon has been poking fun at various publications, printing absurdly funny articles and pictures in an exaggeration of the style and format the publications use. The last parody was of Time magazine in 1969.

In the present issue, the centerfold subject brandishes a cigar in the right hand, covers its privates with the left arm and leans back, grinning, on the skin of a giant panda.

"The American public wanted Henry Kissinger," said James Downey, a Lampoonster. "We were thinking along the lines of Ralph Nader."

The cover promises such articles as "10 Ways to Decorate Your Uterine Wall," "How to Tell if Your Man Is Dead," and "For a Good Time Call Lola, 555-5493." (That turned out to be a nonworking number.)

Lampoon President Eric Rayman said the choices of Kissinger and Cosmopolitan were ideas "whose time had come." President Nixon had been in the running, he said.

The parody calls Kissinger a "bewitching Berliner" who "cuts a dashing political figure that would make Tallyrand turn in his codpiece."

The White House said it makes no comment on such matters. One source said, however, that "Henry doesn't smoke cigars."

Pact Will Ease Travel In Germany

BONN (UPI)—East and West Germany today implemented a treaty regulating traffic across their frontier, the first treaty between them since the two states were established in 1949.

State Secretaries Egon Bahr of West Germany and Michael Kohl of East Germany handed each other papers ratifying the state traffic treaty at ceremonies in Bonn.

The treaty, previously approved by the Parliaments of the two Germanies, goes into effect at midnight (7 p.m.EDT) and regulates travel across the frontier by road, rail and water.

East and West Germany are currently negotiating a much broader state treaty covering diplomatic relations between them, a historic step for which today's agreement would be a curtain-raiser.

Spokesmen for West German Chancellor Willy Brandt say the diplomatic treaty negotiations are in "a delicate phase." East Germany wants full recognition as a sovereign state while Bonn wants the treaty to describe the two Germanies as twin states within one nation.

In connection with today's traffic treaty, the East Germans have pledged in a separate protocol they will soon allow East Germans to visit relatives in West Germany for the first time since the Berlin Wall was built in 1961. Opponents of Brandt's Eastern policies expressed skepticism that the East Germans will keep their word.

"One of the ten best cars in the world."

Lightning reflexes, vivid performance and lush comfort can exist in one car: the new Mercedes-Benz 350SL has earned widespread plaudits by providing them all. An uncanny blend of sports car dash and limousine poise, powered by a 4.5-litre overhead-cam V-8, mounted on an independent suspension, fitted with 4-wheel disc brakes. Air conditioning and 3-speed automatic shift are standard equipment. Very few cars today deserve the term "breathtaking." This is one of them.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

GREETINGS! Has the Selective Service announced what birthday gets the last call in the draft? Y.M.

DEAR Y.M.

President Nixon says the draft will end July 1, 1973. That means there will be another lottery next year. For the current year, Selective Service has put the lottery ceiling at Random Sequence Number 95, which catches men born on June 14. If the following celebrities were 19-years old, they would be June 14 draft eligibles — actor Gene Barry, folk singer Burl Ives, journalist Pierre Salinger, baseball star Don Newcombe, and pop singer Bobby Darin. But all are overage! Draft bait this week is Oct. 16, which got a low number. All the other days this week are above 95. The lucky birthday of the year apparently is Feb. 5, which got Number 96.

FAMOUS BIRTHDAYS TODAY

1. RITA HAYWORTH is 54 today, but she won't hit you with the nearest table lamp if you know it. Hollywood's "Gilda" is just as stunning now as when she was being chased by Dick Haymes, Orson Welles, and Ali Kahn.

Quiz question: Was she born in Mexico City, New York City or Salt Lake City?

2. ARTHUR MILLER, 57 today, will have a happy birthday today if he gets a big laugh. His new comedy, "The Creation of the World and Other Business," opens tonight in Washington, D.C. But why worry, Art? You already have won a N.Y. Drama Critics award and a Pulitzer Prize. At one time he also won the hand of a beautiful Hollywood actress. Was it Joan Blondell, Jean Harlow or Marilyn Monroe?

3. BEVERLY GARLAND, TV wife to Fred MacMurray on "My Three Sons," began acting at age 4 and joined summer stock after college. This birthday celebrant became Mrs. Steve Douglas on MacMurray's TV series. Right or wrong?

ANSWERS

1. New York City;
2. Marilyn Monroe;
3. Right.

Oct. 17, 1972

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

A Good Rule: Choose Right Suit To Avoid Any Dangers

When you're not sure which suit to develop, consider the possibility that only one of the opponents may be a menace. Develop the suit that keeps the dangerous opponent out of the lead.

South dealer
East-West vulnerable

	NORTH ♠ Q 5 ♡ A 6 2 ◇ A K J 5 3 ♣ 10 9 6
WEST ♠ A J 9 3 2 ♡ 9 8 5 ◇ 8 4 ♣ K 8 3		EAST ♠ 10 7 4 ♡ J 10 7 3 ◇ Q 7 2 ♣ 7 4 2
	SOUTH ♠ K 8 6 ♡ K Q 4 ◇ 10 9 6 ♣ A Q J 5

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	1 ◇	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 NT	All Pass

Opening lead — ♠ 3

SMALL SPADE

West opens the three of spades, and dummy's queen wins the first trick.

From this you will gather that West has the ace of spades. If East should win a trick later, he will lead a spade through your king. West will then defeat the contract with the rest of the spades.

You don't mind giving up a trick to West because West cannot attack the spades without giving you a second spade trick. In short, East is the dangerous opponent and West is the safe opponent.

DEVELOP CLUBS

For this reason you develop the clubs. At the second trick you lead the ten of clubs from dummy and let it ride for a finesse.

Sooner or later, West will take his king of clubs. He may then switch to a diamond, but you decline to finesse in that suit. Instead, you run for safety, collecting one spade, three hearts, two diamonds and three clubs.

DIFFERENT PLAN

You would play the hand differently if East happened to win the first trick with the ace of spades. (Switch the ace and the seven of spades and this would happen.) Then you would hold up your king of spades until the third round of that suit and you would go after the diamonds by finessing the ten of diamonds around to the queen. In this case East would be the safe opponent and West would be dangerous.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one club, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠- 10 7 4
♥- J 10 7 3
♦- Q 7 2
♣- 7 4 2.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Pass.

You need six points for a sound response to partner's opening bid. On occasion, you may shade this down to five points, but there is no reason to bid with only three points.

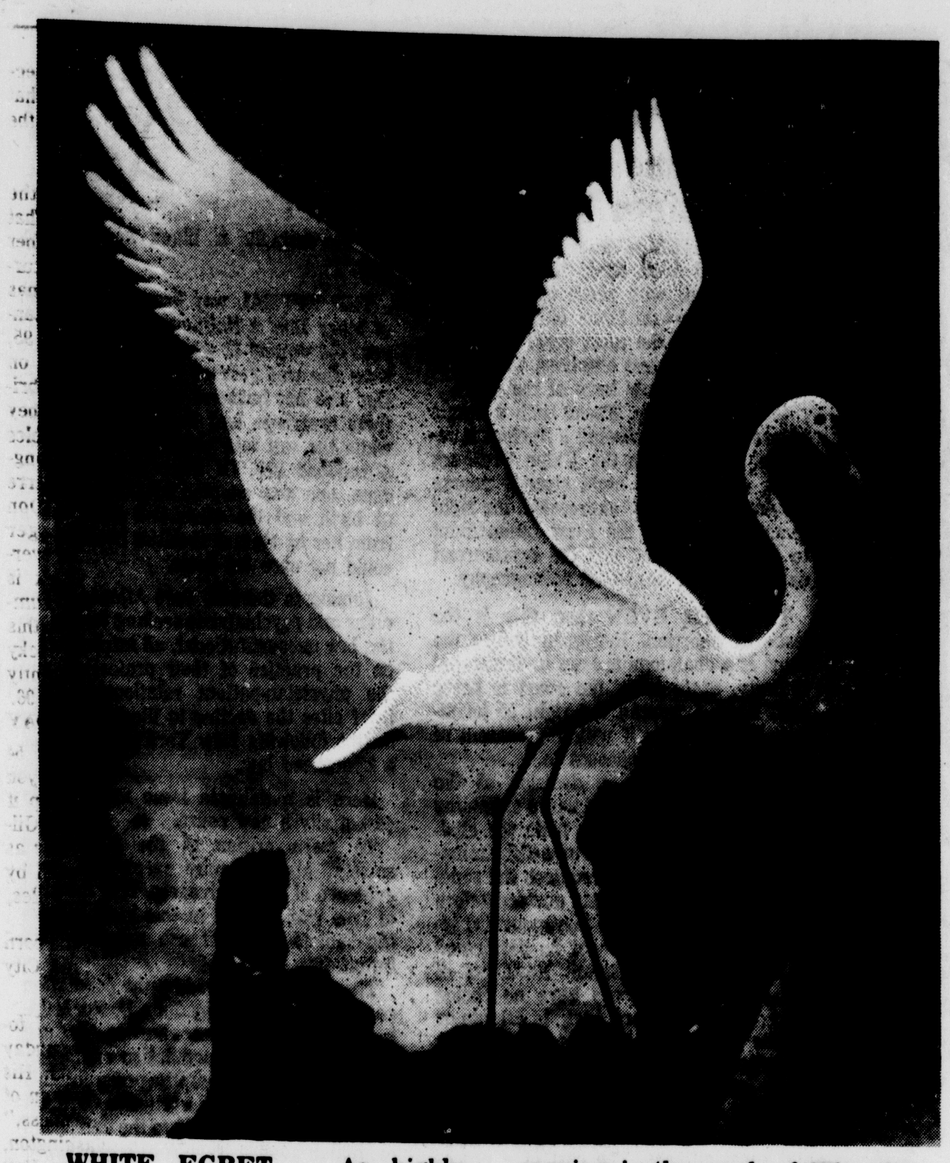
Changes Sought In New Zealand

WELLINGTON, N.Z. (AP) — Three major changes to New Zealand's way of life are being sought by organizers of the Christchurch Commonwealth Games from Jan. 24 to Feb. 2, 1974.

They want staggered holidays for workers, a later start of the school year and later drinking hours.

Most New Zealanders take their summer vacations from Christmas to mid-January, causing a massive industrial and commercial closedown. But some businessmen now say they will allow staff to take holidays coinciding with the Games.



WHITE EGRET — As highly stylized and with all the economy of execution of antique Oriental brushwork, a carved white egret stands with wings spread and poised for flight. The graceful carving is the work of Wheatley Allen who — with his sculptor brother, Peter, and illustrator Thomas Quinn — is showing his work at Shorebirds Gallery in Belvedere.

Birds, Whales and Dolphins Take Over Shorebirds Gallery

By ADA GARFINKEL

Birds and sea lions, whales, and dolphins — and a shark — have taken over the Shorebirds Gallery in Belvedere. Which is a way of saying that the brothers Allen are once again exhibiting bird and sea sculptures.

Showing with the Allens in a three-man exhibit is Thomas Quinn, a young illustrator who lives at Point Reyes Station, and whose drawings of birds have appeared in such national publications as Field and Stream and Sports Afield.

Quinn's work in various media from pen-and-ink to oil, includes several landscapes (mostly sites of bird habitats). These come off second best to the native Marin birds which comprise most of the 20 paintings and drawings in his exhibit. In the latter, his individual approach to each one and his ability to portray specific characterstitic nuances is admirable: the great blue heron in readiness and in take-off; geese, quails, hawks and gulls resting, attending to their body functions, alert and in repose; singly, in pairs, and in interacting groups, or with prey.

Peter and Wheatley Allen are young artist-conservationists who have attracted wide attention for their wood carvings. Wheatly, who lives in Mendocino and whose specialty is birds, works in redwood and sugarpine. Usually the bird sculptures are left in a natural finish, but occasionally they are painted as with the "White Egret", the "California Quail" and the "Baid Eagle".

Of the three artists, it is Peter Allen's mammals which steal the show. Scaled down in size, of redwood, some with a lacquer finish which lends a sleek, wet look (such as to the "Small Sperm Whale"), they are fascinating. Protuberances such as the snub nose of the afore-mentioned whale and form the head of the "Hammerhead Shark" become sculptural manipulations as well as physical characteristics.

Some authorities believe that the bird is a symbol, an image, or a force in the arts, and in life. If true, Wheatley Allen's birds are the epitome of gentleness, and Quinn's marshland species evoke concern for the natural environment.

By extension to other vertebrates, Wheatley Allen's mammals are convincing reminders of primordial life.

The exhibit will continue until October 20, and may be viewed Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Shorebirds Gallery is located on the Boardwalk in Belvedere.

Two Marinites To Get Hearing On Drug Charge

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Two Marin men arrested on suspicion of selling more than $3,000 in cocaine to undercover agents have been scheduled to enter pleas in U.S. District Court Oct. 26.

Gilroy Eloy Atencio, 31, of 324 Via La Paz, Greenbrae, and Timothy More Wall, 22, of 444 Scenic Road, Fairfax, were indicted on charges of sale and delivery of cocaine, possession of cocaine and use of communication to facilitate felony.

The men were arrested Sept. 21 at Atencio's home following what an inspector in the county sheriff's department said was a two-year investigation. He said federal agents had arranged to buy 2.5 ounces of cocaine from Antencio. His house was raided by state, federal and local officials who smashed thick glass windows when Atencio allegedly refused to open the door.

Top County Music Award Goes To Loretta Lynn

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)— Singer Loretta Lynn became the first woman ever to win country music's entertainer of the year award Monday night and chided her husband for skipping the event to go hunting.

"The only thing I'm sad about is that my husband has gone huntin' and couldn't make it tonight," Miss Lynn told a national television audience.

Miss Lynn, a coal miner's daughter who staged a benefit performance last year for the widows and children of a Kentucky mine disaster, also was named female vocalist of the year and shared the vocal duo of the year award with Conway Twitty.

Charley Pride, the only black singer to reach prominence in country music, was named male vocalist of the year for the second year in a row.

Former Louisiana Gov. Jimmy Davis, best known for the song "You Are My Sunshine," was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame.

Donna Fargo, a former California school teacher and a relative newcomer to country music, was honored for her single of the year, "The Happiest Girl in the Whole U.S.A."

The song of the year was Freddie Hart's "Easy Loving."

Charlie McCoy, who brought the harmonica back to country music, was named instrumentalist of the year.

The Statler Brothers, whose big record was "Class of '57," were named the vocal group of the year.

Propositions 18, 11: Two We Don't Need

Proposition 18 is labeled "obscenity legislation" on the ballot but called "censorship" by its opponents. Those different labels in themselves show the difficulty faced in attempts to rule out smut while preserving freedom of speech and the press.

Proposition 18 is not a constitutional amendment. It would add to the California Penal Code new strictures on pornography.

First off, the measure would delete from wherever they appear in the Penal Code the words which add to the definition of obscenity or harmful matter "which taken as a whole is utterly without redeeming social importance."

These weasel words have provided the escape hatch for exhibitors and purveyors of the most disgusting pornography to avoid conviction. The foulest behavior or most obscene writing can be shown to have some social importance in its way.

IF THAT WAS all Proposition 18 did, we'd go along with it. But it isn't. Far from it!

It then proceeds to add to the Penal Code material on what constitutes obscenity that takes up five pages in the 6-by-9 inch manual of propositions that accompanies sample ballots.

By the time it gets through, it hasthrown such a tight-meshed net around what can be printed or displayed that it qualifies as what its opponents call it — censorship.

WE DEPLORE the current tendency toward vulgarity and obscenity on movie screens, the stage, in print, and in public behavior. We deplore court decisions that have freed purveyors of the most degrading "entertainment" through that escape hatch of "redeeming social importance."

But we don't think the kind of extreme restrictions on what can be done, shown or printed that have been included in Proposition 18 provide the answer.

We recommend a "NO" vote on Proposition 18.

Where Proposition 18 is so restrictive as to be dangerous, Proposition 11 is so permissive as to be either meaningless or dangerous in another way.

PROPOSITION 11 would add two words to Section 1, Article I of the California Constitution (which occupies the same position in the state's basic law as the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution). The words are "and privacy."

This would make privacy an "inalienable right" under the state constitution.

It looks innocuous. Everyone believes in the right of privacy. But if it is all that innocuous, why bother with it? And — knowing our courts — we can see those two little words providing the basis for all sorts of lawsuits alleging invasion of the constitutional right of privacy.

The right of privacy already is recognized in our laws. We see no need to add these words to the state constitution.

We recommend a "NO" vote on Proposition 11.

The Mighty Oak

Acorns are reaching maturity now in Marin. Thousands fall to the ground only to be devoured by some hungry mammal, bird or insect. Some decay. A small fraction of a per cent sprout. Maybe one in 10,000 sprouts finds conditions right to set its roots and start growing. Oaks grow slowly. We are tempted to philosophize and say it takes time to produce something great. In the case of the oak, it takes at least a century.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

AAUW, BPW Not Involved In 'Elect Women' Move

By EARL G. WATERS

Reports that two staid women's organizations had joined a movement to elect women to the California Senate have been strongly protested.

The original report linked the American Association of University Women and the Business and Professional Women with an upstart organization known as the National Women's Political Caucus.

The last avowedly a political activist group, has not denied its involvement with an all-out campaign to seat two women in the California Senate. This, it has been declared, is to further the cause of women's liberation.

IT IS REGRETTED that a misunderstanding resulted in identifying the university and professional women's clubs as parties to so inane an approach to politics.

Both organizations are long established and have fine reputations for constructive work. Both are dedicated to the cultural advancement of women and the improvement of life for all.

In addition to striving for the elevation of women through education, they naturally concern themselves with issues in the political arena at times. They are to be counted upon to be involved in those issues which strike at equal employment opportunities for women.

But their position in such matters is based upon merit of the individual. Their contention that employment and pay should be based upon merit and not upon sex is valid.

So it was surprising to receive reports that the two clubs had kicked over the traces of their traditional circumspect approach and joined a move to elect women for women's sake.

SUBSEQUENT CHECKING has determined that neither club is in any manner connected with this ill-conceived campaign of electing women merley because they are women. Checks were made by responsible leaders of both organizations confirming this.

The misunderstanding provides the opportunity to clarify their real positions.

Mrs. Corrine Geeting, a former state officer of the AAUW, states, "We are not inclined to become a part of any 'battle cry' since our approach to social and political problems is kept free as possible of inflammatory and divisive semantics."

Mrs. Anita Miller, immediate past president of the AAUW, says, "It is against policy to endorse or oppose any candidate, man or woman, for any public office."

MRS. MARION ASH, a leader of the Business and Professional Women, agrees that any argument that women should be elected to the Legislature because they are women is ridiculous.

Mrs. Ash, through her astute publication Skirting the Capitol, keeps women abreast of issues affecting them. She has been long identified on the capitol scene as one dedicated to equality for women. She was working for women's rights long before "women's lib" was ever heard of. Mrs. Ash is more qualified than most women to speak out on matters involving the candidacy of individuals.

She deplores the actions which have singled out Senators Donald Grunsky and Robert Stevens as the intended victims of the current campaign under the banner of women's rights. She points out that Grunksy authored the first equal pay for equal work legislation in the nation and that Stevens fought for ratification of the federal equal rights amendment.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Does Not Accept Fluoridation Arguments

As the proponents of water fluoridation play their politics and repeat endlessly their unproved theory that a bit of fluoride in the water we drink will stop almost all tooth decay, some researchers are quietly turning up more and more evidence as to the actual causes of tooth decay and a sensible way to prevent it.

Literally thousands of such articles are already available in scientific literature. The pro-fluoridationists ignore them and continue to imply that tooth decay results from lack of fluoride in drinking water and has no other cause. They never bother to explain how whole nations of people who have no fluoride in their drinking water also have no tooth decay so long as they eat unprocessed, natural foods. And why their children, drinking the same water, begin to develop rampant tooth decay just as soon as they have access to "western" food, with its enormous content of highly refined flour and cereals and its heavy burden of white sugar and foods made from it.

I hope that the citizens of Marin County will not passively accept the propaganda of the proponents of fluoridation. I, for one, will not. . .

Mill Valley Council Discourtesy Deplored

We have been raising our four daughters in Mill Valley for the past 10 years and during that time have been repeatedly impressed by the hard working devotion of one of our city's leaders — Jean Barnard. It seemed, therefore, very right to us that the Mill Valley City Council should have selected her as mayor. Particularly, we felt confidence in Mrs. Barnard's capacity to chair meetings with the kind of knowledgeableness that can only be achieved by a person devoting full time to her position.

It was with regret that we read of the happenings at the city council meeting after most citizens had left. It is hard to understand what appears to be an ungracious rigidity in refusing to grant Mrs. Barnard's request for a courtesy. If, indeed, the council's only reasons for altering the length of time the mayor is in office is because most other mayors in Marin County serve only one year, and it is more democratic, then the immediacy of the change does not seem necessary — particularly when weighed against an implied censure of a very valuable community worker.

If there are other reasons for replacing Mrs. Barnard next April, reasons that have not been brought out, then it would seem that the Mill Valley City Council members have a responsibility to the people they serve to keep us informed.

In any case, we can not feel that this matter is over until it is made clear as to why our mayor, who deserves so much appreciation for her many years of sincere devotion to our city, is being denied a requested courtesy which is most commonly granted.

Special Bus Lane Called Unconstitutional

Setting aside a special lane at certain times for only certain buses over Waldo Grade must be a violation of the constitutional right guaranteed by the 14th Amendment, of equality under the law. Automobile, truck and non-profit bus owners have paid registration and weight fees, fuel taxes, etc., as their fair share of the costs of building and maintaining California's highways. Those who have done this are entitled to the use of whatever facilities there are under the conditions that exist at the time of use. Even if the Golden Gate Transit Authority paid such monies, it would entitle them to only their fair share of the available road space and they would take their turn like everyone else.

No means of transport using public funds warrants any privilege over those choosing alternate means. Furthermore, it is obvious that the Golden Gate Transit Authority has not abdicated any right to the use of any of the other lanes of this section of California State Highway 101 in compensation.

Therefore restrictions as to who can use the newly opened northbound lane over Waldo Grade when it is open should be promptly rescinded by the State of California or else the Golden Gate Transit Authority should be required to pay an appropriate rent to the state.

Distortion? How About Discussing The Issues?

In the letters of Oct. 13 there was a blast from Werner von Gundell, planning director of Marin County, charging your editorial against the countywide plan as "showing lack of knowledge." This was because of your reference to "Hitler's national socialism."

"My goodness!" I said to myelf. "I read that editorial and publicly endorsed it. Did I miss some gross distortion?"

On checking back I found this was your wording:

"Yet under the countywide plan proposal a board created by an appointive board — two steps removed from the elective process — would have power over the elected city councils and board of supervisors. Its say would be final.

"If this is democracy, so was Hitler's National Socialism."

Maybe I'm nuts but I don't see any gross distortion or lack of knowledge there. It is a common practice in the English language to try and show the absurdity of some quality being claimed by citing the worst possible case of just the opposite of that quality. For example, "If that feels good so does beating your head against a wall."

If Mr. Gundell wished to support his countywide plan by distorting a supposed distortion, that is his business. As for me, I wish he would shed some constructive light on the situation with issue-oriented arguments.

As regards an issue, how about: "Resolved, the Marin County planning director should be an elective office"?

R. C. FOX

San Rafael

(The editorial about which Werner von Gundell complained did not oppose the countywide plan. It opposed the portion of the plan which would give administration and enforcement to an all-powerful non-elected committee. — Editor.)

Supreme Court Faces Tough Decisions On Abortion, Smut

WASHINGTON — That sign President Truman had on his desk, "the buck stops here," might, with some qualifications, have a place on the bench of the Supreme Court. Two of the most sensitive issues stirring the deepest emotions are up for decision in the new term of the court.

One is obscenity. Faced with a tangle of past rulings, including a dubious opinion of the court in the Ralph Ginzburg case, the justices must steer a course between freedom of expression, the right guaranteed under the First Amendment to the Constitution, and the commercial exploitation of hard-core pornography.

TOUCHIER EVEN than this is the issue of abortion. Reargued before the court is a challenge to laws in Texas and Georgia. State laws, the court is being told, deny a woman the right to terminate a pregnancy if with the consent of her physician she chooses to.

The appeal from a decision of the federal district court in Atlanta upholding Georgia's restrictive law adds the challenge of class and economic discrimination. The Georgia law requires the sanction of a committee of six doctors before an applicant may have therapeutic abortion. The procedure must be performed in an accredited hospital. Residents of the poorer rural areas have no choice unless they can afford a trip to Atlanta or another of the larger cities.

"Statistical information," the appeals brief states, shows that the Georgia abortion statute has had an invidiously discriminatory effect against poor, Negro and rural citizens. The cost of a procedure requiring the services of at least six doctors and the limitation of abortion services to accredited hospitals . . . have weighted the statute in favor of the well-to-do. Studies of the Georgia abortion statute by the Georgia Department of Health and the United States Public Health Service indicate that eight white women have received an abortion for every Negro woman despite the fact that abortion mortality from illegal abortions is 'increasingly a black health problem,' "

THE APPEAL was brought on behalf of Mary Doe, a fictitious name for a 22-year-old woman 11 weeks pregnant at the time she was refused an abortion. Mrs. Doe and her husband were unemployed, their marriage had been unstable and, while the suit was pending, her husband abandoned her. Of three previous children, one was adopted by other parents at birth and the other two were taken from her by state authorities because she could not care for them.

Joining in the suit were Atlanta physicians and psychiatrists seeking to declare the law unconstitutional, an infringement on the practice of their profession and the physician-patient relationship. The brief cites the decline in illegal abortion deaths following New York's adoption of a liberalized law.

To stern critics of the permissive society, abortion may seem one more evidence of permissiveness. It is the kind of free choice that, in this view, allows the individual to choose morality and immorality.

The report submitted by the population commission headed by John D. Rockefeller III declared for abortion as one means to limit the population explosion. President Nixon promptly undercut this recommendation with a letter to Cardinal Cooke giving his support to the cardinal's campaign against New York's liberalized law. The New York law is considered a model by those fighting restrictions in other states.

Attitudes are changing, as the latest Gallup poll showed. In the cross-section 64 per cent favored a free choice, the percentage of Catholics was 56 per cent. Here on a matter of life and death, the future of millions still unborn, the opinion of the Supreme Court can have far-reaching consequences.

Proposal To Build Offshore Oil Terminals Creates Alarm

A new battle is shaping up between those concerned about America's need for more sources of energy and those who worry about pollution of the environment.

At issue this time are plans by the U.S. government and the oil industry to build giant offshore terminals at which large modern supertankers could unload their sticky cargoes of crude petroleum.

The salient facts of the dispute are as follows:

THE UNITED STATES, because of its prodigious consumption of energy, is becoming more and more dependent on imported oil. Projections indicate domestic production will meet less than half the nation's petroleum needs by 1985.

It's a great deal cheaper to haul oil in a big tanker than in a small or medium sized tanker. For example, the cost of bringing one barrel of crude petroleum from the Middle East to the Atlantic seaboard of the United States could be reduced about 65 per cent if East Coast ports were able to accommodate 300,000 ton tankers instead of being limited by their relatively shallow harbors, to tankers of 80,000 tons or less.

Moreover, the 300,000 ton supertankers now in use are small in comparison with some already on the ways or on drawing boards. Japan plans soon to launch a tanker with a capacity close to 500,000 tons. And tankers as large as one million tons capacity are being planned.

THE WEST COAST has three deep harbors —Los Angeles, Long Beach and Puget Sound — that can handle supertankers. But the East Coast, where the demand for petroleum is greatest, can cope with the fantastic draughts of supertankers (the new Japanese ship, for example, will need a depth of 92 feet of water in which to operate) only by building "floating island" terminals in deep offshore waters.

The idea is for supertankers to unload at an offshore terminal, with the oil being pumped to the mainland through pipelines.

The U.S. Maritime Administration has officially recommended construction of such a facility, at an estimated cost of $500 million, on a 200-acre artificial island about 9 miles east of Cape Henlopen, Del. Army Engineers are working on plans for at least five other offshore terminals stretching from Maine south along the East Coast.

THE MARITIME Administration and U.S. oil importers say these offshore ports are the only economically feasible solution to America's rapidly growing demand for foreign petroleum.

But environmental protection groups are upset. They recall the colossal messes created in recent years by oil spills from much smaller tankers. They argue that the planned Cape Henlopen oil port would be within a few miles of two popular ocean resorts — Rehoboth Beach, Del., and Cape May, N.J. One storm-ruptured supertanker, they say, would spill enough black, greasy crude petroleum to despoil vast stretches of seashore.

The budding controversy probably will be fought out ultimately in Congress. Legislation has been introduced by senators from several East Coast states to give states some say in determining where offshore terminals may be located and what environmental safeguards will be required.

This bill will encounter quiet but powerful opposition from oil companies that want to import oil at minimum cost. The environmentalistlobby, by contrast, is poorly funded and heavily dependent on volunteers and private contributions. The odds at present seem to be pretty one-sided.

10 YEARS AGO

Oct. 17, 1962

Independent-Journal reporter Bruce Coleman disclosed that the Mill Valley City Council had been holding secret meetings in San Francisco.

Novato City Councilman John Angeloni was served with papers notifying him he would be target of a recall movement during a stormy council meeting over route of the proposed Highway 101 bypass.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Folks (including some congressmen) never really knew what was going on in Congress until Ralph Nader told 'em.

This guy not only knows everything about everything — but he's willing to share his information.

Ralph now has given us solutions for everything up to but not including the common cold.

What's left for Nader to investigate? Motherhood? Religion? Crabgrass?

Anybody this smart ought to be king. If his talents weren't also needed as chairman of the Ways and Means Committee and president of General Motors.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By MARY LEYDECKER

The Rain In Spain Falls Mostly Out Of Bus Windows

After Marin, where ecology and open space have assumed a status usually reserved for religious doctrines, it's downright refreshing to ride on a bus filled with smiling people happily throwing all kinds of trash out the windows.

A trip to just two other countries was enough to convince one that the thinking prevalent in such bodies as the Sierra Club and the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District hasn't pervaded much of the rest of the world.

THE SUNNY Costa del Sol of Spain is enjoying a building boom that would strike only horror in the heart of any normal resident of such enclaves as Terra Linda.

High rises dot the Mediterranean coast and the construction crane is a far more common sight than the rose-breasted grosbeak, or whatever bird used to live there.

The only people complaining, though, seem to be Americans who think the Spaniards ought to keep their country the way it used to be so they can travel to a quaint place.

The Spaniards, on the other hand, seem happy with an economy that is prosperous enough to allow them to dress their children like little dolls, drive a little car or ride a fast, clean bus and eat and drink the products of a marvelous cuisine.

As for the buses, they're cleaner than ours — but mainly because the windows are constantly being opened in order to toss out empty cigarette packs, old newspapers, candy wrappers and the other debris of life.

This naturally leads to a somewhat cluttered roadside — but either because there are fewer people per square inch than in this country or because someone is always cleaning up something, it isn't that bad.

AT ANY RATE, there are so many policemen in Spain — reportedly one for every 10 persons — none of whom ever seems to be doing anything, that they could pick up trash if the Spaniards decide it's a problem.

However one views high rises (the Spanish ones get held together with willow poles until their concrete dries), there's still plenty of charm left in a country where virtually every balcony sports a colorful array of flowerpots.

The bullfights still offer large pools of blood (human, bovine and equine) for those who seek that kind of color, and horse-drawn carts mingle with tiny cars, mostly Seats, which go "beep-beep" constantly.

THEN THERE'S Morocco. If somehow we could have a cultural exchange with Marrakech, the ancient walled oasis city, we could send them the Marin County Planning Commission and maybe even a few members of NOW.

The women's libbers could start by taking the veils off the Mohammedan women — from then on, any human rights and privileges would be all down hill.

High rises are not the thing in Marrakech — although there is a new Holiday Inn (one story) which sports the familiar sign in English and Arabic.

With no huge development to fight, our transplanted planning commission could concentrate on traffic planning — like getting separate paths for trucks, cars, bicycles, animals and pedestrians.

The commission would be happy about the color scheme — all the buildings are the same mud color. But a few more sewage arrangements might be helpful.

In exchange for our commission and women's rights, the Moroccans might send us their excess hashish — a commodity readily available day and night from any 11-year-old kid in the street.

The strong stuff would be sufficient to pacify even our most noisy partisans.

Poor Marks To Marin's Legislators

I-J Special Report

LOS ANGELES — The Citizens for Law Enforcement Needs, an organization of conservatives urging "laws which would assure society needed protection," yesterday gave poor grades to both of Marin's state legislators for their votes against positions taken by the group on bills.

Sen. Peter H. Behr, R-San Rafael, voted with the group only three times, against it six, and was absent once, according to its annual report.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, voted with positions favored by the group four times, against it eight and was absent for voting on 10 bills, they said.

The annual report lamented the failure of such bills as one which would have allowed broader use of electronic surveillance devices.

It also urged voter approval next month of Proposition 17, which would restore the death penalty.

Candidates To Meet In Sleepy Hollow

Candidates for Marin County supervisor in the second district, incumbent Peter R. Arrigoni Jr. and Barbara Boxer, will speak at a candidates night at 8 p.m. tomorrow in the Sleepy Hollow Homes Association's clubhouse, 1317 Butterfield Road.

Measure A on the county ballot next month, the proposal to create a countywide regional park district, will be discussed by Pierre Joske, county director of parks and recreation.

$1,760,010 To Marin In Revenue Sharing

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Marin County and its 11 cities will receive $1,760,010 this fiscal year under the new federal legislation to share revenues with local government.

The figure, with amounts due each city, was reported yesterday by the office of Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District. The President is expected to sign the bill today.

The money, however, will come too late to allow any property tax reduction this fiscal year. In the case of the county alone, the revenue would have permitted a 17-cent cut in the $2.75 rate per $100 assessed valuation.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell predicted the revenue will be used to provide property tax relief next year, when it will be supplemented by a second year's payment by the federal government.

The amounts, based on population, are expected to be roughly the same for each of the next four years as well, with a total of $30.2 billion to be shared by the federal government. (Mailliard said yesterday in a Marin speech that eventually the federal revenue sharing program will replace many other federal aid programs for local government.

Of the $1.7 million total due Marin, $1,175,551 will go to the county government.

City figures will be: Belvedere, $9,656; Corte Madera, $39,850; Fairfax, $36,747; Larkspur, $38,961; Mill Valley, $48,082; Ross, $10,187; San Anselmo, $68,277; San Rafael, $171,560; Sausalito, $22,878; Novato, $115,193, and Tiburon, $23,068.

The first checks from the Treasury will be mailed during the first week of November, Mailliard's office said. The second half of the payments will come in January.

Jackie To Campaign For Senator Pell

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)— Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., said Monday Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis will campaign for him next week.

Pell said he and Mrs. Onassis have been friends since their childhood days in Newport where she lived with her stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Auchincloss.

Recall Of Valiants, Dodge Darts Slated

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. is recalling 1,985 Plymouth Valiants and Dodge Darts—the first 1973 model cars to be involved in such a campaign—to check them for possible steering defects.

The recall was announced Monday, but Chrysler said only about 10 per cent of the cars involved in the campaign were actually suspected of having the deficiency.

Six Given Sentences For Drunken Driving

Six persons were sentenced in Marin Municipal Court for drunken driving.

Sentenced Thursday by Judge David R. Baty were:

James Barry Menlove, 34, of 22 Skyline Road, San Anselmo, arrested Sept. 16 in San Rafael, sentenced to five days in county jail, fined $302 and placed on one year probation.

Abdel Razzak Rashad, 40, of San Francisco, arrested Aug. 27 on Highway 101, fined $150 and placed on six months probation.

Rebecca Aline Miller, 28, of San Francisco, arrested Aug. 21 on Highway 101, fined $302 and placed on six months probation.

Larry Charles Collins, 19, of 316 Eastwood Drive, Petaluma, arrested Oct. 6 on Highway 101, fined $302 and placed on one year probation.

Benhardt Bressler Fischer, 56, of San Francisco, arrested Oct. 6 on Highway 101, fined $302 and placed on one year probation.

Donald Joseph Meza, 22, of 50 Larkspur Street, San Rafael, arrested Oct. 5 in San Rafael, fined $302 and placed on one year probation.

The first backboned animals on land were certain fishes that lived in shallow water and in times of drought could survive on land because they had air bladders that could be used as lungs.

2 Protection Bills Pass To President

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — Two bills that would help protect coastal areas from both uncontrolled growth and pollution have cleared Congress in its final hours and gone to the President for his signature into law.

The first would authorize some $200 million over the next five years to help states finance land and water use programs such as preservation of areas with special value for marine life. Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District one of 25 coauthors of the "Coastal zone management" bill, said the funds would enable states to protect, conserve and use coastal zone resources.

The second bill, also co-sponsored by Mailliard and 24 colleagues on the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, would ban all offshore dumping of radiological, chemical or biological warfare agents and of highly radioactive wastes. The dumping of other materials such as harbor dredgings or raw sewage would require a permit from the federal Environmental Protection Agency.

The bill also allocates $30 million to the secretary of commerce to designate marine sanctuaries within three years where no dumping of any kind would be permitted.

California Poll Gives Nixon Substantial Lead

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The California Poll reported today that President Nixon is holding firm to his substantial lead over Sen. George McGovern in California by a 50-36 margin.

Its findings show that Nixon has gained slightly from the last previous poll in August when the Democratic candidate had closed to within a 49-41 margin of the Republican incumbent.

The latest poll found a large bloc of 12 per cent undecided while 2 per cent supported minority parties with roughly 1 per cent each for John Schmitz of the American Independent Party and Dr. Benjamin Spock of the Peace and Freedom Parties.

Pollster Marvin D. Field noted that other polls had showed a wider gap in August than had his poll, so it is possible McGovern is having a mild resurgence.

"Whether the trend for McGovern is actually up or not, however, the fact remains that with less than a month to go, Nixon has a strong lead for California's 45 electoral votes and McGovern has considerable ground to make up." But he stressed that "the figures alone are never a prediction of how the election is going to come out. Public opinion...can still sometimes change with startling suddenness."

Chinese Terror Ends In Arrests

OAKLAND, Calif. (UPI)—A two-year reign of terror against Chinese in this San Francisco Bay city has ended with the arrest of five youths on extortion charges, police said.

Inspectors said Monday the youths were members of a gang called Suey Sing credited with extortion, assaults, destruction of property and other crimes against businessmen in the city's Chinatown and Chinese-American families elsewhere in the area.

Galen Way Yuen, 20, and Joe Dong Chin, 20, were held in lieu of $50,000 bail on attempted extortion charges. Three juveniles, two aged 16 and one 15, were also in custody on attempted extortion and assault with a deadly weapon charges.

Cox In Marin

President Nixon's son-in-law, Edward Cox, will campaign in Marin tomorrow, appearing between 11 and 11:20 a.m. at county Republican headquarters at 915 Lootens Place, San Rafael.

Northgate Main Shopping Center

Northgate Mall in Terra Linda, which opened in 1965 with the Emporium store surrounded only by undeveloped land, is now the county's major shgpping area with more than 55 stores covering 45 acres.

Growth has been remarkable, particularly this year, as a score of offices and shops poured into the mall to join Sears, Roebuck's giant new complex.

In the past three months, since Pay Less Drug Store took over the former City of Paris site, 15 new stores have either moved in or are about to move into the mall, and two existing stores have expanded into larger and more modern quarters.

Chandler's Warp N' Woof Fabrics moved into a new building next to Sears on Aug. 15, more than doubling its former space. On Oct. 1, McKenzie's Junior Vogue expanded into space previously occupied by Chandler's Shortly thereafter, Catania Sound of San Rafael announced it would take over McKenzie's former site.

Sears, Roebuck and Co retail store and automotive center; Eureka Federal Savings; Abbey-Hallmark, which carries everything from Hallmark paper goods to fancy party goods for rent; DeTour Luggage, which features leather luggage and gift items oriented to travel; Foxmoor Casuals, specializing in clothes for girls aged 15 to 26; Regal shoes for men; and Pay Less.

Other shops that plan to open at The Mall in the near future include:

Accessories Unlimited, costume jewelry shop; Bumbleberry Fun Family Restaurant, featuring homemade food and an old-fashioned ice cream fountain; Clyde de Barcelona beauty shop; Brentano's, carrying books, adult games, jewelry, sculpture and other items; Kinney Shoes, for the family; Papsie's junior boutique fashion shop; Parklane Hosiery; the Shoe Den, featuring men's and women's fashion footwear, and Catania Sound.

Veteran stores of Northgate Mall which set the tone for future development were the Emporium, Roos-Atkins and some 40 shops which have maintained the mall's standards in quality of goods, services and esthetics.

Adriann of Marin, American Express, Bank of America, Bathtique, Bella Boutique, Chandler's Fabrics, Coffe Etc., Crystal Room, Drake's Jewelry, Elegant Room Interiors, Florsheim Shoes, Frank More, GallenKamp Shoes, General Nutrition Center, Gloria Marshall Salon, Good Vi's Panthouse, Granat Bros. Jewelers.

Hastings, Interior Systems, Ladybug Coiffeurs, Leed's Shoes, Livingston's, Lore-Jan, McKenzie's, Milen's Jewelers, Modern Eve, Mother-To-Be, Music Box, Northgate Theater, Oxford Shop, See's Candies, Singer Co., Sommer and Kaufmann, Stribley's Gifts, Sunshine Hair Co., W and J Sloane, Walden Book Store and Zanze's Restaurant.

When all new stores have moved in, the mall will contain more than 55 stores served by 3,023 parking stalls around the cluster of buildings.

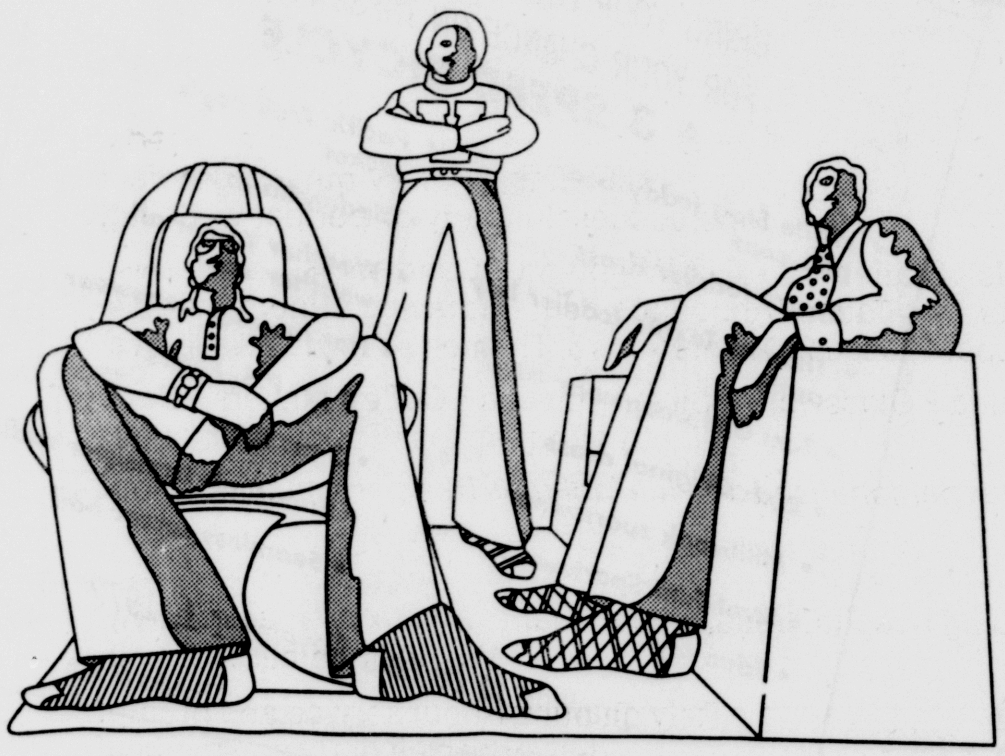
FOR LEISURELY STROLL

Trees, shrubs and well-placed planters provide soothing relief to the shopper as he strolls through the spacious promenade area of Northgate Mall. All buildings beyond W & J Sloane were added to the Northgate Mall this year. The massive structure directly ahead is the giant new Sears, which opened last Saturday. Buildings on both sides of promenade house more than a dozen new shops that have opened or are opening in conjunction with Sears.



Until now it's been a matter of wearing very ordinary shoes, very expensive shoes or none at all. Which means some of our guys have been waiting pretty long for Regal. But now, that's all ended. Now that the new Regal Shoe Shop is here you'll find all the great fashion looks and selection you've been waiting for to complement your clothes. And, just as important, you'll find the right prices, too, at Regal. Style, selection, price and a tremendous looking new store. Come in, with or without shoes and see for yourself.

gross sales of about $20 million last year. This is expected to increase by another 50 per cent because of the addition of Sears and the other new shops this year.

The mall was purchased in 1966 by M and T Incorporated of San Francisco from the Draper Cos. The corporation, managed by Walter Patrick Smith, developed 30 of the 45 acres. The alst 15 acres at the south end were occupied by Sears and the other new stores this year.

When Stress Takes Over

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Stress occurs when a person is out of balance with the demands surrounding him.

Georgia Skinker, extension family economics and management specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, says so.

She said a situation such as this often is thought of as nervous tension or pressure. It usually shows up in the form of headaches, rashes, fullness in the throat and even ulcers. Among her tips for survival: "Develop your own pace of living and don't worry about keeping up with somebody else's standards.

New Models

Cabinet and portable model sewing machines are available to fit in with today's smaller room sizes and furnishings. Also, cabinet models offer a choice of wood tones to blend with room decor. All are available at Sears in Northgate, San Rafael.

Classic Trend In Men's Clothes

Fashion this fall for men shows an emphasis toward classics, softer patterns and silhouettes along with different fabrics and textures.

Comfort fabrics — wools that stretch; double knits in slacks, suits and all-weather coats, a leather that is washable and reversible and new contemporary looks in corduroy — all carry a masculine approach to this new trend.

In color, the earth tones such as cornhusk tan, light creole, rosewood, creole accentuated with beet, marine blue, pine green and rally red will predominate, according to Paul Rogers, men's fashion coordinator of Sears.

Use Pantyhose For A Topper

There is an entertaining exercise in recycling by simply turning a pair of pantyhose into a hat. The pantyhose might have found their way into the nearest litter basket if a little ingenuity and a bit of Christmas braid or ribbon had not intervened.

Using the top of a pantyhose as the headpiece, the elastic is turned under all around the head and blind stitched here and there.

The legs are then secured at the top of the head and braided loosely with whatever bright bits and pieces happen to be at hand (glittery tinsel, rick-rack, a strand of pearls).

Presto . . . a chic '20s toque . . . new topping for your holiday pantsuit or that slinky slip of an evening gown.

JUST PERFECT FOR ALL

The right sentiment as expressed in greeting cards, pocket books and wall plaques tempt the shopper at Abbey-Hallmark at the newly opened section of the Northgate Mall. The store is divided between stationery and gift items and rental accessories available through Abbey Rentals, from party items to everyday needs. And right now there's a bonus for the shopper — a Hallmark collection of antique greeting cards.

A Familiar Landmark— The Emporium

A MARIN CENTER — This is the artist's sketch of the Emporium in the Northgate Center Shopping Mall. The store opened its doors on June 29, 1964. It is a familiar landmark to motorists as they travel along Highway 101, north of San Rafael.

Remember When?

"Emporium, Northgate, Opens Tomorrow."

This headline appeared in the Independent-Journal on July 29, 1964, as Marin County's largest regional Shopping Center received a major addition. Since then, the Northgate Mall has expanded to more than 50 stores, including the recently opened Sears, Roebuck and Co.

Marin's newest and largest department store will open its doors for business tomorrow.

Emporium Marin, the three-story, 208,000 square-foot-building, for which ground was borken in the Northgate Regional Shopping Center 15 months ago, will have its official ribbon cutting ceremony at 9:15 a.m. in front of the northeast entrance.

The huge department store leads the list of a number of Bay Area merchants who will open in Northgate Unit Two. Buildings under construction are expected to be ready for them about the first of the year.

The Emporium building, designed by Welton Becket and Associates, has two complete floors of 90,000 square feet each, and a smaller third floor of 28,000 square feet which is expected to be expanded later to 62,000 square feet. Escalators and an automatic passenger elevator ply between the floors.

Blue colored, rough-textured split brick have been used in the exterior finishing.

Hiring of the Emporium staff was started this spring. Aside from a small group of executives, the entire personnel is made up of Marin County residents.

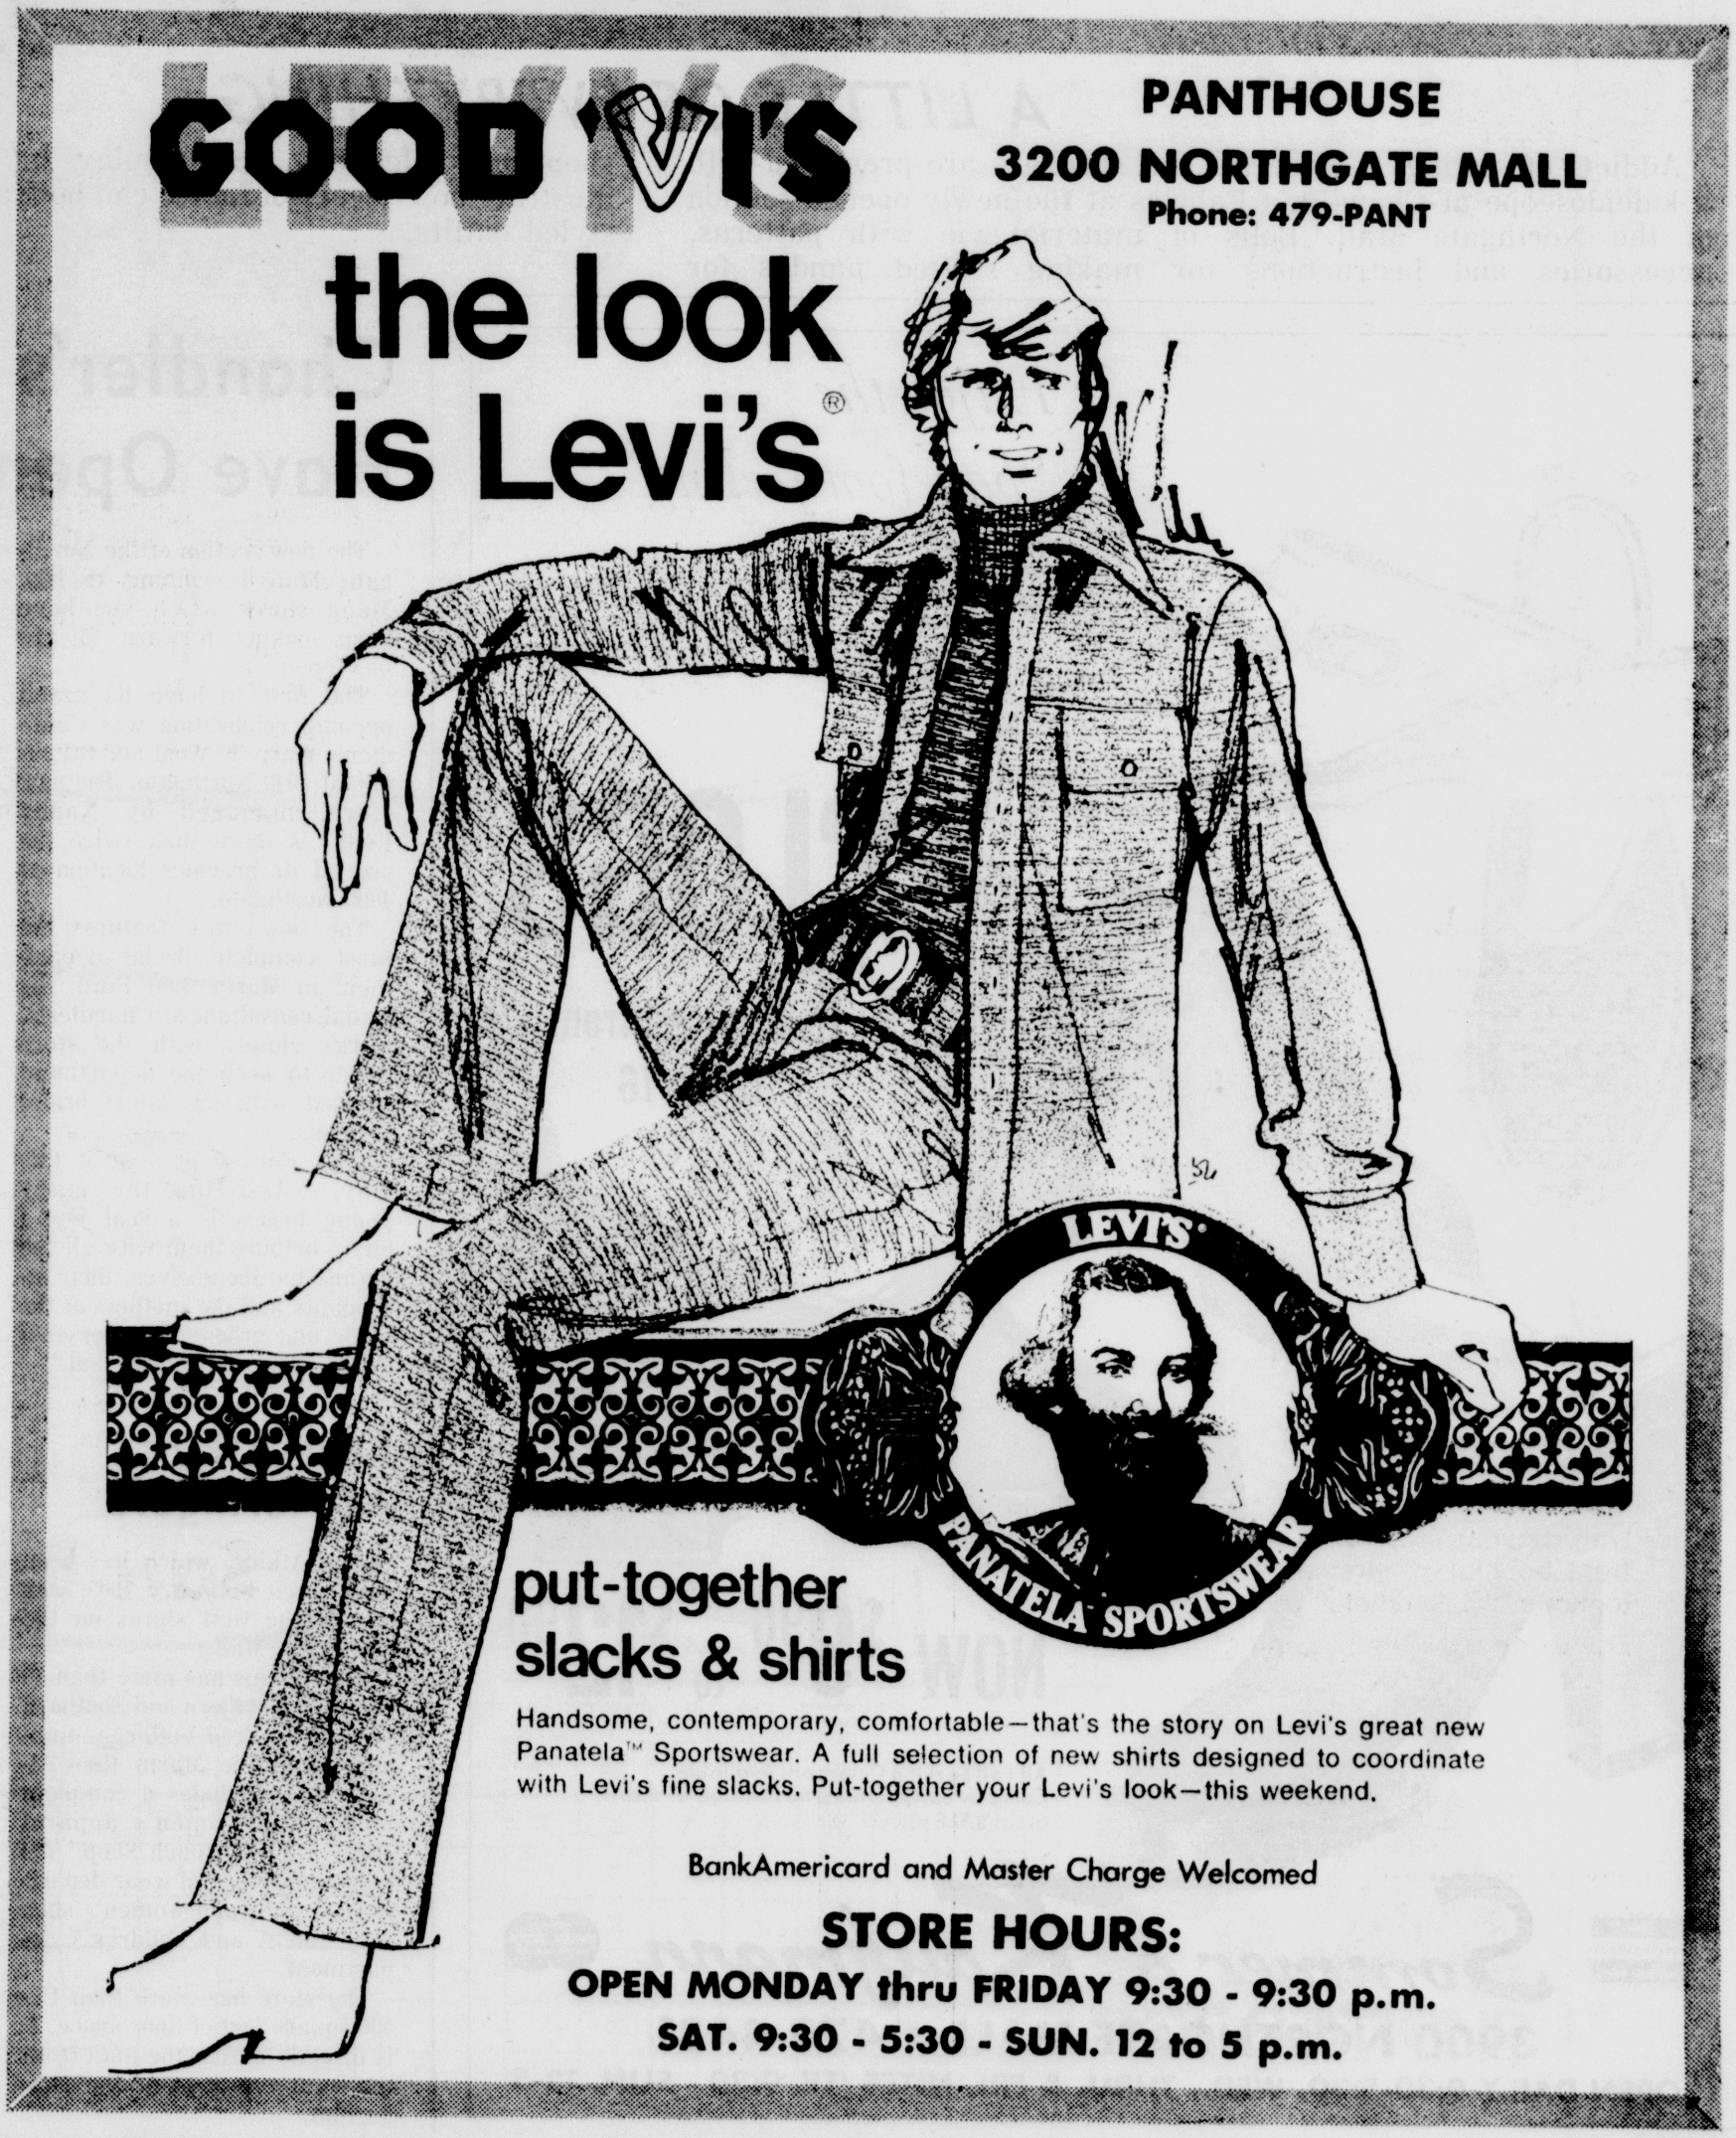
FDA Clarifies Enzyme Confusion

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration recently clarified the confusion about whether enzymes might be a health hazard or a pollutant.

The FDA released a report of an 11-month study made at its request by the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council. The report confirmed that enzyme detergents are safe for consumer use, are biodegradable and therefore probably do not cause pollution.

Sick Time

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Health Insurance Institute says respiratory ailments force more workers —especially women — off the job than any other acute condition. The days lost to respiratory illness were figured by the U.S. Public Health Service. Over a 10-year period, illnesses among male workers averaged around seven days a year and among women, nine days.



A LITTLE OF EVERYTHING

Addicts of sewing, needlecraft and stitchery are presented with a kaleidoscope at Chandler's Fabrics at the newly opened section of the Northgate Mall. Bolts of material vie with patterns, accessories and instructions for making stuffed pandas for shoppers' selection. And display in the front store windows illustrate how pieces of fabric can be transformed into attractively styled outfits.

Chandler's First To Have Opening Fete

The new section of the Northgate Mall is coming to life. Many stores which you have been looking forward to are now open.

The first to have its grand opening celebration was Chandler's Warp 'N Woof and Stitchery at 6040 Northgate. The new store, managed by Nancy Leith, is more than twice the size of its previous location at 4000 Northgate.

The new store features the most complete bridal department in Marin. Leu Ford, the bridal consultant at Chandler's, works closely with the store buyer to keep the department stocked with the latest bridal fashions.

Mrs. Ford expressed it this way, "Assisting the many young brides is a real joy. I enjoy helping them with all the details for themselves, their attendants and the mothers of the bride and groom. The personal attention is very important."

Another new department for Chandler's is its Stitchery, managed by Pamela Sandlin and featuricg Paternayon Persian yarns, needle point, knitting and crocheting supplies.

Classes in all types of stitchery are being taught by Sylvia Campbell.

The fabric selection has been expanded to include imports and designs, woolens and knits. New groups of holiday fashion fabrics currently are arriving.

All fabrics at Chandler's are hand selected by Mrs. E. S. Chandler who, with her son Stephen Chandler, owns three fabric stores in the Bay Area.

Their first store in San Mateo opened in 1946 and the second in Stonestown, San Francisco, about 12 years ago. The Chandlers have been in Marin since 1965.

Roos-Atkins At Northgate

Roos-Atkins, which has been open since February 1965, was one of the first stores on the Northgate Mall.

Roos-Atkins has more than 50 stores in Northern and Southern California. Fred Vallerga, manager, said the Marin Roos-Atkins store includes a complete men's and women's apparel shop, a "Red Coach Shop" for teen-agers, formal wear department, men's and women's shoe department and children's department.

The store has more than 15,000 square feet of floor space. It is directly across the mall from the west entrance of the Emporium.

Glowing Tape On Bikes Aids Drivers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Decorating a bicycle with glow-in-the-dark tape will help automobile drivers see the bike when you are riding at night or at dusk.

Optometrists say the most visible bike decoration is an open triangle of about fiv square inches in size. Retroflective triangles can be seen by approaching drivers at a distance of about 800 feet. That's about the length of two and one-half football fields.

PLENTY OF STYLES — Good Vi's in the Northgate Shopping Center Mall offers a complete stock of Levi's. The store just completed its first year in the center.

Good Vi's Observes First Year At Mall

Good Vi;s, the all Levi's Panthouse, located across from the Emporium on the Northgate Mall, has just completed a highly successful first year of business in Marin County.

It carries 330 square feet of the complete Levi's line of clothes ranging from matching Levi's leather outfits, to the full line of men's double knit slacks, plus a large selection of Levi's for gals.

Their expanded hours of 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m. every night of the week plus Saturday and Sunday hours means you can buy Levi's about any time of the day or week.

Make Thick Paste To Combat Mildew

CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — To combat mildew which has discolored grouting in shower tile, make a thick paste of household bleach and baking soda.

The paste should be about the consistency of toothpaste, advises the Middlesex County Extension Service, and should be applied with a tooth brush. After scrubbing the area, rinse with clean water and wipe dry.

Puzzler: Why More Women Than Men?

CHICAGO (UPI)—There is a wide variance in the boy-girl ratio throughout the world. What ever the place the girls always start out as the minority.

The scientific findings demonstrate the advantage in being a girl, for the females quickly reduce the male lead and generally attain numerical superiority.

In all races of mankind, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, more boys than girls are born. However, extensive research still has failed to establish any reason for the excess of boys and the situation remains one of the world's great mysteries.

The sex disparity, which may have started with earth's first human community, became particularly puzzling when it was discovered that other species which have the same type of sex-determining mechanism as man show an excess of females.

The worldwide ratio generally is considered to average about 106 males born to every 100 females, a figure that applies to the white population of the United States. Among United States Negroes the ratio is 102.6 males to 100 females.

The racial difference is not peculiar to the United States, as studies in Cuba and Cape Province have shown similar contrasts between Negro and Caucasian sex ratios —but always with the boys outnumbering the girls.

The boys in Greece and Korea have the greatest lead of all. In each nation, 113 boys are born to every 100 girls. Spain is not far behind with boys leading 111 to 100.

The boy baby lead has stimulated considerable speculation. For example, attempts have been made to correlate sex ratio with the weather. Others have sought to connect the male lead with socioeconomic status, with the effect of war — either before or after — and even with illegitimacy.

However, scientific validity for all these is yet to be established, and even if such correlations were accepted the question of precisely why more boys are born remains unanswered.

Throughout the world there also is an excess of male deaths —and this too is something of a mystery. The excess of male deaths occurs even in infancy, when "social causes" are absent.

A Busy Life

Most charms lead a busy fashion life. Designed with clever, easy-to-attach snap rings, new charms from one manufacturer can move from bracelets to neck chains and ropes with the greatest of ease. Charms make good gifts.

READY FOR HOLIDAYS

New maternity wear is now in stock at the Mother-To-Be-Store at the Northgate Mall, reports Adelane Horwitz, owner. This pant suit is made of herringbone tweed with a wide cuff pant. It is worn over a beige ribbed maternity body shirt. The store also offers a wide variety of infant wear and playthings.

Armoire Doesn't Store Armor, But Just About Anything Else

It's probably safe to say that it's never used for its original purpose any more, but there's no question that it is enjoying one of the biggest comebacks in home fashions history.

It is the armoire.

Although there are very few suits of armor around for it to store these days, the armoire is pressed into service to store just about everything else.

Its renewed popularity probably began with the dwindling size of living space in modern housing, and by the 1960s Americans began looking in antique shops for the armoire imported from Europe where it had never stopped being a familiar household item.

Now armoires have finally become a staple in almost every furniture collection made in this country. And for very good reason. They store anything, anywhere? and as a bonus, look handsome, too. Prices of European orginals which made armoires inaccessible to many people, are no longer a problem.

Armoires now appear as part of many budget-priced bedroom groups. There are armoires included in most of the four- and five-piece bedroom sets which can be had for $199 to $399 complete. The armoires are about $100 to $120 bought separately. They have capacious storage in the 60-inch height, with two very large drawers and two shelves hidden behind the doors, and an extra drawer at the base.

The versatility of the armoire's interior makes it adaptable for all sorts of uses all overthe house. Besides the most obvious use in the bedroom for clothes, it makes a great television-from-bed cabinet. On a room landing it can store linens handy to bathroom and bedrooms.

In a foyer it adds a notable presence as well as a functional purpose for all sorts of things you need on your way outdoors — hats, gloves, scarves, or maybe an odd baseball mitt and bat, depending on the contents and habits of your family.

In a dining room, it can become a china cabinet. And armoires that have been turned into bars and stereocabinets in living rooms and dens are legion.

'Ghosts' Are Safe For Halloween

NEW YORK (UPI) — On Halloween, drivers can see a white-sheeted ghost better than any other goblin.

The American Optometric Association says white material is safely visible to a driver traveling up to a speed of 50 miles an hour. Even ghosts can be safer by decorating their sheets with retroreflective material and by carrying a flashlight or battery-operated lantern.

Opening Of Granat Bros Is Recalled

According to Randolph, it was probably one of the most glittering ceremonies on record. Local dignitaries presiding over the ceremoney literally cut a fortune to launch the Granat store.

The traditional ribbon was replaced by a strand of 1,000 pearls. The diamond-studded shears used to cut the 39-foot long "ribbon" was valued at $50,000 and "that's the way it should be", Randolph beamed, "because jewelry is glamorous and exciting. A $50,000 pair of shears was admittedly extravagant, but it did let people know what Granat Bros was all about."

"And you can also turn heads without spending $50,000", said Randolph, "if you use a little inventiveness. Try a moderately priced gold chain-around-the-forehead or a pin-on-a-wide brimmed hat. Lace a rope of pearls through your hairpiece."

And Randolph should know. He has been with the 15-store Granat Bros firm since 1959 and is experienced in every phase of the glamorous jewelry industry — from buying and designing to administration.

When Careers Are Sidetracked

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (UPI) — What happens to bright, educated women who permanently set aside their career potential to keep house and raise children?

A group, in interviews with University of Michigan psychologist Judith L. Birnbaum, said they had reached middle age feeling a lack of personal development and self-esteem.

Tips For Swimmers Given In New Book

"After each swimming session," writes Shirley Gould in her new book, "Swimming the Shane Gould Way," (Sterling, $5.95), "Shane puts two or three drops of a dilute methylated spirit (alcohol) preparation into each ear after first going through head-shaking motions to get all the water out."

Using the "spirit" ear drops regularly, 15-year-old Olympic champion Shane has avoided sore ears and has gone without ear infection for three yeras. The ear drops dry out the ears, toughen the membranes, and also kill any bacteria.

When Shane found that her hair had thinned and been bleached by the combination of chlorinated water and sunshine, Mrs. Gould reports in her book, she began using a conditioning cream on it, and she wears a bathing cap more frequently. This has improved the situation.

"Using eye-goggles is anther small aid, especially for a really long session," Mrs. Gould writes. "The effect of chlorine in pools varies with the weather, as well as with occasional human error, and sometimes swimmers can experience a painful smarting of their eyes. Eyedrops are helpful after the swim, but some of the effects can be avoided by wearing goggles, especially if they fit snugly around the eye socket. Tinted goggles are a boon when swimming in very hot, bright sunshine."

Mrs. Gould describes other health and beauty practices that Shane has adopted, gives a sample menu from Shane's personal diet, and tells, stroke-by-stroke, what gives Shane her speed. She also tells what it is like to live with a child "star," and how she keeps a balance in their family life.

How Women Make Their Shopping Lists

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two-thirds of working women in one study said they go to the store with a shopping list. They make up their lists by checking their supplies on hand (86 per cent), checking advertising for specials (79 per cent) and asking the family (58 per cent).

The study was done for the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association.

Ropes Suited To Today's Lifestyle

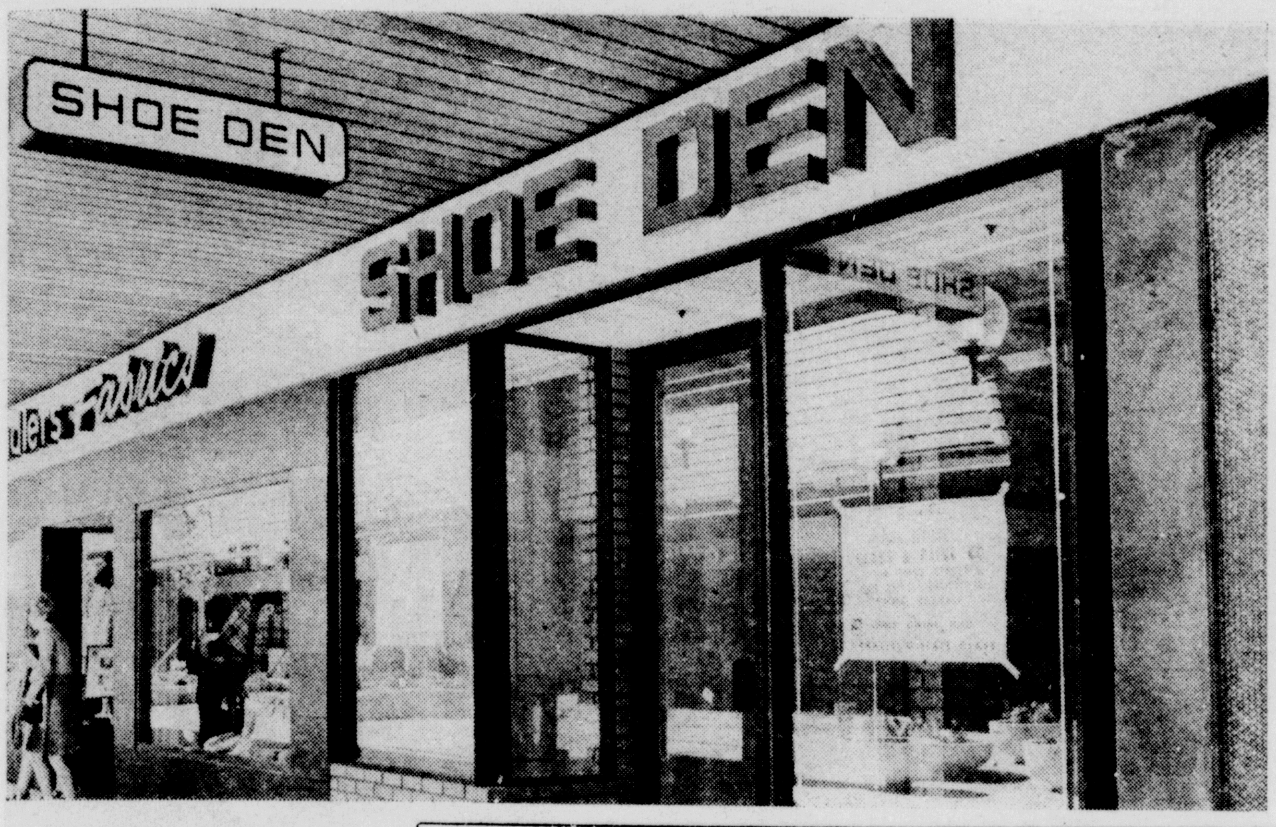
Ideally suited to the lifestyle of today they go with everything from pants to uninhibited party clothes.



FINISHING TOUCHES — Empty display windows tease shoppers as final preparations are made at the Shoe Den at the newly opened section of the Northgate Mall. The bright-colored store with vivid, protruding sign will be offering its wares along with other new stores, all opening in conjunction with the opening of the Sears complex.

Coffee, Etc., Also Located In Sonoma

Coffee, etc., which opened in 1965, started with two employees, Judy and Fred DeBow, owners. There are now two stores. Besides the one at Northgate, there is one at Coddingtown, Santa Rosa.

There are now 16 employees. Coffee, etc., famous for gourmet sandwiches, also features more than 15 grades of coffee.

Pierced Earrings For Fashion Success

Pierced earrings are for fashion success. In gold, silver, white, in classic and high fashion designs, the Monet earrings for pierced ears are said by the manufacturer to be the most comfortable of all.

They have specially-tapered posts, easy-to-put-on clutches and ear-wires that close with the press of a finger.

Jet to Miami and cruise to eight Caribbean ports. Total cost: from $606!

Only American Express and the all-French crew of the M/S Mermoz could fill 13 days with so much extravagance – from only $606 (based on space availability). Including your round-trip jet flight from Los Angeles!

The Caribbean is this year's "in" vacation.

And American Express, the masters of world travel, handpicked the elements of a complete Caribbean cruise for people who deserve a very special vacation this year. All at a price you probably could not match on your own.

From $606 to $1,373 (double occupancy) includes your Group Inclusive Tour air fare (Los Angeles-Miami) via National Airlines. Your transfer from airport to ship.

And all that French cuisine, complimentary vintage wines and good-humored service of the all-French crew of the M/S Mermoz. (Ever had French onion soup topped with cheese and croutons as a 3 a.m. nightcap? You will!)

Eight intriguing ports of call

- St. Thomas
- St. Barthélemy
- St. Maarten
- Martinique
- La Guaira (Venezuela)
- Aruba
- Haiti
- Grenada

American Express has prepared a free cruise book that fully describes the cruise, the M/S Mermoz – its resort life – and all of the eight Caribbean ports.

The expertise of American Express makes this 13-day cruise vacation an extraordinary value. Divide the cost of the trip by port and you find that it costs as little as $71.62 to reach the duty-free shopping of St. Thomas. And the famous white beaches of Aruba!

Send for your copy of The Caribbean Cruise book. Or pick one up from your travel agent or nearest American Express office.

Avant Garde Bober Switches To More Traditional Designs

NEW YORK (UPI) — Franklin Bober has seen the light. His beard and moustache are gone. His shoulder length hair has been shorn to a mass of closely cropped curls which he can't do anything about. And his avant garde clothes have given way to traditionalism— which he sells.

Bober, 27, made a name for himself a few years back as an avant garde designer for the youth market in the family-owned business — big, floppy pants with big cuffs, ankle length greatcoats which fastened in odd ways, floppy brimmed hats and the like.

Those clothes still sell to a lot of very young men but now the Bober story is pure traditionalism for the 20 to 40-year-old market which includes —men who have a lot more money. It is a return to the soft shoulder suit, and there seems to be no other way to say it: The updated traditional.

Bober has formed his own firm with Arny Cohen, 28, who does wear a full beard and who is a friend of years' standing. They met while working at Joseph H. Cohen & Sons eight years ago and then went separate ways —Bober to work for his family firm, Clinton Swan, and Cohen to open an East Side Boutique, A Man and a Woman. They combined their names for the new company name Berhen & Co., which most people misspell as a matter of course.

The new traditional look —a two-button jacket with shape and wide lapels —is a new youth look "for the guy who is buying his first suit, for the guy coming back from the kooky look that was a product of the recent clothing revolution," Bober says.

It is not just the cut of the clothes that brings back the elegance of the traditional look but the fabric as well—n knits, to begin with. And very few synthetic fibers. It is a look of flannel, of British worted, classic gunchecks, classic Tartans, a d whipcord whicl hasn't een around for a long time.

It started in spring with a return to seersucker and Madras and baby cords for summerwear, but updated seersucker and Madras. For fall there are more classics plus a return to vests and, in a lot of cases, pleated trousers.

"There are only two buttons," Bober says. "It is the look for shaped clothing. We have cut down on flare, though trousers are still full, and pleats for fall will be in the mainstream instead of just the fringe area of fashion as they are now.

"The kind of company we are ... I think we are at the beginning of an era like when traditional manufacturers started in the early 1940s (with introduction of the old three-button Ivy League soflt shoulder suit) Some of the old firms are still doing business but they aren't with it anymore. Some of them are failing.

"We started out in a little loft in downtown Manhattan (in 1970) and the first year we sold a million dollars worth of clothes. So we moved uptown and increased the size of the firm." Bober, in the years he worked for the family business, increased sales there from $1.5 million a year to $5 million.

I learned a lot as a designer," he said. "The first thing is never go to work for your family. The second is that I got a solid background on manufacturing —a designer must know the whole ball of wax. When I went into business for myself it was design, manufacture, sales, finance. The whole thing.

"I also learned to do whatever was necessary for business, so the hair and beard went in January this year. My wife was glad."

FROM LOUNGING TO PARTYING

Everything in footwear from sneakers and hiking boots to high-style dress shoes are offered at Regal Shoes at the newly opened section of the Northgate Mall. Mens and boys footwear are attractively displayed in the store windows, the covered walkway and the interior of the store.

Longtime Petalumans Own Shop

Bathtique at Northgate Mall is a franchised operation of a national chain. It opened in June 1971. The store is owned by Charlene and Douglas Arthur, long-time residents of Petaluma, where Arthur is the principal of Kenilworth Junior High School.

Bathtique on the mall has most anything a bath shop can offer, from wall hardware to soft flowing shower curtains in an array of colors.

There are five fashion councilors to help customers decorate bathrooms and coordinate colors and decor.

New and unusual items are arriving almost daily for the next month at Bathtique, the Arthurs said.

Family Households

CHICAGO (UPI) — The U.S. Savings and Loan League reports that at the end of 1971 there were 64.3 million households in the U.S. Of these, 51.8 million were "family" households, and 12.5 million were households of bachelors, unmarried women, widows and the like.

Wicker, Formerly Summer-Only, Now Is Used The Year 'Round

By MARILYN HOFFMAN
The Christian Science Monitor
News Service

NEW YORK — Wicker, once only a summertime delight, has become a year-round household staple. It grows each season in decorative importance, furnishes as many big-city apartments these days as seaside beach houses.

Of course, it goes by the ton into elegant Southampton summer houses and Palm Beach winter pads. It also helps bring that fresh, citrusy, sun-dappled "Florida look" to interiors scattered from Hoboken to Des Moines. It contributes to the popular Hawaiian "lanai" ambiance. And it helps numerous "garden rooms" whisper a sort of gladelike cool.

It serves now as it has for 40 years as porch furniture. You can buy today exactly the kind of wicker pieces in which your grandparents rocked away those lazy summer afternoons.

Its quality and price run the gamut. Career singles and young marrieds in cities across the U.S. buy inexpensive wicker for first apartments. In New York, they go to Azuma, to Nippon Crafts, to the Wickery, to Be Seated, and even to Woolworth's for wicker bargains.

Department stores show their own range of wicker. This summer Lord and Taylor is featuring the pure, tailored chick of Danny Ho Fong's rattan furniture from Hong Kong.

Bloomingdale's is showing a new white wicker collection that includes a Louis XV console and matching armoire. It is displayed on a white marble floor against bright, sunny yellow walls. Squared-off wicker stack units and etageres are trimmed with shiny chrome.

Plenty of decorator sources, such as Luten, Clary, Stern,and Thalia Flak, Inc., also show the kind of stylish wicker that many New Yorkers are electing to live with on a year-round basis. It is by no means cheap.

Walters Wicker Wonderland at 991 Second Avenue offers dozens of styles, from fussy Victorian curves and curlimaques to straight-lined Parsons themes. This showroom, which serves both the public and the decorator, paints to any color the customer specifies and upholsters cushions with the customer's own fabrics. A $155 chair, for instance, costs $20 to spray paint, and $55 to upholster with the 4½ yards of the customer's fabric.

Walters owns its own factory in Hong Kong and creates its own designs and specifications. A baby's crib is $175 and $35 extra if it is painted. A temple bed that is every little girl's dream costs $675; and a painted bookcase, $265.

White, they say at Walters, is the paint-color most in demand. Bright yellow and parrot green come next. This store haz been importing wicker since 1957 and today has one of the most varied inventories in New York.

Decorating The Dormitory Room

The fashion in decorating dorm rooms or a teen-ager's room at home: use sheets and towels.

Turn the room into a cheery, colorful place with bright sheets and towels in different ways, suggests Seventeen magazine. To turn a sheet into a curtain, just loosen the side of the hem on the bottom of the sheet, put a tension rod through the hem, and hang it.

Luck And Love

IN THE MALL — Hastings, which opened its first store in San Francisco in 1884, is a major store in the Northgate Center Shopping Mall. It is located on the mall near the main fountain.

Hastings Traces Its Opening To Early San Francisco Days

By 1884, San Francisco had firmly established itself as a city. Quieter and more matured than it had been six years before, when the discovery of gold had suddenly snapped her into a bustling, brawling little town, she became a place where people considered living permanently, now that some of the sheer nervous gloss was gone.

That was the year Hastings began business.

In the early years, when Montgomery Street was the shopping center and promenade of San Francisco, Hastings was located in the Lick House at the corner of Sutter and Montgomery streets.

Today Hastings has stores in Oakland, the Peninsula, Sacramento and elsewhere throughout Northern California.

A complete line of men's as well as women's fashions is featured, with such names as Hart, Schaffner and Marx, Hickey-Freeman, Arrow, Hathaway and other major brands.

Bill Shaw is the Northgate store manager.

A Second Grand Opening Held

March 11, 1965 was a big day at the Northgate Shopping Center ... it was grand opening day. There was music and fireworks and crowds and all the excitement of a theatrical event.

That day marked the opening of phase one of the growth of what is now known as "the mall".

And Oct. 14, 1972 was another big day at the mall, as the completion of phase two was celebrated with more music and crowds and excitement.

Those two grand opening celebrations — seven and a half years apart — symbolize, in a way, the long and risky path trod by developers whose goal is to provide a clean, safe, attractive shopping center to a growing community.

It started 13 years ago, in 1959, when the developers acquired an option for part of the Freitas family dairy ranch, north of San Rafael. These men envisioned a shopping complex vastly different from the cold, unattractive commercial buildings being constructed throughout the state at that time.

The kind of attraction they wanted to build takes time. Market research, planning, design, city and county approvals, leasing — it all takes time; especially when you want the best in every respect.

The owners and merchants of the mall feel that they do have the best in every respect. The mall is the largest shopping center in Marin County — the county's only true regional shopping center. Its store operators are proud of its malls and parking lots, its luxurious greenery, its quiet and elegant ambiance.

They welcome the new stores — the "phase two stores" — to the mall.

Carpets Are Key To Color Schemes

The color around us is one of the biggest influences on our lives, we're told by psychologists. They have proved how it can profoundly affect our moods, our personalities and our emotions.

Trouble with color is, it's hard to pin down: there are almost as many shades and as many preferences as there are people who sea them. So when you're planning something new for the home, how do you find the colors you really want to live with, and where do you start?

In the first place, the choice has to be personal: there are obviously colors one likes and others one loaths. But one can find lots of guidance when everybody in the home furnishings business — designers, manufacturers and stores — is getting together in a special effort to give a helpful hand with suggestions of what looks good with what, to create a total look, in an idea called "New Dimensions in Living."

Laying the groundwork, literally, is carpet. Color authority House and Garden magazine, which has been charting color trends and forecasting colors-to-come for more than 25 years, believes carpet can be the key to the whole color scheme.

And this fall, selected carpet stores nationwide will be designated as House and Garden carpet color centers. With carpet manufacturers producing a rainbow for every taste and every budget, there's no doubt that carpet color has become a first dimension of decorating planning.

Hard to believe that barely 20 years ago there were about six basic carpet colors, none of them exciting. Yet the tremendous freedom of choice we have today also makes decisions harder. The hundreds of carpet color centers across the country will all show that vast array of color choice, but at the same time try to help you make your way through the maze of shades and show how they'll look in the total scheme of things.

Each year House and Garden foresees the growing popularity of new colors, and for 1973 the editors are predicting six fresh arrivals on the color scene. On the soft side, there are Shell, Ming Cream and Blue Flower, while the rich tones will be sweet chocolate, orange peel, and garnet red. All are versatile, working equally well as accents or as backgrounds.

The rich colors, for instance, are shown in the September issue, used on walls as glossy backgrounds for lots of white. A trend to note is that more than a third of the 36 House and Garden Colors for 1973 are "down-to-earth." ranging from pale pongee, tawny velvet brown, to cool charcoal, and described as sociable colors that enjoy each other's company.

New Way Of Living Brings New Kitchens

Everybody's spending more time cooking just because they enjoy it. And because they like to have friends around them while in the midst of culinary creations, there's a trend toward casual living, with gourmet cooking and informal dining going hand in hand.

This new way to live and entertain accounts for the increasing popularity of the live-in kitchen, a whole new meeting place for family and guests. The once-separate work room in which the cook had to stand on the sidelines is fast becomign the focal point of household activity.

And it looks very different, too. There's a variety of furniture, appliances and kitchen utensils that can help you put together an area that suits your particular personality and work needs. Just make sure that the layout will be practical as well as attractive.

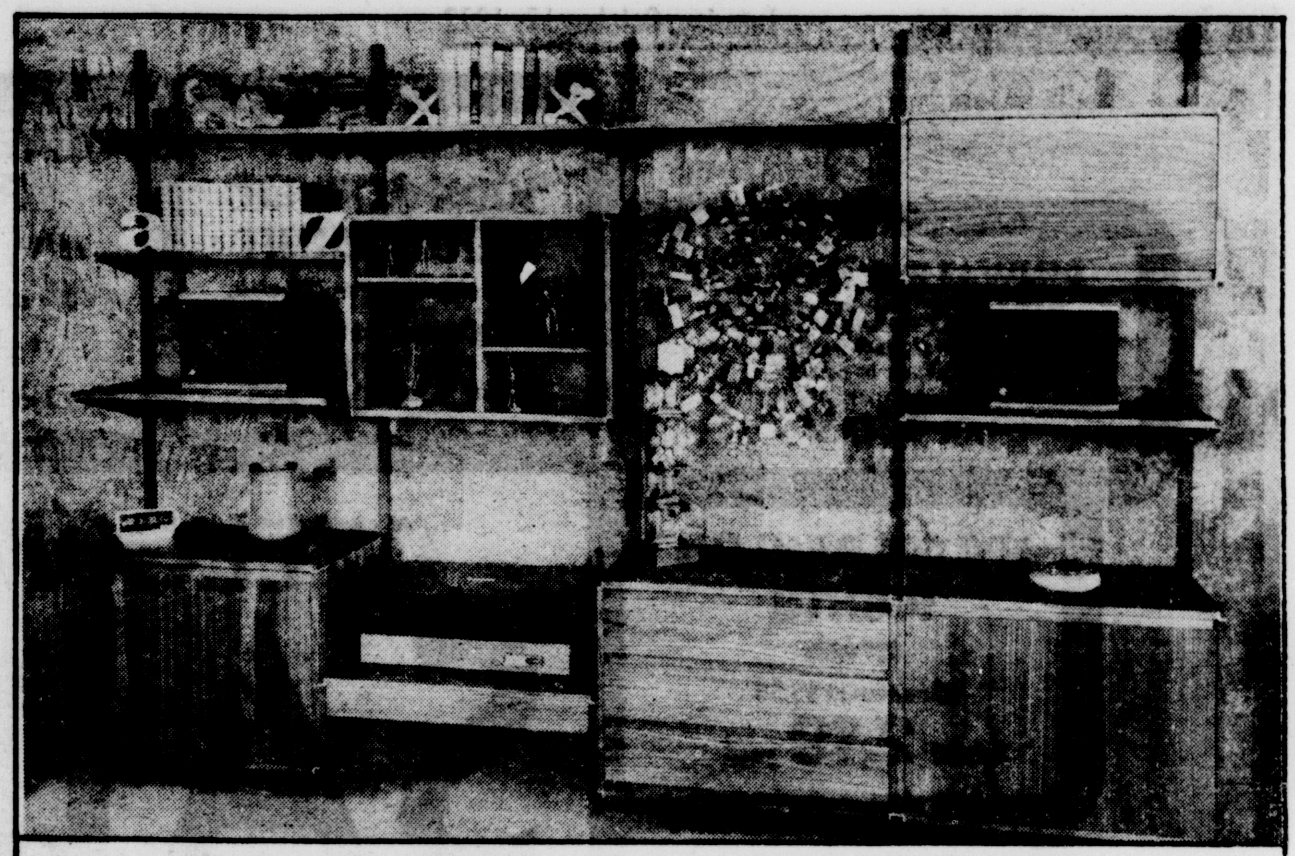
Consider the space required for easy cooking, for convenient serving and comfortable eating. It makes no sense to sacrifice function for fashion when it is so easy to achieve both.

One good way to help organization and looks is by adding the kind of wall-hung storage cabinets and shelves usually associated with the living room or den, but which are perfectly adaptable to the "new" kitchen.

Denmark's Royal System made in rich, oiled woods has cabinets and shelves that provide lots of room for display and storage of those extra pieces of gourmet cookware, special dishes, or attractive pottery, and colorful cooking accessories, with caginet tops giving extra serving space. The flexibility of Royal System also allows pieces to be added or moved around very easily when necessary.

Another way to bring excitement to the live-in kitchen is with wallcoverings and paint. You can mix and match patterns on cabinet and drawer panels to create a look that's all your own. Of course, the wallcoverings should be able to withstand heat, smoke and cooking stains but that's no problem these days. Fabric-backed vinyls like Birge's new Wall Fabrics are scrubbable and are extra tough.

And the innovations in kitchen materials, furnishings and decorating ideas keep coming as the whole family takes to the saucepans with Mom. More leisure, and the growing interest in nutrition and creative cookery are making the dine-in kitchen in today's household the place where it's all happining.



Enjoy the wide open spaces-Indoors!

Our job is making walls worth staring at. We do it with furniture that's made to go on the walls. And the walls? They never had it so elegant.

We call it modular wall system furniture. It means that at last you have beautiful furniture that is beautifully functional.

More. You can add to, split up, and rearrange Interior Systems furniture to your heart's content. That's part of the system: furniture you can live with year in and year out.
